Big 3 Meet Soon

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today that he contemplated an early meeting with President Truman and Marshal Stalin, but he did not elaborate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 29—A new and embarrassing question was plumped into the international security conference today by the Ukrainian congress committee of America. The question is:

Could the prospective new league of nations to enforce peace intervene in any nation to put down such an independence movement as the American revolution?

The official answer is:

It could, if the league's security council deemed the independence movement "likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security."

Want Independence

The Ukrainians proclaim themselves as determined to recover their former independence of Russia as were the American colonists to obtain independence of Great Britain. Under the peace league plan evolving here, however, it is apparent that the American colonists would have been out of luck, had there been a peace league in those days in which other European powers had supported England.

At the same time it is pointed out that the big nation veto power, which in the new peace league could operate to prevent the league's intervention to suppress an independence movement, would have operated to save the American revolutionists. For it was France that gave decisive aid to the American colonies in revolt.

The peace league plan contains elaborate provisions for pacific settlement of international disputes and use of force to maintain peace in any controversy that does not yield to such treatment. The security council is directed to decide in each case "whether or not the continuance of the particular dispute is in fact likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, and, accordingly, whether the security council should deal with the dispute, and, if so, whether it should recommend terms of settlement.

Intervention Provided

There is a proviso, however, that "nothing contained in this charter shall authorize the organization to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the state concerned or shall require the members to submit such matters to settlement under this charter."

There is, however, a string attached to this proviso. It is the stipulation that "this principle shall not prejudice the application" of peace enforcement provisions. That is, if the security council decides that the dispute is not purely domestic and is likely to disturb inter-

Big War Plant Is Shut Down by Studebaker

Production of B-17 aircraft engines at the giant Studebaker plant, 5555 Archer av., was terminated yesterday by the air technical service command as a part of the army air force's cut-back program.

Notice of the shutdown of the 20 million dollar plant was given to the 2,500 employes of the company by posters thruout the factory. They stated: "The war department has canceled its contract with Studebaker for the manufacture of airplane engines as of the closing period ending this day."

Cancellation of the Studebaker contracts had been predicted by the army air forces for the end of June, but suddenly was moved ahead one month. The Studebaker plant is the first complete war plant casualty of the reconversion period in the Chicago area.

Fort Wayne Plant to Close

The company's plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., also was ordered closed immediately, with the allowance, however, of about 10 days' time to complete work now in progress in some departments.

The sudden closing was assailed by Joseph Mattson, district director of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO].

"It's quite a jolt for the workers," Mattson said.

Will Receive Bonus

John Waner, financial secretary of local 998, also said that the abrupt shutdown was disturbing. The only immediate solace, he said, will be the payment tomorrow of what will amount to a severance pay. This is a 2½ per cent bonus based on the time since an employe's last anniversary of employment. The computation range runs from one to 12 months.

Mattson and some other union officials scouted war man power commission assertions that an acute labor shortage exists in Chicago, and questioned the prospects of quick, comparable reëmployment for the Studebaker workers.

The WMC in Chicago has stated that 22,000 workers are "desperately" needed in local plants. It was also said that South Bend, Ind., and Fort Wayne have more than enough jobs for displacements there. To place the local Studebaker people United States employment service agents will appear at the affected plants and make known labor needs.

Production Record Praised

Col. Frank L. Finkenstaedt, chief of the mid-central district of the air technical service command, lauded Studebaker's production record. No labor strikes occurred and the only labor disputes developed within the union as conservative elements ousted communistic elements.

[Several big war plants disclose impending lay-offs. Story on page 32.]

[In Washington, D. C., WPB Chairman Krug estimated that war plants will discharge 2,900,000 workers in three months, and predicted unemployment of 1,900,000 as a result. Details on page 18.]

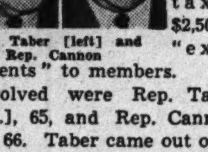
Taber-Cannon Fiscal Debate Turns Fistic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]



Rep. Taber [left] and Rep. Cannon

Washington, D. C., May 29—Two veteran congressmen engaged in a tussle behind closed doors today following a dispute over the proposed tax free $2,500 a year "expense payments" to members.

Involved were Rep. Taber [R., N. Y.], 65, and Rep. Cannon [D., Mo.], 66. Taber came out of the encounter with a cut and swollen upper lip. According to the New Yorker, he pinned Cannon down on a couch and held him there until he "cooled off" after stopping a Cannon punch with his mouth.

Cannon refused to discuss the incident, but declined to contradict Taber's account. It occurred in Cannon's own office in the capitol.

Taber Gives His Story

Taber told reporters he was summoned by Cannon, who is chairman of the appropriations committee, to the Missourian's office. Cannon reportedly objected to remarks on the house floor earlier today by Taber, who urged that the $2,500 expense allowance, already approved once by the house, be defeated.

Taber gave this account of the meeting:

"Mr. Cannon said some things that weren't true and I told him so. He got angry and tried to get me to hit him. I wouldn't hit him. If I had, it would have killed him.

"He called me names, and I started to walk out of his office. He called me back and said 'Are you running away?' I said, 'No,' and he swung. He landed one punch.

"I grabbed him by both wrists and bent him back over the couch and held him until he cooled off."

Second Clash of Session

Both Cannon and Taber are serving their 23d year in the house. Taber, whose home is in Auburn, N. Y., is a husky white haired six footer. Cannon, from Elsberry, Mo., is slight of build. Taber was a football player in high school.

Today's affair was the second fistic encounter between house members this year. In February Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] slugged it out on the house floor with Rep. Hook [D., Mich.] after Hook called Rankin a "liar."

Taber had told the house earlier that he had consistently opposed the grant of the $2,500 allowance to congressmen in addition to their $10,000 salaries. He said that was the "wrong approach" and advocated a flat 15 per cent salary increase to accord with the "Little Steel" pay formula.

RADIO HELPS CLOSE JAW OF A FISHERMAN 200 MILES OUT AT SEA

New Orleans, La., May 29 (AP)—The medical officer of an Alaskan coast guard base used remote control to snap into place the jaw of a fisherman which had locked wide open. The fisherman was on a small boat 200 miles at sea.

The coast guard said here today that faint signals of distress were picked up by Guy B. Delp, radio operator at the remote Alaskan base, who informed Lt. [j. g.] Harry F. Kaack, Clinton, Ia., of the emergency.

Dr. Kaack placed Executive Officer Lt. [j. g.] Edward Nugent of Bad Axe, Mich., before the radio operator and went thru the manipulations of resetting the jaw.

Delp tapped out a description of each motion to the receiver on the fishing boat and the word soon came back: "Instructions carried out. Man now O. K."

WHITE WOMAN FOUND HIDING ON OKINAWA

OKINAWA, May 29 (AP)—Two dozen old women who had been hiding in tombs emerged into the sunlight dazed and bewildered today as marines of the 6th division passed thru the ruins of Naha, Okinawa's capital.

One was a white woman about 50 years of age. Nobody had an explanation as to how she happened to live on the island, but it was assumed she was a descendant of some early day European shipwrecked seaman.

Near Naha are six tombs of American sailors and marines who died here during Commodore Perry's visit to the island in 1854.

Personal Secretary of Hitler Taken by Yanks

U. S. 7TH ARMY HDQ., May 29 (AP) — Christa Schroeder, personal secretary to Hitler for years and one of the persons closest to him, has been taken into custody near Berchtesgaden, 7th army headquarters announced tonight. She was one of the secretaries and stenographers the army is picking up for possible use as witnesses by the war crimes commission.

Announces France Will Lift Censorship Soon

PARIS, May 29 [Reuters]—Pierre Tietgen, French minister of information, announced tonight that censorship would be lifted in the near future. A system of "self censorship" would be instituted, he added, with penalties for the publication of false news or news disclosing secrets of military operations.

Lady Scribes See Truman's Tall Satin Bed

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special]—On a nightstand beside the high canopied bedstead in which President Truman sleeps—the bed formerly occupied by John and Anna Boettiger during the Roosevelt administration—lies a well thumbed, 15 cent paper edition of Hugh Addis' mystery story, "The Dark Voyage."

The President's nightly reading choice was observed today as Mrs. Truman and the Trumans' daughter, Margaret, escorted women journalists on an inspection tour of the newly decorated White House.

Truman, who chose the same oval study and adjoining bedroom occupied by his predecessor, had the six foot tall bed moved into his room from the former Lincoln study. It is draped in steel blue satin.

Harry Hopkins Slept There

Previous occupants of the bed, besides the Boettigers, include Harry Hopkins and his bride, during their several months stay at the White House, and King George VI. of England.

Swept clean of all the knickknacks which delighted Roosevelt, Mr. Truman's room boasts only a Chippendale chest of drawers and massive wardrobe, a brown leather davenport, a chintz wing chair and a table, besides the bed.

Pictures of Margaret and Mrs. Truman are on his dresser.

Next door, in his study, only two books lie on his tidy work desk. These are the second report of "Un-American Activities in California, 1945," and "John Dooley, Confederate Soldier, His War Journal." The 1945 yearbook from his Independence, Mo., high school, "The Gleam," dedicated to Truman, is also on his desk, next to a pad with the penciled notation, "Bob Hope & Co., Mo."

Margaret's Bedroom All Pink

Mrs. Truman's bedroom, so tiny it accommodates only a single bed, and her sitting room, adjoin the President's. She, too, chose the suite occupied by her predecessor as First Lady, but she has had the walls changed from green to a soft violet-gray and white.

Margaret's study is the famous Lincoln bedroom across the hall. The walls are freshly painted blue, with a white dado.

Her tiny adjoining bedroom is painted all pink.

"What a fight I had to get the woodwork painted pink!" Margaret laughed. "Every one warned me it would look terrible."

She also assured reporters two cotton elephants perched on her bedpillows were "Democratic elephants." She said she knew because she made them herself, four years ago.

Tell How Jap Balloons Ride Wind to U.S.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—A government official said tonight that Japan's bomb carrying balloons being sent against America are launched in the home islands and are controled by an automatic ballast dropping device.

Lyle F. Watts, chief of the United States forest service, told in a radio interview how the unmanned balloons operate. The forest service has been assisting the army in preventing damage.

The army and navy recently disclosed that some of the balloons have landed in the western part of this country and said they had caused no property damage.

Watts said the balloons—made of fine layers of silk paper and 35 feet in diameter—are taken to Japanese war plants, where officials "make a lot of speeches, stir up workers to a frenzy, and then launch the balloons from the plant for their trip to the United States."

Ballast Regulates Height

The hydrogen filled bags ascend to heights of 25,000 to 35,000 feet, where they reach air currents which travel constantly from west to east, he asserted. Each time they descend to 25,000 feet from loss of gas a barometric pressure switch automatically drops a sandbag. Release of this sandbag causes the balloon to rise again to about 35,000 feet.

"If the Japs have figured right," Watts said, "the last sandbag has been dropped only after the balloon has reached this country."

A second automatic switch which controls the bombs, then takes over, he continued.

"When the balloon drops to 27,000 feet, a bomb is released. The balloon goes back up, then down again and another incendiary is released and so on as it travels across the United States. When the last incendiary is dropped, a fuse is ignited automatically and sets off a demolition charge which destroys the balloon."

Speed 125 Miles an Hour

The only balloons found on the ground are defective ones which failed to explode.

Watts said the balloons travel up to 125 miles an hour, taking from 80 to 120 hours to reach this country.

He reported the forest service has increased its air patrol to sight as many as possible in the air and shoot them down. It also has increased the number of parachuting fire fighters.

"There is a point I'd like to bring out," the forestry chief said. "We are less worried about this Japanese balloon attack than we are about matches and smokes in the hands of good Americans hiking and camping in the woods. Lumber for crating our war goods going to the Pacific is still a very critical item. We must protect our timber."

ALL TARGETS SMASHED, SAYS B-29 COMMANDER

Yokohama Blazes; Marines Storm Shuri Castle

GUAM, May 30 [Wednesday] (AP)—The heart of Tokyo has been wiped out by Super Fortress fire bomb raids, 21st bomber command headquarters announced today while squadrons of the B-29s were returning from an incendiary assault on Yokohama, new target for the big planes.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, commander of the 21st bomber command, said photographs showed that more than 51 square miles of Nippon's capital lay in ashes as the result of six fire raids.

Destroy All Target Areas

"We have destroyed all of the target areas we have set out to destroy," said Le May, as aides pointed out photographs of areas of destruction which spread in all directions from the palace grounds and up and down the waterfront of Tokyo bay.

Officially, the bomber command reported that a study of reconnaissance photographs showed only minor damage to the imperial palace. A spokesman said "numerous" buildings within the palace yards are destroyed as well as the area adjacent to the palace."

Le May interjected: "We are not aiming to hit the palace; why should we? It's not a military target. But the surrounding area is a military target."

The general said that despite destruction of the greater part of the industrial and governmental areas of Tokyo, he still subscribed to his previous opinion that cities cannot be annihilated by fire bombs alone. He continued:

"I feel you can't toss a few fire bombs into a Japanese city and expect it to burn down—it will not. You can only burn down even the most inflammable sections by spreading over the area a large tonnage of bombs and must concentrate them in the shortest time. If you lay them down like that the city burns down. If you don't, they put it out."

Lose 50 Super Forts

The series of six incendiary raids started last Feb. 25 accomplished the destruction in Tokyo. Loss of B-29s in these missions total 50.

Records of the 21st bomber command show almost 100 important individual targets—principally manufacturing plants – destroyed or damaged.

They include 30 plants turning out heavy war products or electrical equipment, 14 transportation installations, three aircraft plants, eight utilities, three oil plants, 12 military installations, 15 war materials factories, and nine miscellaneous military objectives.

Nearly 500 Super Forts hit Yokohama yesterday in the biggest daylight aerial strike against Japan, igniting block after block of the port city with 3,200 tons of fire bombs.

[The 20th air force in Washington, D. C., said two B-29s were lost in combat.]

Yokohama "Ocean of Fire"

Reconnaissance photographs showed Yokohama covered with great smoke clouds driven before a strong south wind which was sweeping fires thru the city. One returning pilot who described the target area as an "ocean of fire" said he could see smoke rolling north toward Tokyo.

Mustang fighters from Iwo which escorted the bombers shot down 26 out of 140 interceptors, probably destroyed 10 others, and damaged 18. The loss of three fighter planes was acknowledged.

STORM SHURI CASTLE

GUAM, May 30 [Wednesday] (AP)—United States marines stormed their way Tuesday inside the moated, medieval castle of Shuri, keystone strong point in the center of the flanked Japanese defense line on southern Okinawa. It was former headquarters of the Japanese commander on the embattled island.

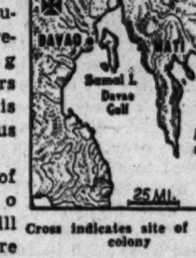
BONES OF YANKS TELL INFAMY OF JAP PRISON CAMP

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DAVAO PENAL COLONY, Mindanao, May 29—I have just seen what happened last September when the Japs evacuated the remaining prisoners from this notorious camp.



Cross indicates site of penal colony

Dozens of men too weak or ill to walk were left behind to die in their beds. I have just examined their skeletons. There are between 60 and 70 of them. It is impossible to determine the exact number. Not all the bodies are those of Americans.

Some of the bodies are mummified. In the hospital building one such shrunken body, clad only in a ragged shirt, was still on its feet, leaning over a sink. From the angle of the head and the wide open mouth it was obvious the victim had died in the act of drinking from the tap.

In a small building apparently used by the prisoners as a chapel another man, a Filipino, had died. During his last minutes he had dragged himself to the altar and embraced it. Death had not broken his grip.

Where Dyess Was Held

Davao prison camp is infamous as the place from which the late Lt. Col. Edward Dyess and other survivors of the Bataan death march made their escape. It is located about 25 miles northwest of Davao city in a sort of no man's land. Under present conditions it is almost impossible of access.

I was able to visit it only thru the coöperation of Lt. Charles Mueller of Ogallala, Neb., a liaison plane pilot who was willing to attempt a landing on a short and narrow road. The landing space proved sufficient for the tiny plane, but natives had to level numerous trees with their bolos before we could take off later.

Find Dead Woman

Altho there are more than 100 buildings of various sizes in the camp — used as a Filipino prison farm before the war — we found most of the bodies in a row of nine low, metal roofed buildings. One of these was the hospital, the others dormitories.

None of the buildings has been

Russians Avoid Return to Homeland

SUPREME HDQ., PARIS, May 29 [Reuters]—The resettlement of Europe's vast numbers of displaced persons is being made more difficult by the fact that many eastern Europeans in the Anglo-American zone do not wish to be returned to the Russian zone, Lt. Col. Vincent Paravicini told a press conference here today.

Col. Paravicini, son of a former Swiss minister to Britain, and chief of the allied liaison section of the displaced persons branch has just arrived from London. He is responsible for sorting out displaced persons before sending them to their own countries.

The Poles, he said, were showing the greatest reluctance to go to the Russian zone, but Latvians, Lithuanians and others also seem unwilling to go.

600,000 Poles May Stay

Since they could not be sent to the Russian zone against their wishes, they remain in the Anglo-American zone. Paravicini estimated that some 600,000 Poles might remain in the zone of the western allies.

According to the Yalta agreement, all Russians, whether they want to or not, must return to the Russian zone if nationality is established. Large numbers, especially those who willingly or unwillingly served Germany, are showing reluctance for the journey.

300,000 RUSSIANS DESERT

Rep. Luce reports victorious troops flee communism and seek freedom. Story on page 4.

As an example of the reports that the Russians are sending people across the demarcation line, Col. Paravicini quoted an unofficial report that confusion was caused recently when a train load of unattended children under 3 was pushed across.

Report Bridges Blown Up

It is also unofficially reported the situation in the area of the American 3d army became so chaotic that the Americans blew up seven bridges in order to bring the matter to a halt.

The number of displaced persons in the Anglo-American area are estimated at: French, 1,200,000; Belgian, 200,000; Dutch, 200,000; Luxembourg, 10,000; Russian, 1,500,000; Poles, 600,000; Yugoslavs, 100,000; Czechs, 60,000; Greeks, 10,000; Danes, 10,000; Norwegians, 10,000.

There are also 350,000 Italians who are treated as former enemy nations.

Marines Enter Shuri Fort; Tokyo Lies in Ruins

Climax of General Assault

It was the climax of a general assault of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. del Valle's division all day yesterday from the northwest thru the Wana ridge sector. Whether the company held its position was not clear from front reports.

C company was on the 1st division's right flank and started its first swift 1,000 yard thrust from almost due west.

The day before the marines twice had been pushed back from the crest of Wana ridge. Yesterday right flank elements advanced far enough to cut in behind these Japanese positions.

On the east flank, joining the 7th infantry division almost due north of Shuri, the Japanese held on stubbornly, apparently in a rearguard stand to cover withdrawals of their main force. The retreating forces had guns and vehicles. For six days these movements have been observed.

Destroy Enemy Guns

From heights south of captured Yonabaru, artillery of the 7th infantry division destroyed several enemy guns and vehicles near the town of Chan, about one mile due south of Shuri.

Seventh division infantrymen entered Kamizato and Tera towns south of Shuri, a front dispatch said, while other units of the division on the eastern flank probed southward to isolate Chinen peninsula.

North and northeast of Shuri, the Japanese even brought out tanks against the 77th and 96th. They came under American artillery fire.

Marines of the 6th division on the west coast invested all of the rubble-strewn city of Naha north of the main harbor.

Marine engineers built foot bridges before dawn Tuesday across the North-South canal in the shell wrecked capital. Then the 22d regiment crossed the stream and seized the area except for scattered pockets of Japanese.

Destroy 115 Planes

With most of the smashed city occupied, the marines also were in position to cross the narrow harbor inlet for an assault on Naha airdrome, a little more than one mile to the south. The air field is the best in the entire Ryukyu chain.

Today's fleet war bulletin, announcing the ground successes on the west coast and in the center of the line, also raised from 77 to 115 the number of enemy suicide planes destroyed Sunday night and Monday morning during attacks on American shipping. The planes sank one light naval unit and damaged 12 others. One light unit also was damaged in a number of small Jap raids Monday night.

NAHA STRANGELY QUIET

NAHA, Okinawa, May 29 (AP)—American marines patroling downtown Naha today found the streets strangely quiet.

Aside from warnings of "look out for mines and snipers" the war seemed far away. Actually, it was just across the harbor where radio towers stood on a stretch of high ground.

Brig. Gen. William T. Clement of Richmond, Va., assistant commander of the 6th marine division, said Naha was the largest city ever invested by the Leathernecks in the history of the corps, which goes back 169 years.

There isn't much left of this city, once inhabited by around 60,000 people. There's not a whole building standing.

Plenty of Jap Money

The shattered bank building, its vault filled with Japanese money, was guarded by Pvt. George Taylor, Wichita, Kas., and Pvt. Ernest Wills, Wilkes Barre, Pa.

"We've money to burn today," grinned Taylor. "We have no idea how much of this stuff is here, but there's plenty."

Japanese paper money and coins were scattered over the floor in an adjoining building, also part of the bank.

On the floor was the nude body of an emaciated woman. Her clothes were under the body. Her's and two other bodies were the only ones seen in the entire downtown district.

On the left side of the narrow concrete main street leading into the city from the north stands what is left of the two story concrete military hospital. A few blocks away is the ruin of the military prison. Beds and all other equipment had been removed by the Nipponese.

Dig Up Mines

Marines patroling the road into the downtown district warned: "Don't get off the side of the road; there's lots of mines." Fifty of the mines have been dug up already, said 1st Lt. Jack Vaughn of Albion, Mich.

Even the Leathernecks were impressed by the absolute devastation of Naha by naval gunfire, artillery shelling, and aerial bombing.

"You can tell she was a beautiful city once, but look at her now," said Pvt. Kenneth M. Porrteus, Seattle, Wash. "It's almost unbelievable. You can't even pick out a landmark."

Everybody, it seemed, hunted for the site of the geisha house—there were supposed to be 3,000 girls there before the American landing—but no one had the slightest idea where it had stood.

EL SALVADOR CEILINGS VOTED

SAN SALADOR, El Salvador, May 29 (AP)—Congress has passed a law establishing ceiling prices for corn, beans, rice, lard, edible oils and sugar at the recommendation of President Castaneda Castro.

DISCLOSE U-BOATS ATTACKED YANKS TRAINING FOR D-DAY

WEYMOUTH, England, May 29 (AP)—German submarines slipped into the English channel and torpedoed several landing craft laden with American troops during a pre-invasion exercise near here last summer, the United States army disclosed today. No details of the incident were given. The submarine episode was revealed in an army announcement that it was discontinuing its activities at the twin ports of Weymouth and Portland, which served as the main bases for the D-day assault on the Normandy beaches.

A year ago this week allied troops began massing on the south coast of England for the invasion. While the actual storming of the beaches may have caught the Germans by surprise, it was no secret to the enemy that something was in the wind. They set out to make things as rough as possible.

Thousands of troops moving into the assembly areas constantly were exposed to air attack. Many staging and assembly bases, regardless of how well hidden or camouflaged they were, suffered direct hits. Casualties were high in some.

29TH DIVISION CASUALTIES SET AT 130 PER CENT

WITH U. S. 29TH DIVISION, Bremen, May 29 (AP)—On its third Memorial day overseas, the Blue and Gray division's casualty list stands at 20,668, or about 130 per cent of the average total strength of the division thruout the war, it was announced at division headquarters here today. This is believed to be about the largest divisional casualty total of the war in Europe.

A total of 4,839 officers and men of the 29th have died as the result of enemy action. Holders of the Purple Heart for wounds number 15,146. In addition, 329 men are still listed as missing in action and 354 as prisoners of war.

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Gerhardt, division commander, will go to Maastricht, Holland, tomorrow for ceremonies at the military cemetery there where many 29th division men are buried.

REVEAL POLISH NAVY SMASHED 81 ENEMY SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 29—The Polish navy sank or damaged 81 enemy vessels during the war, it was disclosed today. Among those sunk were 27 combat vessels.

The losses of the Polish navy, operating in conjunction with the British navy, were one cruiser, four destroyers, two submarines, eight minesweepers, one minelayer, and eight miscellaneous craft.

The war vessels sunk by the Poles included one cruiser, three U-boats, three destroyers, six torpedo boats, one anti-submarine boat, 10 minesweepers, and three miscellaneous craft. Probably sunk were six U-boats, one destroyer, and two torpedo boats, while one battleship was damaged. Coastal batteries manned by Poles and Polish warships downed 90 planes.

BONES OF YANKS TELL INFAMY OF JAPANESE CAMP

damaged. In the surgical ward of the hospital, sprawled on a bed, we found the remains of a young woman. On the floor of the laboratory was the skeleton of a man who must have been young, for there were no fillings in his teeth.

On the floor of one of the dormitories was a skull. Other bones of a skeleton were scattered over a radius of 100 feet. A Filipino civilian who had joined us, said, "Animals chewed many of the bodies."

Bones were similarly scattered in other dormitory structures. In one, where prisoners slept on raised platforms on either side of the central aisle, we counted 11 skulls. Thruout the buildings was a clutter of miscellaneous articles, which suggested a hasty departure. There were blackened tin cans in which food had been cooked, rags of clothing, playing cards, torn books, burst kapok pillows, and empty foot lockers, one of which bore the insigna of the 77th pursuit squadron.

Skull Found on Floor

We entered another building and found a skeleton lying on a crude bunk made of Red Cross boxes. It was undisturbed except that the skull had rolled off the pillow onto the floor. The pillow was stained and matted with black hair.

In still another building we found a series of screened double deck cubicles in which men had slept. Two of them contained skeletons.

On the floor were scattered bones of another skeleton. Beside it was a faded picture of a good looking woman and two small children.

"Did you notice," inquired Lt. Mueller, "that every tooth in these skulls that might have contained gold has been pulled?"

We walked outside and picked our way thru the squash vines. There was a crunching sound—we had walked over a skeleton concealed in the vegetation. We saw that there were many so hidden—apparently those of sick men who had crawled outside and died in the open air.

Twenty Markers in Graveyard

Two more skeletons lay on beds in a thatch roofed shack 100 yards away. A mile away there was a neat cemetery with 20 white markers bearing the names of American officers. The sign read: "American national cemetery."

"Some of the bodies smelled so bad we burned them," volunteered one Filipino civilian.

"The Japs took everybody away the first of last September," he said. "For a long time we were afraid to enter the camp.

"Later we heard what had happened to the Americans who left. They were loaded into a Jap destroyer at Davao. Just before it was to sail your planes came and bombed it. It sank while the Japanese on shore clapped their hands and laughed and shouted. Then they went out and machine gunned the men swimming in the water."

CANADA EASES ARMY DISCHARGE REGULATIONS

OTTAWA, May 29 (AP)—Operational service, wounds, age, and service in World War I. will be considered under new regulations governing the discharge of Canadian army personnel, defense headquarters announced tonight.

Previously the army's reallocation and demobilization program was based only on a point scoring plan with two points for each month of home service, three for overseas service, and 20 per cent more for married men.

This scoring system was applied primarily to establish priorities for sending men back to Canada from the fighting front. Today it was announced that men with scores of more than 180 points can apply for discharge on arrival home, subject to exigencies of the service.

RUSSIA BUILDS BIG APARTMENTS FOR GENERALS

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP)—The soviet union is rewarding its generals with construction of spacious new apartments in various cities across the country for their use.

A. N. Prokofiev, chief of the department of military industrial construction, said in announcing the plan that dwellings for the men who beat the German army in the east would be constructed in Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov, Rostov, Voronezh, and other cities.

The generals' 11 story apartment houses in Moscow will be on Leningrad blvd. and on the Gorky and Smolensk embankment, choice sections of the capital, he announced.

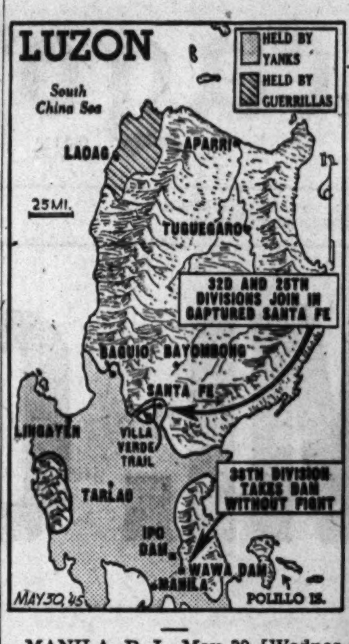
Seize Luzon Dam



MANILA, P. I., May 30 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's 38th infantry division seized Wawa dam undamaged and without a fight Monday to secure the last of Manila's three reservoirs and crack the last fixed Japanese strongpoint immediately east of the capital.

The dam, in a scenic rocky gorge between towering cliffs 20 miles from Manila, was abandoned intact by the Japanese who evidently had been frightened off by the previous day's shelling and bazooka fire.

Gen. MacArthur also reported the 32d division had joined the 25th in captured Santa Fe, on the mountainous southern approach to the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, "bringing to an end organized enemy resistance in this vital area flanking the main highway into the Cagayan valley."

CANADA TO CUT AIR FORCE FROM 165,000 TO 100,000

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29 (AP)—Air Minister Gibson today announced a reallocation and demobilization plan by which royal Canadian air force strength will be scaled from about 165,000 to 100,000.

The 100,000 figure will provide units for the Pacific, for the occupation of Europe and personnel for training and administration in Canada.

Air re-volunteers for the war against Japan will be brought home to Canada for 30 days' leave before continuing to their new bases.

Hopkins Confers with British Envoy in Moscow

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP) — Harry Hopkins, after meeting with Premier Stalin three times in three days, talked today to Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador, who returned to the soviet capital yesterday. Most of Hopkins' day was spent at the American embassy presumably rounding up his work preparatory to an early return to Washington, where he will report to President Truman.

EISENHOWER EXPECTED HOME FOR VISIT SOON

PARIS, May 30 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is expected to leave within a month for the United States to visit at his home in Abilene, Kas. His departure, it is believed, has been delayed because of negotiations with the Russians. The fact that he is planning the visit soon appeared to indicate that the negotiations, if still unsettled, have advanced far enough to warrant his absence.

CHARGE BRITISH OIL AGENTS STIR SYRIAN TROUBLE

French Warn Ally Against Arousing Arabs

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 29—French news agencies expressed the belief today that the troubled events in Syria and Lebanon have been inspired by local agents of British oil interests in the near east, and that what on the surface appears to be a row between the French and Syrians is really an oil war involving the pipe-lines across Syria.

French commentators warned the British against stirring up the Arabs. The Arab meeting in Cairo on June 4 to examine the Syrian troubles may only succeed in spreading the trouble to other Mediterranean regions and even to India, according to the French.

[Cairo and Beyrouth radios reported fresh outbreaks in Syria. Beyrouth said a Syrian artillery battery had attacked the offices of the French legation and "all French military positions in Damascus." The French Press agency quoted Syria's acting premier, Jamil Mardam Bey, as saying disorders had broken out in Derah, 60 miles south of Damascus, where inhabitants attacked the French barracks.]

Lack of Confidence

The French have appealed to London for a joint policy to localize the near east clash in the interests of world peace.

A French spokesman said the Syrian and Lebanese leaders' lack of confidence in France is equalled only by French lack of confidence in the British "or their agents, to whom the maneuvers in the near east are attributed."

The French cabinet devoted a long session to examination of the Syrian situation, as explained by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Syria and Lebanon were placed juridically under French mandate in 1920. France recently recognized the complete independence of Lebanon and Syria, with the reservation that French troops remain in the two countries until questions concerning cultural interests and development of the expenditures made by the French during the period between the wars are settled, Bidault said.

Economic Interests Mean Oil

The French say they further want to reach an agreement about their economic interests in Syria and Lebanon. This, of course, means oil and pipe line protection and hence the clash with other contending oil interests.

By the treaties of 1918 the French obtained an important part of the Mosul oil development. This oil comes to France in tankers from pipe lines which cross Syria. Hence the talk of protection.

It is charged in Paris that British propaganda is presenting an inaccurate picture of the near east situation and that France, in reinforcing its garrisons in Syria, is belatedly doing the same thing that the British have been doing. The censorship exercised by the British also has obscured the picture, it is charged here.

REPORT ARABS ASK ARMS

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 29—There was an unconfirmed report in diplomatic circles tonight that the governments of Syria and Lebanon are drafting a note to the United States, Britain, and Russia, asking for arms to be used to defend themselves against the French if military action proves necessary.

It was also reported that 15,000 men have responded to a call for military volunteers in Iraq. Iraq is not involved in the dispute with the French but the country is a member of the Arab league which is expected to present a solid front on the Levant question.

Middle east circles estimate here the Arab states could put 50,000 troops in the field if necessary. The Arab league includes Egypt, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Lebanon.

Eden Urges Caution

In the house of commons Foreign Secretary Eden appealed to all parties involved in the dispute to "behave with caution and prudence." He said it would be inexcusable if developments in Syria and Lebanon interfered with the prosecution of the war in the far east.

The Syrian and Lebanese legations in London issued a joint statement which asserted that "unless the French modify their demands it will be impossible to foretell the consequences." It said France was presenting demands which had never before been mentioned and which never would be accepted. It charged French soldiers attacked Syrian police and gendarmerie in Damascus as well as officials in Aleppo and forced their way into the governor's house there and searched it.

"If France does not recognize the facts she has been trying to ignore for the last 25 years, namely the desire and determination of Syria and Lebanon to be completely independent states, and exercise legitimate rights as such, this crisis is bound to increase in intensity and become less amenable to settlement," the statement concluded.

Russians to Middle East

MOSCOW, May 29, (AP)—Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all the Russias, left today with 11 other dignitaries of the Russian Orthodox church for a visit to the middle east, including Syria and Lebanon. The delegation will visit the Arab centers of Damascus, Beyrouth, Jerusalem, Cairo, and Alexandria.

STRIKE BOOSTS DODGE LOSS OF 104,539 MAN HRS.

Show Cause Hearing Planned by WLB

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

As the 178th strike since May 2, 1944, at the Dodge Chicago plant of 178 the Chrysler corporation continued yesterday to pile up lost man hours which could have been used to build engines for B-29 Super Fortresses, the total number of man hours lost by all the previous strikes was revealed.

The present strike at the plant began Monday when 574 members of local 495 of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers, and Helpers [AFL] employed in the forge division struck in protest against a war labor board wage decision.

Caused Big Production Loss

The walkout action followed a strike vote taken May 5 under the auspices of the national labor relations board so in reality the present strike is a "legal" one, union leaders said. All the former strikes and work stoppages, most of them conducted by local 274 of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO], were "unauthorized."

During the 177 previous strikes and stoppages, 104,539 man hours were lost and 9,775 persons took part in the work interruptions. Altho estimates indicate that these losses equal only .16 of 1 per cent of the time worked, a huge production drop resulted. The exact loss of engines for super bombers could not be ascertained because of army regulations. Estimates are that during a regular 24 hour work day nearly 5,000 man hours are being added to those already lost.

To Summon Union Leaders

The automotive panel of the WLB, which rendered the disputed wage decision, is preparing to summon AFL union leaders to a show cause hearing, it was learned yesterday. Van D. Kennedy, chairman of the panel which has headquarters in Detroit, Mich., indicated that if the hearing was not held there it would be handled here.

Strikers' wage demands range from 30 to 100 per cent over present wages. Among requests are those of hammermen and upsetter operators who now receive $1.85 to $2.50 an hour. They are asking a wage range of $2.50 to $3.50 an hour.

Helpers Also Ask Increase

Helpers, who now get $1.25 an hour for all types of work, are seeking a wage range of $1.87½ to $2.62½ an hour. These demands are still being considered by the automotive panel.

Other demands which were turned down are: laborers, now receiving 89 cents an hour, are asking a range of from 95 cents to $1.05; bullards, now getting range of $1.07 to $1.17, propose a range of $1.35 to $1.50; tool and die hardeners getting $1.30 to $1.50 demand $1.60 to $1.75; and wheelabrators receiving $1.03 ask a spread of from $1.25 to $1.40 an hour.

Part of Hugh Walpole's Library Sold for $14,000

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Part of the library of the late Hugh Walpole was sold at auction yesterday for more than $14,000. Two early editions of Mark Twain's "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" brought $660. Walpole's copy of "East Lynne" brought $640.

Get $500 a Year

The winners of Tribune scholarships this year are Norman F. Hirsch, John M. Olsen, and Nancy Innes Shinnick. The award to each is $500 a year for four years of undergraduate study. The winner is free to choose his college, but must hold a place in the top third of his class.

Children of Tribune employes and the younger employes of the newspaper are eligible to compete. The plan was instituted in 1935. The examination of the candidates was given by the University of Chicago.

In previous years, THE TRIBUNE has given two scholarships a year. Because many of the winners from previous years are now in the army or navy and are not a charge on the funds, a third award was made this year.

Honorable mention was given to Alice Frances Kanser, daughter of Frank J. Kanser of the engraving department, and to Peter A. Willis, son of Ora P. Willis of the editorial department, who were ranked fourth and fifth.

Young Hirsch, a son of Harry J. Hirsch, Highland Park, of the advertising department, is a graduate of Highland Park High school and is now a navy V-12 student at Oberlin college. Young Olsen is a son of Arthur B. Olsen, Glencoe, of the advertising department. He was graduated from New Trier Township High school and is a student at Northwestern university technological institute. Miss Shinnick is a daughter of William C. Shinnick, Wilmette, of the editorial department. She will be graduated from New Trier High in June.

CROMIE TO GIVE TALK TOMORROW TO KIWANIS CLUB

Robert Cromie, Tribune war correspondent, who recently returned to Chicago from the front lines in Germany, where he was assigned to cover activities of the 3d army, will address a Memorial day luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Chicago at noon tomorrow in Hotel Sherman.

The speed of the 3d army, the personality and ability of Gen. Patton, its commander, and the cooperation between allied air and ground forces in the battle of Germany will be discussed by Cromie.

Cromie, who has been a Tribune correspondent for approximately three years, began his gathering of war news in the Solomons. He went to Guadalcanal and accompanied Chicago and midwest men in the fighting up and down the Southwest Pacific. From the Pacific assignment he went to England to cover the invasion of the continent, and since D-day has covered battles which liberated France and played a major part in the defeat of Germany.

INDIAN TROOPS REPULSE JAPS IN BURMA AREA

CALCUTTA, India, May 29 (AP)—Japanese forces fighting a die-hard battle in lower Burma savagely attacked British positions thruout the night in the Mokshitwa area 14 miles northwest of Pegu, but were repulsed by troops of the 5th Indian division, the southeast Asia command announced today. Pegu is about 75 miles north of Rangoon on the road to Mandalay.

Farther to the northeast, where Japanese troops were attempting to flee into Thailand, 19th Indian division forces forced the enemy to abandon 60 bunker positions near the Kwachi road east of Toungoo.

Air operations were restricted by weather conditions.

TRIBUNE RALLY IN LOOP SELLS $532,000 BONDS

Feature writers and foreign correspondents of THE TRIBUNE's staff left their typewriters yesterday to sell bonds for the 7th war loan in a noon rally at State and Madison sts.

Thousands of persons crowded the corner and listened to the program over loud speakers along State st. By the time the hour rally was over, $532,000 in war securities had been sold at two booths alongside the grandstand.

The Dad to GI Joe bond purchasing plan was especially popular at the rally. There were 12 individual sales totaling $31,500 in bonds bought in the names of sons and daughters serving overseas.

Cromie Tells of Heroism

Robert Cromie, war correspondent who has covered both the European and Pacific theaters in three years of war reporting for THE TRIBUNE, told about the heroism of a Negro tank crew whose bravery under fire astounded a hardened German captain. "That should be worth a bond or two," Cromie said, and it was, because at that point several persons headed for the booths manned by representatives of the treasury department and members of the Women's Defense Corps of America.

Marcia Winn, conductor of the column, Front Views and Profiles, told the audience: "It would be hard to tell a soldier in the Pacific about the rally we are holding today. He would not understand the need for it, because he is buying bonds out of his pay."

"We've got to turn on our war bond buying power with everything we have," said Arch Ward, sports editor and conductor of The Wake of the News column.

Other writers who appeared included Tech. Sgt. Ward Walker, marine corps combat correspondent on military leave from THE TRIBUNE; Henry Wales, foreign correspondent; Bob Becker, outdoors editor; Mae Tinee, movie critic; Ruth MacKay, conductor of the White Collar Girl column, and Charles Collins, who conducts A Line o'Type or Two.

Women Writers Help Cause

Still others were Rea Seeger, fashion editor; Eleanor Page, society editor; Irene Steyskal, writer of women's club news; Claudia Cassidy, music and drama critic, and Herma Clark, author of When Chicago Was Young. Writers of special features for the women's pages also participated: Eleanor Nangle, Edith Weigle, Letty Leitner, and Mary Meade.

Philip Maxwell, director of the Chicago Music Festival, was master of ceremonies. W-G-N's dance band, led by Robert Trendler, provided the instrumental music, and Skip Farrell and Carol Smith sang. Chester Gould, creator of Dick Tracy, and Stanley Link, author of Tiny Tim and Ching Chow, drew sketches of their comic strip characters.

Laurence Stern, chairman of the 7th war loan in Chicago and Cook county, called the rally audience the largest ever to assemble for the noon programs, conducted by the war financial committee and the State Street council.

Meanwhile, total bond sales to individuals in the current campaign reached $113,128,000, or 34 per cent of the city and county quota.

CHARGE SUNKEN JAP RELIEF SHIP BORE NO LIGHTS

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—The United States has denied Japan's charge that sinking of the Japanese relief ship Awa Maru was deliberate and has warned sternly against any retaliatory treatment of allied war prisoners.

The state department today made public an exchange of notes over the incident, which occurred in the Straits of Formosa April 1. The Japanese said more than 1,000 passengers perished.

The American reply disputed Japan's claim that the ship was carrying the prescribed lights and was on her designated course. It said the Awa Maru was unlighted and was 40 miles off the agreed course.

5 SHIPS BRING 8,981 SOLDIERS, BRIDES HOME

New York, May 29 [Special].—Five ships carrying 8,981 American soldiers from Europe arrived in New York today. The arrivals constituted the largest daily contingent since V-E day.

The first vessel, the hospital ship Charles A. Stafford docked at Staten Island before noon with 671 patients, including wounded. The Stafford was met down the bay by the 401st WAC band. The other four ships, all transports, moved up the harbor channel during the afternoon and early evening.

More than 5,000 of the soldiers were patients, but army records do not show what percentages represented wounded and sick. In the next largest group were 2,623 liberated soldiers. The rest were regular rotational groups and one special contingent of brides of American soldiers.

All of the patients from the five ships were to be transferred to Halloran general hospital on Staten Island, Camp Kilmer, Camp Shanks or Mason general hospital on Long Island. All liberated and rotational service men were sent to Camp Shanks.

FORM COMMAND TO TAKE OVER JAP TERRITORY

ARMY HDQ., Pacific Ocean Areas, May 29 (AP)—A new United States Western Pacific base command under Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman has been formed to take over the defense and administrative duties of territory seized from the Japanese in the Western Pacific.

Formation of the new command was announced today by Lt. Gen. Richardson, commanding general of army forces in the Pacific ocean areas. Other such base commands operating under POA were established in the Central Pacific and the South Pacific in the summer of 1944.

Jarman, a graduate of West Point and a veteran of 40 years' service, was island commander of Saipan. He built that base into a powerful sea and air stronghold.

SYRIA, LEBANON CALLED LEVANT, MEANING 'EAST'

Syria and the Lebanon, over which France was granted a mandate in 1920, have been known from antiquity as the Levantine states. The Levant is a name given to the Mediterranean coast lands of Asia Minor and Syria, sometimes including the coast line from Greece to Egypt.

It is derived from the French participle "lever," to rise, meaning in a generic sense, the east. In the 16th and 17th centuries the term High Levant was given to the far east.

The traditional pines and cedars of Lebanon were important commercially to the Phoenicians who conducted a brisk trade with timberless Egypt.

Charleston, S. C., May 29 [Special]—A cargo of wounded doughboys who lived thru the beginning and end of America's war in Europe came home today aboard the Larkspur, an army hospital ship.

The only hospital ship to leave Continental Europe on V-E day, the Larkspur brought 580 American and Brazilian sick and war wounded to the Charleston port of embarkation.

Most of her patients were veterans of two and three years' fighting on unsung fronts—from the invasion of Africa, thru Oran, Sicily, Anzio, Leghorn and Bologna.

Chicago Men Aboard

Chicago men who arrived on the Larkspur included S/Sgt. John E. Guerrieri, 1940 13th st.; S/Sgt. Elmer R. Deichstetter, 2221 N. Springfield av.; Pvt. Carl F. Richte, 1833 Bissel st.; Pvt. An army chaplain, Capt. Paul H. Elmen, a former teacher at North Park college, was on board the Sigman. Capt. Elmen, who lost his left leg while helping a wounded soldier from a mine strewn field, has been awarded the silver star, the bronze star, and a citation of merit. MIDWEST IDEAS UNTIED KINKS IN BUILDING SHIPS

Assembly Lines Biggest Aid to Production

BY CHARLES CHEADLE

Navy insistence, plus midwest ingenuity, made possible the unprecedented navy shipbuilding program now drawing near a close in more than two score ship yards in the upper Mississippi and western Great Lakes areas, the navy revealed last night.

The foremost development was assembly line production. In western Michigan three yards alone produced 10,000 small landing craft, self-propelled and able to proceed thru the roughest surf in the Pacific. The success or failure of many future island invasions, unless the Japanese surrender soon, will depend on these tiny boats.

The assembly line, borrowed from automobile factories and developed to include 3,000 to 5,000 ton vessels, reverses most factory production line procedure, in that shifting crews of workers move from ship to ship instead of the work moving along a line. Otherwise the two building methods are similar.

Hulls Built Upside Down

The assembly line method reached its height in the larger yards of the middle west—Seneca, Ill.; the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company at Chicago; the Manitowoc [Wis.] Shipbuilding company; and the Defoe Shipbuilding company at Bay City, Mich., among others. Almost every yard which turned out ships or small vessels in quantity adopted some form of assembly line production.

At Bay City every ship hull is built upside down, so that welders may wield their torches in a natural position. At Manitowoc submarines are built in sections and welded together after nearly all machinery is installed. At Pullman-Standard large ships were built in sections which were hauled five miles on flat cars before they were put together and launched.

At Seneca huge hulls were built 2,000 feet from the Illinois river and hauled across a former corn field to the landing ways. At Evansville, Ind., the LSTs were built in an elbow of the Ohio river and splashed into the water from a yard that produced more of them than any other in the country.

Feasible Only in War Time

Assembly line construction is the most efficient type of shipbuilding yet devised, Navy Capt. Paul S. Goen, who supervised production at 14 of the yards, said, but is feasible only in war time, when large numbers of vessels are built.

The other factor which made fresh water production of ships in quantity possible was the Chicago-to-the-Gulf waterway, Capt. Goen said.

The waterway normally is limited to a 9 foot channel and a 14 foot clearance under fixed bridges, but the navy increased the latter dimension to 34 feet, 9 inches by installing special machinery in several bridges, which it operates on a two day a week schedule for ships going down river. Shipbuilders are preparing petitions asking that some federal agency continue the duties of the navy bridge tenders after the war.

Shallow Draft Is Overcome

The Illinois section of the waterway has a minimum depth of 9 feet from Joliet to the Mississippi. The navy solved this shallow draft problem by stowage of ballast in deeper draft vessels to effect level keel operation and permit passage of ships as heavy as 5,000 tons down the waterway.

Without the Chicago to Gulf channel no ship more than 220 feet long—the length of the locks in the Welland canal of the St. Lawrence waterway—could have been sent to sea from the Great Lakes area. Illinois locks are 1,000 feet long, and can accommodate ships of that length. They were built to handle barge tows of thousands of tons.

Submarines from Manitowoc, where 28 undersea craft have been built, are sent down the channel in a specially constructed floating dry dock, details of which the navy still keeps secret. The 1,500 ton boats are the largest constructed by any yard for the navy and are sent to sea complete from deck guns to charged batteries, in charge of crews trained on the ships they will man. The only finishing touch lacking is war heads for torpedoes.

Correct Display

Hanging vertically the field is at north or east.

Today, Memorial day, the flag should be flown at half staff from sunrise to noon and full staff from noon to sundown. Its position thru the morning hours constitutes a tribute to those who have died in its service. Its full staff position is a symbol of the nation's continuing life. Before the flag is put at half staff this morning, it should be raised to the peak for an instant in salute.

The union [the blue field with the 48 stars] is given the position at the top and to the observer's left. When flown over a street, the flag hangs vertically with the union to the north or east, depending on the street's direction. No other emblem is ever flown above the flag [except the church pennant while religious services are being held aboard ship]. In a church the flag is displayed at the clergyman's right.

Fugitive from Alabama Put in Custody of State

Nicholas George Montos, 29, an escaped convict who lived at 2029 S. 23d av., Broadview, while allegedly carrying on a lucrative business by burglarizing jewelry shops in southern states, was turned over yesterday to state authorities for extradition to Kilby prison in Montgomery, Ala., from which he escaped a year ago. He was seized several weeks ago by federal agents.

TRACE BROWDER REBUKE FROM N. Y. TO RUSSIA

New York, May 29 [Special]—The New York World Telegram said today it has learned authoritatively that last week's rebuke to Earl Browder by the French Communist, Jacques Duclos, actually originated with the Communist party of the soviet union, of which Joseph Stalin is general secretary.

Duclos, who is secretary of the French Communist party, assailed the American communist leader for assertedly sponsoring a policy of a lengthy peace between classes in the United States and suppression of class warfare in the post-war period. His article was published in Les Cahiers du Communisme, official publication of the French Communist party.

Secret New York Parley

The World Telegram said that Duclos wrote the article after his return to Paris from a visit to Moscow during which officials of the Communist party there showed him a stenographic report of a secret, 12 hour meeting by the national committee of the American Communist party in New York last Feb. 8.

[The American Communist party was supposedly dissolved in May, 1944, by Browder, who proclaimed formation in its place of the Communist Political association and became its president.]

The transcrip purportedly disclosed that bitter debate took place at this meeting between Browder and his adherents and a group led by William Z. Foster, veteran American Communist, and Samuel Darcy, communist organizer.

Duclos quoted at length from the transcript, accusing Browder of jumping on the capitalist bandwagon and becoming "the protagonist of a faulty conception of the direction of the social revolution."

Transcript Sent Immediately

The World Telegram said the transcript was sent to Moscow by the Browder officialdom immediately after the Feb. 8 meeting. This was done, the newspaper said, despite the alleged dissolution of the Communist International in 1943 and despite repeated insistence by American Communists that they have since that time been operating an independent, American political movement free of foreign ties.

Developments at the Feb. 8 meeting were kept secret so far as American Communists were concerned, the newspaper said, adding that Browder exacted a pledge from Foster that he would not make known their differences outside the party central committee.

"Thus," the World Telegram said, "America's Communists first learn officially the facts of their own organization from a French Communist who got them in Moscow."

Browder Getting 'Clarified'

Since appearance of the Duclos article, there has been evidence here that the Communist line in the United States is shifting toward repudiation of the Browder-blessed Communist-Democratic honeymoon. At Communist headquarters here it has been officially explained that Browder's theories are "undergoing clarification."

Browder printed the Duclos article in full in the Daily Worker, Communist organ, last Thursday, and reprinted it in the Sunday issue. Persons familiar with Communist procedure have said it was a rule of the allegedly dissolved comintern that every Communist leader must publish attacks upon him by leaders outside the country. This rule was designed to enforce party discipline, it was said.

WRITER FREED OF CONTEMPT COUNT IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The house veterans committee today killed its own contempt charge against Albert Deutsch, New York author of an attack on the veterans administration hospitals, and then went on with its own investigation.

The committee last week cited Deutsch, reporter for the New York publication PM, for refusing to give the sources of his information on veterans' hospitals. It voted to rescind the citation after Rep. Domengeaux [D., La.] declared:

"I think this is necessary to reestablish the confidence of the public in this committee."

Chairman Rankin [D., Miss.] and Rep. Gibson [D., Ga.] cast "no" votes against Domengeaux's motion.

SIMPLE RITES TODAY AT FIRST CEMETERY FOR D-DAY YANKS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

ST. LAURENT-SUR-MER, Normandy, May 29—This was the first American cemetery to be dug in France in this war and, altho tomorrow, on Memorial day, generals, admirals, and ambassadors will appear elsewhere with their wreaths and their salutes, men of the 1st and the 29th infantry divisions who lie on this hilltop above the beaches they won will be remembered.

This cemetery which forever will be a part of the United States is not a large one as cemeteries go. Tomorrow it will rate no more than other cemeteries along this coast at Ste. Mere Eglise and La Combe. There will be a salute fired, a chaplain will conduct a service, and a bugler will blow taps.

The men buried here died in the original landing. This cemetery is situated so that one can realize the magnitude of what these men did. One walks past neat, precise rows of crosses and stars of David to the edge of a hill and looks down over the sands which were so heavily mined.

TELL LAST STAND OF BABY CARRIER SUNK BY U-BOAT

Escort Hit, Sub Blasted in Hour's Battle

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—A German submarine sank an American baby flattop, damaged an escort, and then was sent to the bottom in an action-filled hour a year ago today.

The navy marked the anniversary by disclosing the story of the escort carrier Block Island's final action. Her name already has been perpetuated in a new vessel commissioned last Dec. 30.

The Block Island's final action began about 8 p. m. after she and her four destroyer escorts, the Elmore, Ahrens, Barr, and Paine, had been at sea about two weeks on a cruise. The baby flattop was shaken by three explosions below the water line and her skipper, Capt. F. Massie Hughes, Selma, Ala., ordered the ship abandoned.

950 Go Over Side

Six men were killed when the torpedoes struck, but the survivors, more than 950 officers and men, including 18 wounded, went over the side and climbed aboard rafts without additional loss.

After the U-boat assaulted the carrier she sent a torpedo into the Barr near the stern, damaging but not sinking her. The Barr's casualties were listed as five dead, 12 missing, and 16 seriously injured.

The Ahrens, under Comdr. Morgan H. Harris, Newport, R. I., had moved in to pick up the Block Island's survivors. She took aboard 73 officers and 601 enlisted men, and the remainder were picked up by the Paine.

Exactly an hour after the first torpedo struck the Block Island the Elmore assaulted the U-boat. A tremendous explosion indicated it had been destroyed.

Four Flyers Disappear

Six fighter pilots who had been out on patrol from the Block Island when the ship went down headed for an island in the Mediterranean. Two were rescued after making water landings, but the four others never were found.

Only two officers and 74 members of the crew of the destroyer escort Frederick C. Davis, sunk in the Atlantic two weeks before V-E day, survived, the officers revealed today. The normal complement of a ship of this type is about 200 officers and men. The officers were Ensigns R. E. Minerd, Smithboro, Pa., and P. K. Lundeberg, Durham, N. C.

300,000 RUSSIAN TROOPS DESERT, SAYS REP. LUCE

New York, May 29 (AP)—Rep. Clare Booth Luce [R., Conn.] said tonight that "Russian soldiers by the thousands, and Russian generals by the dozens" deserted the Red army to fight "beside the Nazis."

"They were, of course, deceived in their search for freedom, just as deceived as the German soldiers who deserted to the Russians," she said in a broadcast.

"Today in the Balkans over 300,000 Russian soldiers have deserted victorious Russian armies to seek a better, richer, happier way of life," Rep. Luce continued. "Their search becomes every day more fruitless—because the hand of communism reaches out for them—reaches over the Balkans."

Mrs. Luce, discussing "America and the Kremlin," said, "180 million Russians are today incarcerated behind a towering wall of censorship.

Unaware of Freedom

"They are unaware that there is a world in which the words law and justice, charity, and freedom, have a real and personal meaning for great masses of men."

The congresswoman asserted that now that Germany's war machine has been destroyed and her industrial strength "all but obliterated" Russia remains the strongest military and industrial power in Europe.

"Russia has a fresh, untried, and powerful army in Asia," she said. "Because it is to soviet Russia's own national interests to get into the Pacific war, that army is certain to be used against the Japanese before the final kill.

"When the Japanese are at last beaten to the ground, their army destroyed, and their factories pulverized, Russia will emerge as the strongest military and industrial power also in Asia.

Russia World's No. 2 Power

"There is no question that Russian physical strength—her iron muscles and machine brawn, make her the world's No. 2 power—and the military and industrial Titan of Eurasia."

"It is a pity," she added, "that the heroic Russian people—the common men of Russia—are not free to aid us in an effort to enlarge the area of human freedom.

"We must never act or speak as some people do, as tho the great Russian people were our enemies. The Russian people are and must continue to be our friends, for the peace of the world depends on that friendship."

SCHOOL HEAD BACKS TEACHER ACCUSED OF SLURRING F. D. R.

A. C. Senour, East Chicago [Ind.] school superintendent, yesterday recommended that the East Chicago school board dismiss charges of insubordination lodged against Miss Nellie I. Mills, 53, high school biology teacher, accused of making disparaging remarks about former President Roosevelt during a school memorial service.

Senour said his investigation indicated Miss Mills did not wilfully violate school regulations, which, he said, is the statutory definition of insubordination. The board will make its decision June 14. Under Indiana law, the recommendation of the school superintendent is necessary before a teacher's contract may be canceled.

Miss Mills, a teacher in Washington High school, was accused of saying, "For the first time in 12 years I can pledge allegiance to America." At a hearing before the board May 17, she said her statement was garbled. She said that on hearing pupils in another classroom pledging allegiance to the flag, she observed "I feel more in accord with that sentiment now than I have for 12 years."

Woman Who Cut Wrist in Station Identified

Fairfield av. Hospital employes said she is out of danger and that she will be given a sanity hearing in the hospital tomorrow.

CHICAGO TO HAIL GEN. CLARK AND HIS PARTY TODAY

Parade, Reception, Feast Await 50 Visitors

Clark Program

Here is today's program for Gen. Clark and his contingent:

ARRIVAL—Planes will reach airport at 1 p. m.

PARADE—Immediately after arrival the general and his entourage will go on a 15 mile parade thru Chicago's south side to Congress st. plaza.

RECEPTION—A 17 gun salute at 2:30 p. m. will open civic reception in the plaza.

ADDRESS—Gen. Clark's address will be broadcast over radio station W-G-N from 3:45 to 4 p. m.

PRESS CONFERENCE—Tentatively scheduled for 4:30 p. m. in the Palmer House.

DINNER—At 7:30 p. m. Gen. Clark and the members of his contingent will attend dinner in the Palmer House.

Chicago will extend a welcome this afternoon to Gen. Clark, commander of the victorious allied armies in Italy, and a half hundred of his fellow heroes, including 18 Chicago area soldiers, who are arriving from Paris by air for Memorial day ceremonies.

It will be a homecoming for the general, for among those greeting him at the airport will be his wife, Maurine, and their daughter, Ann, 17, who have not seen him in more than a year. They flew in from Washington, D. C., last night.

The military leader will be shown to Chicago—rain or shine—in a 15 mile military parade from the airport to and thru the loop. The parade will cap Memorial day events, many of which will take place during the forenoon in cemeteries.

P-40s to Provide Escort

Gen. Clark and his group, which includes 10 other generals, are scheduled to arrive at the airport at 1 p. m. Their planes will be met 30 or 40 miles out and escorted to Chicago by three squadrons of army P-40 Warhawks from Dale Marbry field, Tallahassee, Fla. Mayor Kelly and other public dignitaries, and high army officers will welcome Gen. Clark's party.

For several hours, the returning heroes will be turned over to Chicago for the parade and reception. The general and his men will ride in open cars, and behind them will follow official cars and all the military vehicles that the 6th service command can provide. Bands will be spotted along the line of march.

The parade will move north in Cicero from the airport to 55th st., east on 55th to Michigan av., north on Michigan to Jackson blvd., west on Jackson to State st., north on State to Wacker dr., east on Wacker to Michigan av., and south on Michigan to the Congress st. plaza.

Salute to Begin Reception

There, at 2:30 p. m. a 17 gun salute will honor Gen. Clark, and addresses by Mayor Kelly and others will be delivered. Gen. Clark will respond.

The speeches of Gen. Clark and the mayor wil be broadcast over radio station W-G-N from 3:45 p. m. to 4 p. m. In case of rain, the plaza program will be moved to the Chicago Arena, Erie st. and McClurg ct.

At 7:30 p. m. Gen. Clark and his men will be honored at a dinner in the Palmer House. Unscheduled hours will be free for the veterans to meet with relatives and friends. All will have private rooms in the hotel. For the 22 enlisted men in the party today's affairs will precede an even more welcome one—honorable discharge and home.

Gen. Clark will stay in the Palmer House during his Chicago visit. With him will be Mrs. Clark and Miss Clark, who arrived from Washington via TWA.

Graduations Beckon Clark

With them was Col. C. W. McCarthy of the army general staff. They were welcomed by Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., head of the 6th service command, and Mrs. McCoach.

Mrs. Clark, small and trim, wore a printed dress, red wool coat, and a gray straw hat. Miss Clark, taller, wore a blue wool dress, dark striped coat, and red floral hat.

They said the general hopes to attend Ann's graduation from the Marjorie Webster school June 2, and the graduation of his son, William, from West Point, also next month.

During the day veterans' graves in 122 local cemeteries will be decorated under the general banner of the Grand Army of the Republic. Some 5,000 graves of Confederate veterans in Oak Woods cemetery will be decorated by the Daughters of the Confederacy and other symbolic Confederate groups. At 11 a. m. Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] will speak at Rosehill cemetery.

MINISTER BARES NAZI INVASION PERIL OF SWISS

BY P. E. BRIQUET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, May 29—"The bombings of Berlin were something fearful, unimaginable for anybody who did not witness them," said Hans Frohlicher in an interview in the Basle National Zeitung. He was the last Swiss minister to Germany and has just returned home.

"Miraculously," Frohlicher continued, "the Swiss legation remained almost unharmed amid Berlin's ruins, but the glass in all the windows had to be replaced by boards. That made living there almost impossible.

Two Dangerous Years

"The most dangerous years for Switzerland were 1940 and 1941. Again and again I feared the worst for my country. Yet I succeeded in winning over various Germans whose influence was strong enough to save Switzerland from the fate of Belgium and Holland.

"In February, 1945, the Swiss government ordered me to withdraw to southern Germany. The members of the legation traveled at night and we were in great danger until we reached the Starnberger See, south of Munich.

"An American villa there was placed at our disposal. This location was outside the German redoubt, in which I never put much faith.

Thirteen Freed from Dachau

"Our main business in our new quarters was to save Swiss citizens and protected nationals from detention by the nazis. We succeeded in freeing 13 Swiss from the infamous Dachau camp before the Anglo-Americans reached it.

"There was no longer real warfare in Bavaria. The Germans roved about in bands trying to exchange their uniforms for civilian clothes.

"The Americans and British showed the utmost kindness to us and to members of the Swiss colony. This was true not only of the officers, but of the privates."

Truman Plans Holiday Cruise on the Potomac

C., May 29 [Special]—President Truman will cruise Memorial day on the Potomac river on the Presidential yacht Potomac and work on the speech he will deliver at the final session of the San Francisco security conference on or around June 6, it was announced today. The speech is expected to be of from 10 to 15 minutes duration.

U. S. Demands Argentine Aid in War

Tells American Policy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 29 (AP)—The United States will refrain from intervening in Argentina's internal affairs, regardless of where its sympathies may lie, but will demand unequivocal compliance with international commitments and obligations, Spruille Braden, new United States ambassador to Argentina, said tonight.

Argentina and the United States, as war allies, are committed to the complete defeat of the axis powers and destruction of axis subversive activities everywhere, Braden said.

He added that both are bound to strengthen the inter-American system, establish and support the general international organization for the maintenance of peace and "to make effective our fervent adherence to democracy and to the principles and purposes of the Atlantic charter.

"All these and other undertakings Argentina and the United States assumed at Chapultepec [Mexico] in company with fellow American republics."

Braden said Cesar Ameghino, foreign minister of Argentina, informed him the Argentina government will meet these obligations.

SON, 2, WILL GET MEDAL FOR DAD WHO GAVE LIFE

A silver star medal awarded posthumously to Pvt. John W. Lihota, 13149 Avenue O, will be pinned on his son, Jack Michael Lihota, 2, in Memorial day services at 2 p m. today in Mann park, 132d st. and Carondolet av.

Sixth service command officers, representatives of the Fred Schweitzer American Legion post, and the soldier's widow, Mrs. Josephine Lihota, will attend the ceremony.

The medal is awarded for "unselfish gallantry" in France on Aug. 3, 1944, when Pvt. Lihota volunteered to draw fire upon himself in order to expose the enemy's position. His action saved other American infantryment, but Pvt. Lihota was killed.

Two Boys Who Escaped Training School Caught

Englewood police last night recaptured Louis Bunna, 16, of 5203 S. Ashland av., and Jerry Alexander, 17, of 12418 Maple av., Blue Island, who escaped Monday from the Illinois Training School for Boys, near St. Charles. Bunna was seized at 63d and Halsted sts., and Alexander at 52d and Halsted sts. The two had a date to meet three other escaped inmates at 51st st. and Emerald av., but the three fled when they saw the police car.

Estimate Prisoners

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 29 (AP)—Argentines in Montevideo estimated today that 2,500 to 3,000 political prisoners were being held in jails and concentration camps in Argentina. The total, they added, was occasionally swollen temporarily by waves of arrests such as those during celebrations over the fall of Berlin. The prisoners almost without exception were reported known for their prodemocratic ideas and activities.

These informants, who oppose President Edelmiro Farrell's regime, said labor leaders, politicians, businessmen, newspapermen and other citizens were arrested indiscriminately. Hundreds were arrested in Buenos Aires, Cordoba, Rosario, and other towns when Berlin was captured, they added.

Commenting on a report published in Buenos Aires yesterday that an amnesty decree would be issued on June 4, the second anniversary of the military revolution, one of these Argentines said such a decree would be a face-saving measure because the cabinet was unable to support charges against the so-called plotters against the government.

HINT SOLUTION TO TRUSTEESHIP ISSUE IS FOUND

Russians at Parley Get New Instructions

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 29—Speedy disposition of the trusteeship question, involving American possession of strategic islands wrested from the Japanese, was forecast tonight after the Russian delegation received instructions from Moscow on the soviet position.

New Russian proposals on trusteeship arrived during a day in which the Big Five powers of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, and France suffered two drubbings at the hands of the small nations.

Details of the new Russian proposals were kept secret, but they were of sufficient importance that the meeting of the trusteeship committee, scheduled for tonight, was canceled. The Russian proposals will be presented at once to a working committee of the Big Five, after which they will be referred to the trusteeship committee.

All Agreed but Russia

Altho all the Big Five except Russia have agreed on a plan under which the strategic bases would be placed under American rule until or unless the American government chooses to refer them to trusteeships, Russia has recently reopened the entire trusteeship question.

Until the Russians reopened the discussion, the arrangement was that the liberty accord under trusteeship would be in accordance with the conditions of the peoples concerned. But one of the new soviet proposals, it became known, would make independence and self-determination a trusteeship objective in accordance with the principles of self-determination.

This, legal authorities assert, would provide fertile fields for communist organization in territories which elected to take independence.

Small Nations Victorious

The small nations overrode the Big Five in the committee formulating the political and security functions of the general assembly, approving an Australian proposal giving the assembly the right to discuss any matter within the sphere of international relations. This was designed to increase the power of the assembly, in which all member nations hold seats, by permitting it to act without consulting the security council, dominated by the big five.

The vote was 27 to 11 in favor of the proposal. Votes against it were cast by the United States, United Kingdom, Russia, China, France, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Honduras, Ukraine, South Africa, and Yugoslavia.

But the proposal was whooped over by Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Egypt, Ethiopia, Greece, India, Iraq, Iran, Lebanon, Liberia, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Philippines, Syria, Turkey, Uruguay, and Venezuela. The other 11 nations did not vote.

Score Second Time

In the Big Five's second defeat, the small countries imposed their wishes in the face of a warning from William Mabane of the British delegation that big powers might withdraw from the organization when their legislative bodies are asked to ratify its charter, unless the big powers had their way.

The vote was on a proposal by Australia that the membership committee refer the whole question of ratifying and amending the charter to a subcommittee. The small nations' move was directed at depriving the large nations of power to veto future amendments.

Other developments of the day:

Grave fear was expressed that the conference will be unable to complete its work by June 6, when President Truman is scheduled to come here to launch the new international organization. The opinion was expressed in the Big Five meeting this morning that the conference may not end until June 11.

May Admit Denmark

It was disclosed that the Big Five have agreed in principle to the demand of Canada that countries required to furnish troops to the organization become temporary members of the security council which would use the troops.

A movement, for which success was predicted, was begun by Norway to invite Denmark to send a delegation to the conference. Denmark has subscribed to the conference aims, altho it had no government qualified to sign the allied nations' agreement until the Germans were driven out.

Meanwhile, the conference awaited word from Moscow as to the Russian attitude toward new proposals for limiting the Big Five's veto power—one of the major problems of the gathering.

YUGOSLAVS WILL FIGHT TITO RULE, DIPLOMAT SAYS

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Constantin A. Fotitch, former Yugoslav ambassador to the United States, said yesterday that "a very large majority" of his 16 million countrymen—Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes—will refuse to bow to the Tito government, "set up by the soviet authorities." He said they will continue to fight for the "democratic freedoms promised us at Yalta."

Constantin Fotitch

The diplomat, who for nine years represented his country in the United States and now is a representative of the central national committee of Yugoslavia, headed by Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, passed thru Chicago on his way from the San Francisco security conference to New York City and Washington, D. C.

Mihailovitch Not Captured

"All reports that Mihailovitch has been captured or that he has been flown out of Yugoslavia are false," Fotitch said. "I can assure you the general still is hiding in the mountains of Serbia and Bosnia. I have been in very recent touch with him.

"Mihailovitch continues, as he constantly has, to refuse all offers of personal safety if he will capitulate or 'collaborate.' He fights for what we all continue to fight for—free elections and the right as free men to choose the government we want.

"We didn't fight this war to get rid of one dictator only to take on a worse one.

"Who Is Tito?"

"We want those democratic freedoms that were promised us at Yalta. There can be no real or lasting peace without them.

"As for Tito's government—who is Tito? I haven't yet found anybody among my countrymen, either here or in Europe, who can answer met that. I can't find any one who can tell about his background, where he came from, how he happened to spring up, and how he obtained his leadership.

"He must be one of Stalin's soldiers of fortune. I read only 10 days ago in a San Francisco newspaper that Tito's 22 year old son, Zarko Broz, had come from Russia to Yugoslavia to visit his father. The boy had arrived from somewhere in Russia. Doesn't that tell its own story?"

U.S. FLYERS RAKE JAPS ON 900 MILE FRONT IN CHINA

Chinese Widen Breach in Foe's Lifeline

CHUNGKING, May 29 (AP)—Swarms of United States 14th air force bombers and fighters today hammered Japanese lines along the entire 900 mile front from the Yellow river to the French Indo-China frontier in close support of Chinese ground forces. Fighter bombers unloaded incendiaries on Japanese supply centers and troop and ammunition trains in the Yellow river area.

Chinese troops widened to 120 miles the breach in the southern end of Japan's land bridge to southeast Asia and pursued fleeing enemy forces toward the Indo-China border, battling within 30 miles of the border and 123 miles from Hanoi, the capital. The Chinese under Gen. Chang Fah-kwei widened the breach by reaching the vicinity of Shulo, more than 60 miles southwest of captured Yungning [Nanning].

Battle Along Highway

A war bulletin indicated the Chinese were battling along the entire length of the primary Japanese supply highway between Yungning and the Indo-China frontier town of Dong Dang. Fighting also was in progress 58 miles northeast of Yungning, where Gen. Chang's forces were attempting to seize the highway hub of Pinyang.

A Chinese Central News agency dispatch reported fighting behind Japanese lines in Kwangtung province near the Chinese held highway center of Hoyun, 105 miles northeast of Hong Kong. The Japanese, apparently trying to take the town to consolidate their positions for a possible American landing east of Hong Kong, launched several attacks, but were driven back to a point 12 miles to the southwest.

May Quit Ichang Area

Unconfirmed reports in Chungking said the Japanese apparently were preparing a new withdrawal in the central sector of their overland corridor—this time from the Yangtze river port of Ichang, westernmost Japanese bastion in China and 290 miles northeast of Chungking.

At the northern end of the 900 mile front, Chinese forces in Honan province gained in attacks from the south toward the Japanese stronghold of Hsihsiakow. They captured two strategic heights. In the Yellow river area Chinese forces fought from the south toward Shanhsien, on the Lunghai railroad, and were reported to have made "considerable progress."

REPUBLICANS LOSE TYPEWRITER

LEAGUE ASSERTS IT COULD STIFLE FREEDOM BIDS

national peace and security it is directed to "take any measures necessary" including use of force to maintain peace.

The domestic jurisdiction proviso considered by itself suggested that the league would have no right to intervene against an independence movement such as the American revolution arising from a purely domestic dispute within the British empire. Such, however, is not necessarily the case, according to the American delegation, to which the Ukrainian congress committee addressed its memorial.

Emphasize 2 Fold Purpose

According to the Ukrainians and other minorities that have made representations to the San Francisco conference such power of intervention is two edged. While it could be exercised in behalf of minorities it could also be used to beat down minorities and punish them for agitation for independence, self government, or other freedoms.

The Ukrainian congress committee, representing 2,000 organizations of Americans of Ukrainian descent, sent a delegation to San Francisco petitioning for a bill of national rights for stateless peoples to give "opportunity of attaining by peaceful methods their sovereign equality with other nations." It proposes also a protective council under the league to "act as a guardian of stateless peoples."

A further plea is for "revision of peace treaties or for the rise of independent states without recourse to war.

The Vandenberg amendment provided for revision of treaties and "prior international agreements" provocative of war, but it was watered down to suit Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov by elimination of any reference to treaties or agreements, such as the partition of Poland whereby 7 million Ukrainians have been transferred from Polish to Russian rule.

Criticize Delegation

The Ukrainian committee, headed by Stephen Shumeyka, Bohdan Katamay, Prof. Granovsky, and Ivan Petrushevich, said the Ukrainian delegation seated in the security conference is not representative of the 45 million Ukrainian population of Russia.

"Once again," said the delegation, "The national aspirations of the Ukrainian people are running counter to the attempts of their alien and ruthless rulers to quell them.

"Reports from reliable sources clearly indicate that in western Ukraine itself the soviet commissars are conducting a ruthless campaign either to exterminate Ukrainian national consciousness and national life or make it conform completely to communist Russian ideology."

"In this they are following the familiar pattern of their national policy in soviet Ukraine proper, including man made famines, purges, and executions, especially from the time [1930] when Stalin himself publicly declared that for the Reds Ukrainian nationalism constitutes a 'grave danger.'"

Gold Pen, Churchill Gift, Given to Marshal Stalin

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Mrs. Winston Churchill, who recently visited Russia, said today that she presented Marshal Stalin with a gold fountain pen as a gift from the prime minister, who had said he hoped Stalin would write him "many friendly messages with it." "Marshal Stalin accepted it with a genial smile," Mrs. Churchill said.

Shrine to Dead of First War Boarded Up in Parley Hall

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 29—Delegates of 49 nations, swarming thru the lobby of the Veterans' Memorial building where a new league of nations charter is being drafted, looked on curiously today as workmen tore down a partition and cleared away a small mountain of trash which had been concealing a shrine to America's war dead.

Rep. Stefan

Inquiry disclosed that the orders of an angry congressman, Rep. Stefan [R., Neb.], had rescued from dark and dusty obscurity the marble receptacle, topped by a bronze casket which contains sacred earth from the European cemeteries where American soldiers slain in the first World war lie buried.

Rep. Stefan came here a week ago, representing the house appropriations subcommittee on state department expenses of which he is ranking minority member. This group must provide the funds for the world security conference.

Sacrilege Denounced

Discovering the boarded up war shrine during an inspection tour, Stefan denounced the "sacrilege." Embarrassed state department officials said they did not know who was responsible and hastened to obey Stefan's commands that the memorial be cleaned and decorated with flags and roped off "so that foreign emissaries may see that we respect the memory of those who fought for liberty."

"There seems to be too much forgetfulness here, not only of our war dead but of the fact that we still have a great war against Japan to win," declared the man from Nebraska.

Europe Has Peace

"We won the war in Europe for the allies and for them peace seems to have arrived.

"The delegates quibble here about dotting an 'I' or crossing a 'T.' They ask me anxiously if congress will appropriate to send Europe vast stores of food and materials for reconstruction of their countries. They appear taken aback when I tell them we need our ships for carrying men and materials to the far east in an effort to finish the war as soon as possible and save American lives.

"They are horrified when I suggest the prosecution of the war against Japan is our major job and not the reconstruction of Europe. It appears significant to me that some one ordered a memorial to American war heroes partitioned off while this conference is in session."

Stefan said his investigation indicated that the cost of the conference to the American tax payer would be approximately $1,600,000.

MEXICO SEEKS BAN ON SPAIN UNDER FRANCO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 29—The Mexican delegation soon will propose a resolution at the world security conference to bar Spain from the new league of nations so long as Dictator Franco remains head of the Spanish government, Indalecio Prieto, secretary of the Spanish committee of liberation, asserted today.

Admitting his former communist connections, Prieto asserted communists were in a small minority in the parties represented by the liberation committee. He predicted passage of the Mexican anti-Franco proposal by "a great majority."

HATS OFF TO America's Doctors!

MUCH has been written of the heroism of our Medical Corpsmen on the battle fronts . . . their valor under fire belies the quiet dignity of their formerly peaceful profession.

Too little has been said of the patience and fortitude of our Doctors here at home. Many of them have voluntarily returned from retirement to fill the thinning ranks of those left to attend the civilian population.

Their dogged, daily fight against the forces of disease (too often more imaginary than real) are little publicized. Interrupted sleep . . . countless trips in bitter weather . . . endless office calls, tax their stamina and demand courage every bit as real as that of the Doctor at the front. The 40-hour week is not for them. Their acts of charity are many. Their patience, and confidence in Humanity remains unshaken.

HATS OFF TO AMERICA'S DOCTORS . . . at home and abroad!

We are proud of our 33 years of close association with Chicago's Medical profession. If by the diligent and exact compounding of their Prescriptions we have contributed to the easing of their great burden of responsibility we are only fulfilling our own deep desire.

FINDS SEA POWER QUESTION SNAGS 'TRUSTEESHIPS'

Bigger U.S. Navy Needed if Bases Are Added

BY HENRY WALES

Behind the scenes at the San Francisco security conference stalks the spectre of sea power. One reason for the reluctance of certain nations to agree to the demands of the United States for "trusteeship" of various Japanese and Jap mandated islands in the Pacific is that acquisition of such bases would automatically give America compelling claims for a much larger navy than could be justified without them.

The theme of Britain's contention for the world's largest navy was constant and virtually irrefutable during the succession of conferences to limit and apportion the size of fleets that began with the Washington conference in 1921-'22 and ended with the scrapping of the gigantic naval program laid down by the Washington government in World War I. Completion of ships building, without counting those authorized by congress and appropriated for, would have resulted in the United States usurping Britain's long held position as "mistress of the seas."

Basis for Claims

The Washington treaty provided for equal strength of the American and British navies and allocated a fleet of 60 per cent of that strength to Japan, and 35 per cent of that strength to France and Italy.

Russia, never a sea power and in the throes of revolution, was ignored. Germany was not included because the Versailles treaty limited the reich to a few gunboats and light cruisers.

But in the Washington conference, and in the succeeding tripartite parley at Geneva with only Britain, Japan, and the United States participating because France and Italy would not accept their ratio, and in the London meeting of 1930 when the five nations gathered again, the British admiralty based its claims for greater sea-power on the tremendous distances between colonies, protectorates, dominions and commonwealths that made up the empire. Britain pointed out the obligation imposed upon her of preserving sufficient strength to protect these sea lanes and to maintain adequate squadrons at the various strategic points in the seven seas which she called her "life lines."

The North sea, Gibraltar, Malta and Alexandria in the Mediterranean, Aden in the Red sea, Ceylon, Singapore, Hong Kong, Fiji, the Falklands off the southern Atlantic coast of South America, Cape Town at the tip of Africa, Zanzibar, and the West Indies and Newfoundland bases were only a few of the points that marked Britain's naval patrol lines.

With Japan eliminated as a post-war naval menace, soviet Russia will rise to bid for sea power in the western Pacific. The Kremlin already plans creation of three powerful fleets, in the Baltic, the Black sea, and the Pacific. Territory and spheres of influence already awarded to her, or occupied by the Red army, or claimed by the Kremlin give the soviets outlets to the oceans of the globe thru these waters.

Shy from Strongest Fleet

America, committed henceforth to a two ocean navy, has been careful in statements issued by her spokesmen to refer to the post-war United States fleet as "second to none," and Washington officials have frowned on suggestions that the sea force should be the strongest afloat.

But United States navy circles and the "experts," who look into the future for all conjecturable sea problems, object to American parity with the British fleet on the ground that England's eventual acquisition of any ally by either open or secret treaty would give that combination an advantage of strength over the United States, inasmuch as establishment of military alliances with foreign powers is objectionable from the American point of view.

It is recalled that Britain concluded a tentative secret naval accord in the autumn of 1928, wherein the admiralty bartered sea strength for French military considerations to build a solid British-French position against the American claim for 8-inch gun cruisers, opposed so bitterly by the English. Publicity blasted the hidden agreement between Paris and London and it was repudiated by both governments after its publication and the immediate outcry in America against it.

Treaty with Nazis

But in 1935 the British government secretly negotiated another naval treaty, this time with Germany's nazi government. Terms of this accord, published after rumors betrayed its existence, ripped up the naval sections of the Versailles treaty agreed upon by all the allied powers of World War I. including the United States and France.

Unilaterally, Britain substituted provisions that Adolf Hitler had a free hand to create a navy up to 35 per cent of the strength of the British fleet, thereby equalling French sea power.

Announcement of this move immediately revived the claims of the Paris government for a far larger navy than Italy on the ground that henceforth she required a double fleet, one to safeguard her Atlantic coast line, another to give her security in the Mediterranean.

Ended U. S. Policy of 1921

The naval deal with the fuehrer effectually ruined any chance of continuation of the American policy of 1921 to limit, and eventually reduce, the size of world navies, because it added France and Italy to Japan as dissatisfied nations, unwilling to continue with the ratios accepted by all at Washington in 1921.

Tokyo soon gave notice it no longer felt itself bound by the ratio and Paris and Rome began a building race without regard to the limitations they had accepted 14 years before.

Naval officers and "experts" take a long view of the future fear that some other eventual combination may put the United States in a weakened, inferior position if it agrees to parity with any nation and insist that America after this war preserve enough of its fleets to guarantee superiority over any other armada afloat.

TOMMIES SHOUT YELLOW TRAITOR AT 'HAW HAW'

Wounded Renegade Held by British Army

LUENEBURG, Germany, May 29 (AP)—"Lord Haw Haw," notorious British renegade who broadcast for the Nazis during the war, lay seriously wounded and scowling here tonight while British soldiers shouted, "You yellow traitor—in our hands at last."

The 39 year old prisoner, born William Joyce, was shot in the thigh yesterday by a British officer who captured him near Flensburg when he made a threatening move in his pocket as tho clutching a revolver.

Brought here tonight in an ambulance, he was placed on exhibition for five minutes so that British Tommies could get a glimpse of one of the most hated men in England. Then he was taken to a hospital. A senior British intelligence officer indicated he would be taken to Britain as soon as possible.

Adopts Sullen Attitude

The short, scar faced man appeared to be in good health despite the bullet wound and just stared sullenly at correspondents who had waited three hours to see him. He was dressed in blue and white striped pajamas.

A woman believed to be Haw Haw's wife was captured 10 days ago at Flensburg and also was brought to British 2d army headquarters here. She is a small, dark haired woman in her thirties.

Joyce was seized near the Danish frontier yesterday, dressed in an expensive civilian suit. Two British officers were collecting firewood when he approached them and engaged in casual conversation. Several remarks caused the officers to suspect him.

Challenged as "Lord Haw Haw," he unhesitatingly admitted his identity. Then, the officers said, he made a slight movement in his pocket as tho clutching a revolver. One of the officers quickly drew his own gun and shot him.

No Weapons Found

On the way to the hospital Joyce told his captors: "I suppose in view of the recent suicides you expect me to do the same, but I am not that kind of a person."

No firearms or other weapons were found in his pockets. He carried a German passport made out under the name of Hansen, but other papers taken from him bore the name Joyce. An intelligence officer said that Joyce, after going to Germany a week before the war began, became a German national and adopted the name "Wilhelm Froehlich."

TREASON TRIAL LOOMS

An authoritative informant told the Associated Press in London there was a strong probability Joyce would have to stand trial for treason in England.

Joyce, born in New York of Irish parents but educated in Ireland and at London university, thruout the war broadcast for Propaganda Minister Goebbels in a precise, almost exaggerated Oxford accent that gained him the name Lord Haw Haw.

British Children Under 14 Million Fewer Than in '31

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 29—Figures published today by the Royal Statistical society show that in 1939 there were a million fewer children under 14 in this country than in 1931, 8,000,000 more persons 65 or over, and fewer children aged 14 attending schools.

G I Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHUNGKING, China—"Three years ago," said Sgt. Sid Zeilinger as he strolled down the stone steps of this city, known in the United States as one of the four great capitals of the world, "Chungking was a bombed mess. Now it's no longer bombed."

With the same careful choice of words that he once used in composing reports for the Wisconsin highway department before being changed into a world traveler by the air transport command, the sergeant said, "Chungking certainly sprawls, doesn't it?"

It does. It sprawls up hills so steep as to make San Francisco seem a prairie town. It sprawls onto sandbars of the Yangtze river. It sprawls up cliffs so high the first floor on the street side of a house is the fifth story on the rear side. It sprawls into the thousands of caves. It sprawls and crawls.

Built in Three Years

Chungking has been almost entirely built in the last three years. Before the war it was a dirty trade city of some 250,000 people. All that was leveled by Jap bombers that killed as many as 20,000 people in one day. Now Chungking has 1,400,000 people.

West China always has been poor. It lacks wood. The Chungking hills are solid stone but cutting stone into enough blocks for a city takes centuries here.

So practically all of Chungking is bamboo plastered inside and out with mud. The houses. The shops. Everything. Even most of the rich, who drive the bumpy streets sedately in their long 1942 Cadillacs and Buicks, must live in houses of bamboo and mud.

Coolies carrying leaking buckets up the steep streets form human water mains, for life is cheaper than steel. Refuse is easy to dispose of—just let it run downhill; it eventually will get to the river.

It's a Poor City

Ricksha boys, their ribs sticking out like xylophones, labor up the streets, cross the divide, and come trotting down the other side.

The tiny shops are filled with shoddy cottons and rope shoes and smelly food. Rollers grind out long strings of spaghetti, one woman turning the roller and another shooing off most of the flies. This is no luxury city. It's a poor city made even poorer by the war, made poorer not only by the Jap bombers but by graft and corruption.

Americans are few here. The little people of Chungking—the poor, kind, carefree people — rise from their rags and smile thru their dirt and say "ding how." That's the top greeting.

"Damn," the sergeant said. "You feel sorry for them. Still it makes you mad to see the way they let themselves get kicked around."

That just about sums up Chungking. "Damn."

EX-PRISONERS FIGHT JEWS IN CLOTHING RIOTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 29—Demonstrations by former prisoners of war against the failure of the public authorities to provide them with sufficient clothing took an anti-semitic turn today.

In the Place de la Republique, police were called to break up street fighting between former prisoners and Jews. Earlier the ex-prisoners had helped themselves to shoes and clothing in nearby stores and in the Clichy and St. Martin districts.

RED ARMY CALLS ALL BOYS 15-16 TO WAR TRAINING

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP)—In the biggest peacetime military training schedule ever ordered in the soviet union, thousands of 15 and 16 year old boys from all parts of Russia will be called up Friday for Red army training, it was announced today.

The new nation wide muster will be a 100 per cent call up, said Lt. Gen. N. N. Pronin, chief of the general training administration of the commissariat for defense.

Gen. Pronin announced: "General military training in the present period should be conducted on an even higher level than in the days of the war." He said that not a single youth should miss the muster, and called on the Young Communist league to take part.

Start Combat Training

"The peaceful period into which our country has entered," said Gen. Pronin, "should not lessen our attention to the problems of defense."

The army newspaper Red Star reported that Red army garrisons in Siberia and troops in Siberian military schools had left their bases for summer combat training camps.

The summer operations will center around a tent city on the banks of the Tom River, with the Tomsk Military school laying the groundwork for the maneuvers which will begin early in June. The general area, which is north of Sinkiang, was visited by former United States Vice President Wallace last year.

The muster of 15 and 16 year old boys Friday will coincide with the end of training for boys of 17 who on graduation will undergo examinations for specialist jobs.

Veterans to Train Them

The new classes will receive their training in the field from veterans of the European war.

"The period of camp muster should play an important part in the cause of the military training and physical hardening of our youth in a peaceful state," Pronin said.

STETTINIUS DUE TO BE REPLACED, WILLIS ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—Sen. Willis [R., Ind.] declared today that replacement of State Secretary Stettinius is "a foregone conclusion" because his cabinet position places him first in line of presidential succession.

Willis proposed to the joint committee studying reorganization of congress a Constitutional amendment allowing the house of representatives to elect an "interim vice president" when, due to White House vacancy, the vice president becomes chief executive.

"It has been the cause for no little comment among members of the majority party," the Republican senator said, "that as matters stand now, if anything were to happen to the present chief executive, a man comparatively unknown and unversed in party politics would be catapulted into the highest party and official position in our land."

Since President Truman succeeded from the vice presidency on the death of President Roosevelt, Stettinius as secretary of state would succeed to the White House if anything happened to Truman.

CHURCHILL PICKS PROSECUTOR FOR WAR CRIMINALS

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill named Britain's chief prosecutor of German war criminals today, but told an impatient house of commons the trials should not begin "until they are properly arranged and a method agreed upon between the great powers."

Atty. Gen. David Maxwell Fyfe, who was nominated to the big powers board of prosecution, will serve with Supreme Court Justice Jackson of the United States and the representatives of France and Russia yet to be chosen.

A member of Churchill's own Conservative party, Lt. Col. Anthony A. Marlowe, led the commons chorus against the seeming delay in getting started when he demanded of the premier whether he would see that high Nazis were "dispatched with maximum speed, and, pending that, they are maintained in prison cells and not in hotels."

1 U-Boat Runs Aground; 11 More Still Unreported

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—The number of German submarines estimated to be still at large, altho all may have been sunk, dropped to 11 today with disclosure that one had run aground off Denmark. The crew abandoned the U-boat and got ashore, a naval spokesman said. Some were captured. There have been no cases of offensive action by a U-boat since Germany surrendered.

CHURCHILL RIPS EX-AIDS; WAR OF PARTIES FLARES

New Cabinet Meets M. P.s Amid Cheers, Jeers

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 29—Party politics returned full blast to the house of commons today after five years of comparative restraint under the war time coalition government.

Accusations flung across the floor of the crowded house by former Labor ministers against their former Conservative colleagues, vigorous retorts by Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden, and other members of his new caretaker cabinet, meeting the house for the first time as a government, and unrestrained jeers and cheers from rank and file M. P.s on both sides contributed to the tumult of what some experienced parliamentarians said was the noisiest session on record.

Churchill Enjoys Storm

Col. Clifton Brown, speaker of the house, sought to quell the uproar by suggesting to the M. P.s that they conserve their ammunition for the forthcoming election campaign, but his advice was disregarded.

Churchill, who blandly confessed he "rather enjoyed these occasions," did nothing to quiet the storm. In a fighting mood and cheered by his supporters, he lashed out at former Ministers Herbert Morrison and Ernest Bevin.

The two Laborites complained that thousands of workers would be on a holiday on July 5, polling day, and thus virtually disfranchised. Churchill said he was prepared to discuss the problem with Labor leaders and hinted that special trains might run to bring the holiday makers back to their constituencies to vote.

Morrison, home secretary in the coalition cabinet, characterized the suggestion as "silly" whereupon Churchill snapped: "He seems to have come out of the home office with worsened manners."

Churchill Cries "Insult"

Bevin, who charged that Churchill has hurried the election, was told that difficulties wouldn't have arisen if Laborites and Liberals had continued the coalition until the Japs are defeated. This was a signal for a renewed general uproar in which a Laborite shouted Churchill had to obey his boss, Beaverbrook, of the house of lords. Angry, Churchill retorted:

"That's an insulting remark." Then he charged that the member of the opposition had accused Beaverbrook of "blackmail" and asked the speaker's protection for the absent peer.

Independent Laborite John McGovern summed up to claim credit for having described Beaverbrook as the "Hitler of this country," but no one apparently, including the speaker, admitted having heard the word blackmail used. This episode ended with the disgruntled Churchill resuming his seat and remarking, "I distinctly heard it."

In the opinion of political observers, the verbal war today indicates both sides have gloves off, that Churchill and his caretaker cabinet will have a hard time controling the house during the next three weeks, and that the election fight will be the sharpest Britain has experienced in a generation.

A POOR MEMORY AND LOUD VOICE COST 'MUTE' $35

James Ryan, 60, of 667 Madison st., a hotel dishwasher with a bad memory, was fined $25 and $10 costs on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday after Ryan had attempted to solicit money from train travelers on a plea that he was deaf and dumb.

Alex Zurek of the Chicago and North Western railway police told Judge John R. McSweeney of Des Plaines Street court that Ryan was displaying a note which stated, "I am a victim of tuberculosis and am trying to reach Colorado and am asking a little help. Thank you."

When Zurek called to Ryan the "deaf mute" answered in a booming voice, Zurek said.

"You've been in here a dozen times," Judge McSweeney said. "The last time you were a 'cripple.'"

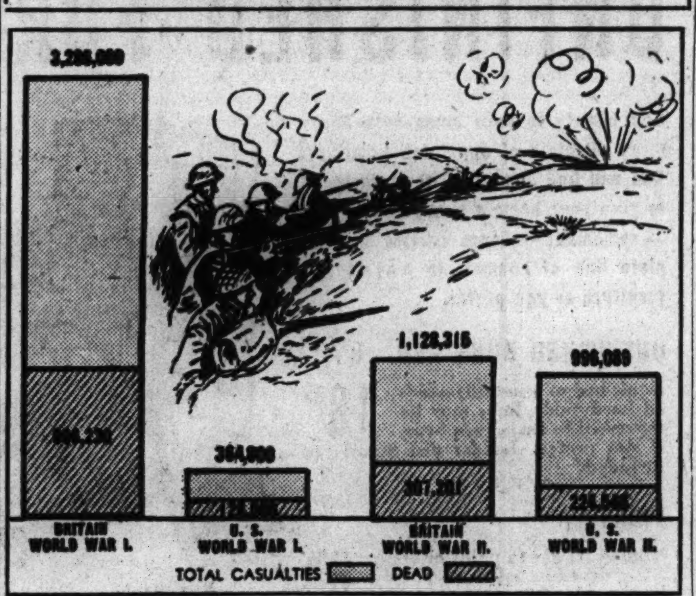
American and British Casualties



Comparison of the United States and British empire's casualties in World Wars I. and II.

Include All Fronts

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—British empire military forces have suffered 1,128,315 casualties, including 307,201 dead, Prime Minister Churchill told commons today.

The casualty figures, covering 66 months, were a little more than a third of those suffered in the 52 months of the first World war. Churchill said the casualties then were 3,286,000, including 996,230 dead.

While Churchill did not break down the figures, a spokesman at 10 Downing street said that they included casualties on all fronts, including the far east, up to the middle of February.

The prime minister declared that in addition to the losses among the armed forces, enemy bombing by plane and V-weapons killed 60,585 civilians in Great Britain, seriously injured 86,175, and slightly injured upwards of 150,000.

A MINOR BILL STARTS NOISY HOUSE SCRAP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 29—A presumably minor bill to permit water to be taken from streams and lakes by manufacturing concerns even if they don't have riparian rights today stirred up one of the biggest and loudest rows that the house has seen in a decade.

The bill was finally passed, 79 to 17, after an hour of wrangling. Rep. Adduci [R., Chicago], who opposed it, challenged the count and then his supporters stirred up another row over a motion to reconsider that lasted another hour.

The Republican leadership lost control and was outvoted three times on motions to adjourn. Rep. Clabaugh [R., Chicago] accused the Adduci faction with starting a filibuster and announced he was starting a counter-filibuster on general principles until the June 30 deadline for sine die adjournment. But Rep. Hruby [D., Chicago] finally got thru a motion to adjourn.

ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE

Raymond Moore, 25, Negro, of 816 W. 14th st., was arrested by police yesterday in Joseph Altier's currency exchange at 2345 N. Halsted st., after Moore allegedly had tried to pass a worthless check for $24.

FRENCH LYNCH FOUR IN ITALIAN FASCIST FAMILY

PARIS, May 29 [Reuters]—Four Italian Fascists were lynched today by a crowd near Nancy.

The lynching took place after the funeral of a deportee who died as a result of bad treatment suffered during captivity. Relatives gathered outside the town hall of Jarny, near Nancy, and demanded that four members of an Italian family known to be Fascists be produced for public interrogation.

When the police commissioner refused the crowd broke into the commissariat, seized the Italians and lynched them. Two of the Italians had been arrested Saturday on their return from Germany where they had been working with the Nazis.

PETAIN-BRITISH AGREEMENT TOLD BY 'MEDIATOR'

MONTREAL, Que., May 29 [Special]—An agreement was made between Marshal Petain and Prime Minister Churchill in 1940, at the time Petain was Vichy chief of state, to prevent France from joining the Nazis, Louis Rougier, a French professor who said he negotiated the agreement, asserted here today.

Rougier, author of a book, "Accords Petain-Churchill," published here, said the agreement also prevented the French fleet from falling into Hitler's hands. The agreement, in which he acted as intermediary, was carried out without the knowledge of Pierre Laval, then Vichy premier, he said.

"I happened to be at Vichy after the June, 1940, armistice with Germany," said Rougier, "and there I found great misunderstanding between the British and French, and between Churchill and De Gaulle, which might have led to war between the two countries.

Tells of British Attack

"Then came the British attack on the French fleet that July, which was the result of a misunderstanding of the Franco-German armistice. Laval saw in this a chance to force Petain to declare war on the British and align France with the axis.

"I saw Lionel Robbins, British consul-general at Geneva whom I knew personally. I suggested that the British lift the blockade to prevent famine in France.

"Robbins suggested that I go to London with the same request. I obtained permission from Petain, who gave me a note of introduction."

"No Comment"

[By Wireless to the New York Times Co.]

LONDON, May 29—Prime Minister Churchill's secretary said today that there would be no comment from 10 Downing st. on the report from Montreal that Louis Rougier had published a book containing evidence of a "gentlemen's agreement" between Churchill and Marshal Petain.

Allegations that there was an agreement first reached London last winter. Investigation then disclosed that some efforts had, in fact, been made by the British government to determine, it was stated, how far the British could rely on the Petain government "not to let us down any further."

KNUDSEN QUITS AS PRODUCTION ACE OF ARMY

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—After five years of helping to guide United States war production, Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen will retire Friday as war department director of production.

Twice decorated for his work with the air forces, the 66 year old expert is expected to rest a few weeks in Detroit, the war department said today.

Knudsen's future plans were not announced. General Motors corporation, of which he was president until he entered the government service as a dollar a year man, wants to give him an important post, but Knudsen was reported undecided.

However, he is known to have a great interest in automobiles of the future and to be intrigued with models utilizing light metals and higher octane gasoline.

Knudsen, who came from Denmark 45 years ago, was the army's No. 1 production trouble shooter, traveling all over the country. He first became a member of the old national defense advisory commission and then headed the office of production management which succeeded it. He has served in the war department since Jan. 27, 1942.

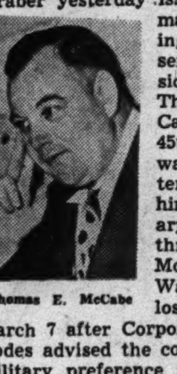
JUDGE RULES M'CABE OUSTER IS ILLEGAL; RETURNS HIM TO JOB



Thomas E. McCabe

Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday issued a writ of mandamus ordering the city civil service commission to reinstate Thomas E. McCabe, 35, 254 W. 45th pl., as 19th ward superintendent and pay him $609, his salary for the last three months. McCabe, a World War II. veteran, lost his position March 7 after Corporation Counsel Hodes advised the commission that military preference should not be shown to veterans of this war who took their civil service examinations prior to Sept. 16, 1940. McCabe, who took his examination in 1938, had been advanced from ninth to the top of the superintendents list and was appointed Feb. 1. His attorney, Michael F. Ryan, argued successfully that the state legislature amended civil service laws in 1940 to enable World War II. veterans to get military preference.

JUDGE ORDERS 3 TO TRIAL JUNE 18 IN RAPE OF WAC

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday overruled a request for a 30 day continuance for three men charged with raping a WAC private and ordered them to trial June 18.

One of the defendants, Nick W. Malatesta, 18, of 5421 Harrison st., who had been released on a $7,000 real estate bond in Municipal court before the indictments were returned, did not appear in court. Judge Ward ordered the sheriff's office to arrest and hold him for the $15,000 bond set in Criminal court.

The other defendants, Tony Giampa, 23, of 840 Lytle st., and Peter Ottomanelli, 17, of 1356 Taylor st., pleaded not guilty. Assistant Public Defender Frank Ferlic was appointed by the court as their counsel. Assistant State's Atty. Edward Healy asked that the trial be held soon since it is not known how long the complainant will be at Camp Atterbury, Ind., her present assignment. The men are accused of raping her after she accepted a ride in their car to a railroad station on May 23.

TIRES AND WHEEL STOLEN

REVEALS ORDER OF F.D.R. LED TO LASH PROMOTION

Joseph Lash

Washington, D. C., May 29—Joseph Lash, protege of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, whose activities in communist front organizations were investigated by the house committee on un-American activities, was commissioned an officer in the army at the specific direction of President Roosevelt, the war department has informed congress.

Assistant Secretary of War McCloy advised Rep. Thomason [D., Tex.] that Lash received the commission of second lieutenant in the quartermaster corps on May 18 thru the intervention of the late President.

McCloy wrote Thomason that on Dec. 29, 1944, "the division [information and education of the army] received instructions that the commander in chief desired telegraphic orders to be dispatched, sending Lash to officer candidate school unless there were objections other than the objections arising from his civil activities.

"The military record of Lash being unexceptionable, the President's order was forthwith complied with and Lash was ordered to officer candidate school."

JEEP IS A FLOP ON FARM; CAN'T EVEN PULL PLOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Urbana, Ill., May 29—The army jeep will not replace the farm tractor after the war and in fact will have only a limited agricultural use, tests at the University of Illinois college of agriculture indicate.

A jeep was used to pull plows, discs, harrows, and other equipment in the college tests and not only failed to have enough power under usual field conditions but also burned too much gasoline and wore itself out, according to Prof. R. I. Shawl, who supervised the tests.

"It appears that the main value of the jeep to the farmer will be in truck and trailer work," Shawl asserted. "It probably can be used to pull grain wagons, manure spreaders, and other such equipment which can travel at relatively high speeds."

FREEDOM SAVED BY A FEW WEEKS

One of the most bitterly contested political controversies of recent years was aroused by the New Deal man power control bill, variously described as a work or fight, work or jail, or slave labor bill. Not until the first week in April did the senate reject it. In just one more month Germany had fallen apart and the arguments for this pernicious legislation were exposed as hysterical, hollow, and fraudulent.

With the passage of this very short period of time it is now possible to put this proposal in proper perspective. It is worth reviewing what proponents of the bill were saying then. It is not enough to conclude that they were utterly wrong in their analysis of the need for the regimentation they proposed. That is self-evident. The important question is: What were their motives?

We were told by the New Dealers at the time that the nation faced a man power crisis, that there were not enough replacements for the army and for war industry. We were also told that our forces in Europe were desperately short of shells and other material. Were these statements the truth? Recent developments provide the complete answer. It is "No."

Within a few days after the nazi surrender the army announced plans to release 2 million men. Within the last week selective service stated that no more men 30 years old or older would be drafted if they were engaged in any sort of useful work, and that shortly enlisted men 35 years of age or older would be released upon application. At the same time cutbacks in various categories of war production presented a possible unemployment problem in various areas.

Now, what was the truth about shortages affecting the army in Europe? Brig. Gen. Morris W. Gilland, deputy chief of staff for supply in Europe, announced after the German capitulation that 5½ million tons of supplies were left on the continent after the great final drive over the Rhine to the Elbe and on into Czechoslovakia and to the Brenner pass. Of unexpended ammunition alone there were 700,000 tons. Does that suggest a shortage?

It is apparent that supplies of such mountainous dimensions could not have been built up in the last few days or weeks before Gen. Eisenhower's final offensive. A good part of them must have been there while the debate over man power control was raging in Washington. Indeed, there is good reason to believe that Eisenhower had built up his material stockpiles for the big push across the Roer and Rhine rivers even before Marshal von Rundstedt's surprise counter-offensive thru the lightly held Ardennes front caught our forces off balance last December. That attack, however, was all the excuse the New Dealers required.

On Jan. 6 congress was told by President Roosevelt in his state of the Union message that "total mobilization of human resources" was imperative. "It is not too late in the war," the argument ran. A message was produced from Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal in support of this position.

"National war service," they said, "the recognition by law of the duty of every citizen to do his or her part in winning the war, will give complete assurance that the need for war equipment will be filled. In the coming year we must increase the output of many weapons and supplies on short notice. Otherwise we shall not keep our production abreast of the swiftly changing needs of war."

On Feb. 19 Secretary Stimson took to the radio and, in a hysterical speech playing upon vague fears, referred to the refusal to accept regimentation as a "failure of American democracy." He said that "we have never by law organized our workers," but had depended "upon voluntary, and therefore ineffective, methods." He praised the totalitarian labor fronts in Britain and Russia—countries which were kept from defeat by more than 21 billion dollars' worth of supplies produced by our "voluntary, and therefore ineffective," system.

"Shortages, deadly shortages," Mr. Stimson cried, "are now looming up before us."

On March 13, H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of procurement, took up the same plaint. "Today we face a material crisis," he said. He threatened business with the statement, "If government is forced to act on its own, it will act."

In the house and the senate the party faithful shrieked of disaster and moaned over "failure." The bill rode thru the house as the voices of sanity were drowned out in the clamor. Our army again was on the march, pushing a bridgehead across the Rhine, obviously readying for the knockout punch, yet administration spokesmen, the New Deal press, and champions of control for control's sake kept up their calamity howling until the obvious fact that Germany was thru and that there would be a quick decision made it no longer possible for the farce to be kept alive.

It would be generous, perhaps, to put down the whole mistaken demand for the slave labor bill to bad guessing. But there are so many evidences that the legislation was inspired in calculated bad faith and pressed to the final decision out of ulterior motives that that interpretation is not possible. The men who wanted this measure passed wanted the means of regimenting the country into a planned economy that would have meant the destruction of all liberty. Workers would have been told at what tasks they would work, where they would work, and at what wages they would work.

The country had a narrow escape. It must not forget the experience. Many of the men who were most hotly partisan in behalf of the slave labor program are still agitating their unfulfilled schemes. They will bear a close watch. If excuses as thin as those they employed could be made to serve their purposes others will be forthcoming toward the same end.

45,000 BOND SALESMEN

Forty-five thousand Chicagoans have joined in an effort to raise 50 million dollars for the war. This much is being sought by appealing to people in their homes to buy bonds in the 7th war loan drive. The average member of the group will ring 20 doorbells. He or she will turn in to bond headquarters if the drive meets the quota a little more than a thousand dollars. The 50 million dollars realized in this way will constitute nearly one-sixth of the total to be sold to individuals in the drive.

Lawrence Stern, director of the drive, attaches maximum importance to the house to house canvass. When Francis M. Knight, the head of the 6th war loan campaign here, and the heads of each of the preceding campaigns, asked Mr. Stern how they could help, they were told to make house to house calls. Each of them is visiting 20 of his neighbors this week.

The individual who comes to your home and asks for your bond subscription is a citizen who has responded to an urgent appeal for volunteers for one of the most important war time jobs a civilian can do. For this task there is no reward except the satisfaction that comes to him who has helped to provide what was needed to defeat the enemy. All honor to the neighborhood bond salesman whose faithfulness in doing his job has made possible the successful financing of the war.

IN MEMORIAM

This day is set aside as a memorial to sacrifice for freedom. In time it goes backward from its origin after our Civil war to include the soldiers who won independence for the country. It goes forward to honor the memory of every one who dies serving that country. It is a day of little flags at countless graves thruout the land and in other lands.

Today will see the American memorial to freedom and liberty wreathed around the world as no other ceremonial has ever been, whether in ancient or modern times. No conqueror could honor himself as this Republic today honors the millions of men in uniform who have been its protectors for eight score and ten years. Some of these graves will be as old as that of Joseph Warren, killed at Bunker's Hill. Some will be as new as those of the youths who died yesterday on Okinawa.

The little flags this year will start from the earth in the deserts of Africa, in Sicily, along the Appian way in Italy, from the great plain of Germany and the green fields of England. They will appear in Normandy orchards, in the Philippines and the islands of Japan, on the pleasure grounds of southern France, in the Himalayas and the Alps, on the banks of the Tiber, the Rhine, the Elbe, and the Irawadi, and the shore of the Persian gulf. The great flag of the Republic will cover them from the Arctic to the equator, from the heart of America to the heart of Asia and the heart of Europe.

The memorial wreath encircles the globe. In each of the twenty-four hours the Republic's funeral oration will be intoned "that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion." The "Battle Hymn of the Republic" will follow the sun.

The country for which these men died was founded upon principles thus declared by the founders: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness; that to secure these rights Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of Government becomes destructive of these ends it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it."

Our soldiers have lived in a country so dedicated. It is not to be supposed that they have gone about their hard business chanting or repeating the noble sentiments of the most inspired leaders of their nation. They have been fighting off death and injury and trying to do injury to the enemy before he did it to them. That is a man's sized job, twenty-four hours a day. Nor will it be said that the country has never varied from its true course. Nevertheless its main course has been true and its people have been true.

The people of the United States believe that freedom is an inalienable right. The soldiers of the United States believe that. The fathers of many of them came here to find and exercise the right. The people of the United States have taken up arms on occasions thruout their history to support the right for themselves and for others.

In the war against Spain, in the other war against Germany, and in this war against Germany, Italy, and Japan the people and the soldiers understood that their fight was against tyranny and for freedom. In this war the American spokesmen expanded and extended the idea of freedom to proportions and distances hitherto out of calculation. If the fighting men ever asked themselves why they were fighting in every quarter of the globe they must have found their answer in these declarations or have found none at all.

Today is the day of remembrance, of flags, flowers, and memorial services. Is tomorrow to be the day of forgetfulness? Can we observe the progress of revived imperialism and, consenting to it, be sure we believe that "to secure these rights Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed"?

Are we sure "we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain"?

NAMES FOR THE DAY

Well, let's see: Is it Memorial day or Decoration day, or both? It began as Decoration day, certainly, and the name, uniquely American, sprang up in a folksy sort of way. It was, no doubt, adopted by state legislatures, and years passed before any one thought of changing it. It suited every one until the restless improvers who can't leave well enough alone demanded the adoption of the more formal and explicit word.

* * *

The changers might have been answered in this vein: Memorials we have always with us, in a multitude of forms. We have memorial hospitals, theaters, arches, stadia, plaques, scholarships, expositions, postage stamps, gymnasiums, etc. The word is a much used coin of speech, and has been carved in granite or cast in bronze all over the land. But Decoration day stood alone in its simple beauty.

* * *

Some of the states may not have made the change, for we note that the World Almanac, 1941 issue, says in its listing of public holidays, "Decoration day or Memorial day." Note the precedence given to the older name. Webster's dictionary, 1940 edition, prints the full definition under Memorial day, but cites Decoration day as its equivalent. Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," of English origin, contains an entry on Decoration day, and no mention of Memorial day. The Century Cyclopedia of Names, published in 1899, omits both names. [It also has nothing to say about the Fourth of July.]

* * *

Anyway, the editor of this column grew up with Decoration day, and has no intention of changing his habits of speech. Black Jack Logan, a fine figure of a soldier on a spirited bronze horse in Grant park, fixed that name in the American mind when he issued his order of May 5, 1868, to the G. A. R.:

"For the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country."

REMEMBRANCE

(1776-1945)

As years revolve, each stated Feast and Fast
Is marked with due observance on the scroll
Of calendars, mute summoning the past
Anew to living men.

So long his toll
Exacting Death demands, red-letter days
Recall some great event for human weal;
While somber dates, with tears supplanting praise,
Remind us how the erstwhile joyful peal
Became the solemn knell that mournful plays
About our ear.

To one, the battle's gloom
May light the summit of his earthly glory;
While o'er another, parents close the tomb
On noble deeds in dust.

Such is the story
From Independence to Memorial day.
A nation's greatness all alike involves;
We cheer with some, with others sorrowing pray.
'Tis thus the patriotic year revolves
With joy and grief in alternate array.

John Astley-Cock

Uncle Herman's Day

The only time the family ever thinks of Uncle Herman is on Decoration day. He served with Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders at El Caney and San Juan. Ma considered him a black sheep because of his tobacco chewing and occasional sprees. But to us kids he was the family hero. He entranced us with tales of the Spanish war. The scar on his cheek was always good for a lengthy recitation.

Uncle Herman always paraded on Decoration day, Springfield rifle held smartly against his shoulder. He left his rifle to me when he passed away.

Neglect has tilted his headstone; weeds and lilac bushes almost hide his grave. Again this year I'll make the pilgrimage there, with a potted geranium and a small flag. I know he will like the flowers because they are as bright as the medals he so proudly wore.

Alexander Beifuss

LET THERE BE LILACS

Let there be lilacs, Lord, when they reach heaven,
Clean lilacs nodding gaily in the sun;
Let them forget the filth and prison bars,
Remember only quiet winds that run
On tiptoe across shadows on the grass;
Have thrushes singing in a near-by lane
That they may know the gentleness of song,
Show them bright rainbows laced with crystal rain;
Teach them to laugh, dear Lord, these broken men,
And walk with them till they feel safe again.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks answers questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents. Replies will be given by mail if stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice may be obtained from The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., or by phone, Superior 0200.]

Mrs. C. A. writes: "If the mother of a flyer can wear his wings denoting that her son flies, then surely the mother of a combat infantry man can wear the badge denoting her son fights on the ground. My son asked me to wear the badge. Is it unlawful for me to do so?"

Wearing of military badges and insignia by civilians is not authorized. Badges and decorations are awarded to individuals to denote achievement, proficiency, or service and should not be worn by others. Neither should service ribbons denoting participation in campaigns and battles be worn by civilians except veterans to whom they were issued. Ribbons of veterans' organizations are protected by law and if worn by nonmembers subject them to prosecution. The only time civilians are authorized to wear military medals is when such medal is presented posthumously to a next of kin. Then the officer in charge of the presentation ceremony may pin the medal on the clothing in lieu of handing it to the recipient in an open container.

Mrs. L. S. writes: "I have heard that sons of deceased veterans of World War I. are given consideration for nonhazardous army duty. Is this true?"

Nonhazardous duty is given to a surviving son in a family where two or more have been killed in action, taken prisoner, or reported missing. No special preference is given to sons of World War I. veterans.

NOTE: A Porto Rican army of occupation medal which was lost during the memorial parade May 27 has been turned in to the Friend of the Yanks by the finder, a New York war veteran, who was visiting Chicago and who is eager that the keepsake be returned to the owner.

OUR PHYSICIAN CASUALTIES

PHYSICIANS fight and die too. As an example of one of the many citations we quote the following: "The navy cross was awarded posthumously to Lt. —— for extraordinary heroism at Guam. With the hospital subjected to a fierce attack by hostile rifles, machine guns, and mortars while he was performing a series of operations on the wounded patients under his care. Lt. —— calmly and deliberately carried on in the face of bullets and fragments which continually penetrated his station. Only when this vital task had been completed and his patients evacuated did Lt. —— leave his post to render further service by ministering to combat casualties and was himself mortally wounded while proceeding in front of our lines to assist another wounded man. His personal valor and high professional integrity, maintained in utter disregard of all danger to himself, reflect the highest credit. He gallantly gave his life for his country."

During this struggle the medical profession has contributed over 50,000 of their numbers to the armed forces. These highly skilled men are capable of bringing years of experience wherever needed. They are of all ages, from cities and villages, specialists and general practitioners working together for the common cause.

As a result, 97 out of every 100 soldiers wounded in battle were saved. In addition, miracles of rehabilitation have been performed. The death rate from illness was reduced more than 95 per cent over what it was in the last war. This record reflects the high caliber of the medics who are responsible for the welfare of our fighting men. Those who have lost their dear ones can be assured that the best of care was always available.

By May of 1945, over 438 physicians had died while serving their country. Of these, 130 were killed in actual combat. This figure represents only a certain proportion of the total because of the natural delay in releasing information of this type. This does not include the litter bearers who go unarmed into the thick of battle in search of the wounded nor the ambulance drivers, nurses, technicians, and dentists. These men and women have faced risks so that others might live. They can be found in foxholes, landing barges, and ships at sea and in the air.

Others have subjected themselves to the dangers of research. This group includes those who studied tropical diseases and the effects of various machines on the human body. One flight surgeon, who was testing a certain oxygen container for high altitude jumps, descended in a parachute from an altitude of nearly 8 miles [40,200 feet], and set an American record. Another, who tried a similar experiment, was killed in the attempt.

To those who have offered the supreme sacrifice we owe an everlasting debt. In our humble way each Memorial day we bow our heads in gratitude and veneration. This is only a feeble gesture of appreciation. The departed ask only that we carry on the principles for which they fought. These ideals are for us to preserve so that our heroes did not die in vain. We must remain strong in order to prevent future aggressions.

We should have no regrets and I am sure that the fallen would have it this way, for today our flag flies in the skies where it will ever remain an emblem of justice and fair dealing. To those who have gone we may say in the familiar words of Matthew, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

ARTHRITIS

L. H. writes: It is said that arthritis is caused by a deposit in the joints. What is this substance composed of?

REPLY

In gouty arthritis the deposits are urate crystals. In other types, they may be made up of bone and cartilage.

BLOOD CARRIES GERMS

G. Y. writes: Is there such a thing as tuberculosis of the blood?

REPLY

Not in the sense that the blood cells are tuberculous, but the bacilli can be carried to other parts of the body thru the circulation.

JUST HUMANS

J. D. writes: Can animals suffer from chickenpox?

REPLY

Day of Memory

Today the women will go to the cemeteries again. They go, as they have gone every year for 79 years, to lay flowers on the graves of their men fallen in battle. Some will go in person. Many, far more, will go in thought only, for the boy from Alabama lies where he fell, in the wheat field at Gettysburg, and the boy from Minnesota lies on the bluffs over the Mississippi at Vicksburg, the boy from California lies near the walls of Verdun and St. Lo and the Ardennes, and the boy from Texas lies under the coral of Tarawa and the lava of Iwo Jima and the waters of two oceans.

The flowers laid on these must be the flowers of memory. To the women who would lay them one can only say: Grieve not that this grave is not green. The flower of his native land may not bloom over your son, but the flower of memory will bloom there always, for the flower of memory will live as long as there is man and will always be green.

As always, there will today be speeches, speeches which can never fill a loss or make it less, speeches which should never be made by any who has not seen the sorrow and the loss of battle with his own eyes. The chaplain of the U. S. S. North Dakota expressed this fervently last year. He had just seen the hungry Pacific swallow the flag-draped bodies of 36 men dead in combat. "As long as I live," he said, "I will never deliver another Memorial day address." Lincoln knew it. He stood at Gettysburg on ground drenched with the blood of brothers who fell as they fought each other. "We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground," he said. ". . . It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work . . ."

A mother of this war knew it. She stood at Arlington as the bugler blew his final note over the open grave of her young flyer son. "My baby . . . a man," she said, as she turned tearlessly away.

Far, far away from here, in a sleepy, dreamy little southern town where by now the magnolia should be in full creamy bloom and the cape jessamine in heady scent, there is a cemetery called Friendship. What will happen in other cemeteries today is a topic for any one's guess, but unless much has changed in Columbus, Miss., there will be no speeches this day in Friendship cemetery.

The road to Friendship is lined with flowering japonicas and scented with the heavy sweetness of pink honeysuckle, and the trees in it are like giant lace—hackberries and pin oaks and the gingko. In it are many graves, some new and fresh, some eroded by a few decades, and 1440 with ancient, crumbling headstones sunk deeply into the earth with the weight of years.

Few of the men who went out from Columbus to fight in the army of the Confederacy in the Civil war came home to tell of it. Few came home at all except under a tarpaulin in an open wagon. But their brothers and cousins and fellows in gray, falling in near-by battles, came home to Friendship cemetery. By the spring of 1866 the little cemetery contained the graves of 1,400 boys who fell wearing gray. It contained, as well, the graves of 40 boys who fell wearing blue.

Three young women, so the story goes, used to walk out to Friendship every day or so that spring to tend the graves. One day they took along the young widow of a Confederate soldier. Later she wrote of it:

"We had so many flowers and the other graves were so bare and desolate that I said to my friends, 'Let us drop a flower on each of their graves for their mothers' sakes.'"

They did, and word of their deed spread so quickly that a few days later, on April 25, the women of the entire town came back. First came young girls dressed all in white. Then came matrons in mourning clothes. Last came elderly women in carriages. All carried flowers.

They put the flowers on every grave, the 40 of the Union soldiers first, and then the 1,400 graves of their own.

And so began the day which knows neither caste nor creed nor hatreds, ancient or present.

QUESTIONS ON BRETTON WOODS

Chicago, May 25—This communication may be slightly garbled because I fear that I come under the class known as the "economically illiterate" lately given prominence last Sunday. Anyway, I wish to ask a few questions of any one who cares to answer them.

1. Is there any country besides the United States that is not in the market for a loan?

2. Is there any country besides the United States that would not borrow up to the hilt from the international bank set up by Bretton Woods?

3. Can the people of the United States expect any other country to pay the just obligations which they contract to pay? [Beg pardon Finland. Your signature is good.]

If we must give let's call it a gift, not a loan. No real American wants any human to starve. But must we keep the world? That is demoralizing, as witness our WPA. Let the voice of American citizens be heard in defense of the standard of living that our fathers gave us as our inheritance.

C. A. JOHNSON JR.

THERE'S STILL A WAR

OKINAWA, May 18—We read about the big celebration the folks back home had on V-E day. We also heard that in many places the workers were given a day off. That's swell! We were tired, too, but the orders came and we attacked. Some of our buddies didn't make it. You probably heard of the 96th division, a large percentage of which is from the Chicago area. That's us.

We were glad that the war in Europe is over, but there are also lives to be saved over here for every hour that the war can be shortened. That day off will count. For our part, we took President Truman's advice and celebrated with a day of prayer. We had to pray and fight at the same time. You have nothing to celebrate as long as a single man's life is in danger for your sake. Let's all wait until we can celebrate together—those of us who are left.

THE BEAR WALKED LIKE A MAN IN 1890

Chicago, May 23—Can any one tell me when "The Man Who Was" left the pen of Rudyard Kipling? This story begins thus:

"Let it be clearly understood that the Russian is a delightful person till he tucks his shirt in. As an oriental he is charming. It is only when he insists upon being treated as the most easterly of western peoples, instead of the most westerly of easterns, that he becomes a racial anomaly extremely difficult to handle. The host never knows which side of his nature is going to turn up next."

It would seem to be a word of warning for those of us with the American gullible nature.

SARDINE LOADING ON THE "L"

Chicago, May 18—When are the people going to get hep, or do they like to be pushed into the "L" trains in the subway? I get on at Jackson every night. When I get home I am so tired that I just fall asleep in a chair. I don't blame the platform guards for this, but something's wrong with the system.

MISS RETIA BURK

RELEASES FOR MARINES AND SAILORS

Chicago, May 25—Those in our navy and marine corps who, according to the army system, have accrued enough points to merit a discharge are probably without exception men who voluntarily enlisted in these branches of service rather than waiting to be drafted. Only comparatively recently have these branches drawn men thru selective service. Therefore, because there is no discharge available at present from the navy and its branches to those who are still able to fight, they are being penalized for having offered their services and for having been sent to the Pacific rather than to Europe—especially the marines, who have fought land actions of the same type, tho apparently of more difficult caliber, as the army in the Pacific.

The army has even taken men off Okinawa for discharge under its point system. What of the marines such as I know who have participated in the battles of Midway, Makin, Guadalcanal, Bougainville, Tarawa, Saipan, and Iwo Jima? Why can't those who have enough points be discharged and replaced by marines who have served long in this country? If there aren't enough of these men, the marine corps could raise its quota in the draft, even if it means taking some men from the army. This would perhaps lower the number of men who could then be discharged from the army, but at least the marine would be getting a break, too. To me this seems only fair.

A PRISONER WOULD FARE BETTER

Cleveland, O., May 23—One of the most terrible indictments of our country I have ever heard came from the lips of a returned soldier who was in the hotel lobby here tonight. He had been in the European theater of war 23 months, had two service bars, the Purple Heart, and another medal. He was figuring over the points the OPA had given him for his furlough and, looking up, he said, "I would have fared better had I had on the uniform of a German soldier."

A RACKET?

Chicago, May 22—Five years ago, and up to January of this year, I could buy my brand of pipe tobacco in one pound jars at about 90 cents a pound. Now the only way it can be had is in 1¼ ounce packages, at 15 cents a package. A pound costs me about $2. It seems there is no shortage of tobacco, paper, or labor in 15 cent packages.

HOME MANUFACTORY

Chicago, May 28—Is a tenant within his legal right if he starts a small manufacturing business in a city apartment without consulting his landlord?

E. P.

It depends on the wording of the lease, on whether the location is zoned for such use, and on the nature of the manufacturing.

SIX BOND ISSUES ARE APPROVED BY FEDERATION

Civic Group Rejects Big Airport Project

Six of the seven bond issues to be voted on next Monday by Chicago residents were approved by the Civic federation in a bulletin issued yesterday. The one bond issue disapproved is the 15 million dollar post-war airport project.

Bond issues approved are: Slum clearance, 5 million dollars; new parks, 24 millions; refuse collection and street cleaning equipment, 1.5 millions; garages for this equipment, $500,000; new playgrounds, 2 millions; fire and police stations, 2 millions.

The federation's objection to the airport bond issue is on the ground no definite plan for post-war airport development has been adopted. "The Civic federation in passing upon bond issues over a long period of years always has advised against writing blank checks for the governments," read the report.

Court Salary Boost Opposed

The federation also disapproved the proposition to amend the Municipal court act to provide increases from $2,500 to $3,500 in maximum salaries of deputy bailiffs and deputy clerks on the ground the city council, which is responsible for the annual budget, has no control over the maximum salaries that may be paid within the limits set by this statute and that 40 per cent is too large a salary boost.

With the seven bond issues and two propositions, the second setting up the Chicago transit authority, the voters will have 10 squares to "X" besides the perfunctory marking of the coalition ballot of 24 Circuit and Superior court judges.

Except for the garbage truck item, the proposed projects belong in the long term scheme of post-war civic improvement.

State to Help Slum Clearance

The 5 millions proposed for slum clearance is to be matched with state funds under the program devised by the mayor and Gov. Green. The 10 millions, the mayor said, will "set in motion comprehensive plans."

The Chicago park district is seeking 24 millions to start a 10 year program to provide every ward with at least one park of eight acres or larger, costing in the end 60 millions. At prevailing low interest rates, President Dunham said, it will be possible to issue 6 millions of new bonds each year without increasing taxes. The 10 year program calls for 43 new parks, extension of Lincoln Park to the north city limits, and 139 improvement projects in existing parks.

Street Commissioner Johnson said the refuse collection bonds were planned to purchase more than a hundred modern elevator garbage trucks. With the 175 now in use, it would be possible to make collections on one eight hour shift instead of the two shifts now worked. It is planned also to buy several modern street sweepers. Bonds marked for equipment garages also would provide a repair shop.

More Playgrounds for Children

Fifty neighborhood playgrounds, some a block in area and others of half a block, can be provided with the 2 millions sought for that purpose, said Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. They would be cleared, leveled off, fenced, and provided with benches. The city now has 41 play lots and athletic fields. The new ones would be located where children do not have access to present playgrounds, parks, or school yards.

Members of the Greater Central District association have voted almost unanimously in favor of the park bond issue, President William F. Krahl announced. Frank M. Whiston, president of the Wabash Avenue District association, said the members of that organization are being asked to support the issue.

Sam Levin, president of the Illinois council, CIO, said leaflets are being prepared by the state political action committee to be sent to CIO members, indorsing all the bond issues and both special propositions.

A. M. A. CONDEMNS MEDICAL BILL AS SOCIALISM

New social security legislation, providing a vast program of medical care and hospital insurance, which was introduced by Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], has brought a sharp protest from the American Medical association.

The current issue of the Journal, the association's spokesman, states: "Sen. Wagner went so far as to say that 'health insurance is not socialized medicine; it is not state medicine.' With this pronouncement, most people with any understanding of the situation will differ. They will insist that compulsory sickness insurance with federal control is both socialized medicine and state medicine."

The bill, the Journal continues, "completely disregards the majority opinion of the 125,000 physicians who constitute the American Medical association and who provide the major portion of medical practice for the people of the United States. The bill also disregards the 60,000 physicians now in the armed forces."

MOTHER FILES SUIT TO REGAIN MONTH OLD SON

Mrs. Norma Savage

Mrs. Norma Savage, 20, of 408 Wisconsin st., yesterday filed suit in County court to set aside the adoption of her son, James, born April 22 in Swedish Covenant hospital. The action, filed by Atty. Benjamin H. Ehrlich, is directed against the baby's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reber of 3844 Elston av.

The suit charged that Mrs. Savage was coerced into surrendering her baby by her estranged husband, Edward, 25, 3610 N. Oakley blvd., a discharged soldier; his mother, Angeline, and sister, Mrs. Fern Wahrer. The bill accused Savage of striking her and the mother and sister of having threatened her with confinement in an asylum.

Ehrlich said he would ask County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to set aside the adoption Friday so a Superior court suit filed by Mrs. Savage, seeking separate maintenance and support for the child, can proceed.

LIFT CENSORSHIP FROM FILMS FOR IMPORT, EXPORT

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—The office of censorship announced today that censorship of motion pictures for import and export, including newsreels, will be placed on a voluntary basis effective June 9.

Censorship Director Price said compulsory controls were being discontinued because the end of the European war "permits a general readjustment of censorship policies, having in mind the lessened risk to our national security and the need for economy in public expenditures."

Under the voluntary plan, the motion picture industry will follow the security code used by the press and radio, Price said.

TOLL OF CANCER CAN BE GREATLY CUT, MEDIC SAYS

Fourteen victims of cancer are carried to Chicago's cemeteries daily, a number which could be greatly reduced if the knowledge which science now has of the disease were to be fully utilized, Dr. Josiah J. Moore, president of the Chicago Medical society, said yesterday at a luncheon of Chicago business leaders in the Chicago club.

"Cancer cannot be controled by pasteurizing milk or watching the water supply," he said. "It is a personal problem, and we have to fight it that way—by educating the public and physicians so that cancer can be diagnosed and treated early."

He recommended the establishment of more cancer prevention clinics where periodic physical examinations could be obtained. The luncheon marked the opening of one phase of the campaign to raise $560,000 in the Chicago area for cancer education, diagnosis, treatment, and research.

MISS ELLMS

"THE BIG LION"

That was Hank Martin—the lowly peddler with a gift of hypnotic oratory who became governor of the "Magnolia State." But power poisoned his mind, and he became more and more corrupt until he was finally destroyed by "the people." Such is the theme of the most talked-of novel of the day, "The Lion Is in the Streets" by Adria Locke Langley. Miss Ellms has a supply ready and waiting at the Hyde Park Book Shop . . . A surprise "scoop" is "Bolts of Melody," a collection of 600 heretofore unpublished poems by Emily Dickinson. Be sure to read its companion book, too, "Ancestors' Brocades," by Millicent Todd Bingham, the story of Emily's literary debut . . . In a mellow mood, George Santayana continues the story of his life. "The Middle Span" is restful, gratifying reading . . . Have you a little blonde in your home? Miss Ellms can fix you up. Ask to see "Virgin with Butterflies" by Tom Powers—the amazing story of a nite club cutie who gets innocently involved with gangsters, Indian princes and the F.B.I. . . . Be fussy! 2,900,000 WAR JOBS TO END IN THREE MONTHS

Unemployment to Jump 1,100,000, Says Krug

BY ROBERT YOUNG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 29—War plants will discharge an estimated 2,900,000 workers in the next three months, and unemployment in the nation will jump 1,100,000 from the present 800,000 level to a total of 1,900,000 after civilian industries have filled their needs, Chairman Krug of the war production board said today.

Six months from now, he predicted in his monthly munitions production report, the number of workers no longer needed for war output will have risen to 4,800,000, but total unemployment by the end of November will have declined moderately from the expected Aug. 3 level.

Million Veterans Part of Total

Krug said that the 4,800,000 no longer required for war activities six months hence will include 1,000,000 dismissed from military service.

The persons absorbed by the expanding civilian economy and the fighting forces will amount to 4,100,000," he said.

"At the same time, the withdrawals from the labor force are expected to exceed new entrants by 200,000, leaving 1,300,000 persons unemployed, or 600,000 less than at the end of the first three months."

As of May 12, Krug reported, war production cutbacks already made had trimmed about 7 billion dollars from the peak munitions program for 1945, leaving the total at 55 billion dollars. He said that the military services are reviewing their requirements, and that within a few weeks another large "stepdown" is expected. Some further small readjustments are likely in succeeding months, he added.

War Tasks Still Great

Altho the war is half won, the nation's war production task has not been cut in half, Krug said. The 7 billion dollar slash is "a substantial drop," he commented, but it still does not bring munitions programs down to a true one-front war basis. He said that even when all of the war program cutbacks have taken effect, military requirements will continue to engage a "very large" portion of the country's resources, but a large amount of man power, materials, and industrial capacity will be released for conversion to civilian production.

Krug indicated wage increases might be sought to remedy what he described as the two major man power threats to sustained production for the Pacific war—the tendency of war workers to leave their jobs for peace time employment, and their reluctance to move into low wage industries like lumber and textiles.

"Within the limits permitted by the stabilization policy, wage adjustments can probably do more to solve man power shortages than any other measures, and if the necessary production levels cannot be reached, it may become necessary to ask for a modification of the wage and price ceilings for a number of low wage industries," Krug stated.

COURT TO PRESS 'MASS PERJURY' LIQUOR CHARGE

United States Atty. Woll last night awaited a transcript of testimony given by eight employes for the Royal Wine and Liquor, Inc., 544 S. Wells st., which Judge John P. Barnes, in federal District court, yesterday branded as "mass perjury."

The court issued a preliminary injunction against the firm, one of the largest liquor distributors in this area, restraining it from tie-in sales in violation of office of price administration regulations.

"I have not heard so much mass perjury since the prohibition days," Judge Barnes said after blasting statements made by the employes. The judge directed office of price administration Atty. Francis Zimmerman to present the case to Woll for possible criminal action.

"I'm tired of mass perjury," Judge Barnes said, "and if he [the federal attorney] does not want to take it before the grand jury, let me know and I will call a grand jury."

He praised eight dealers who defied reprisals to testify.

KELLY ASKS CITY DEAL ONLY WITH U.S. ON AIRPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 29—Mayor Kelly of Chicago and Mayor La Guardia of New York, speaking as representatives of the United States conference of mayors, today asked congress to permit municipalities to deal directly with the federal government in handling their airport construction plans under the proposed federal aid airport act.

The act would appropriate 650 million dollars over the next 10 years with 75 per cent of the money going to the various states under a plan whereby federal grants would be matched by the states. Cities would have to deal with the states.

Mayor Kelly, vice chairman of the conference, said he has no quarrel with the state government in Illinois but believes Chicago and other cities should be permitted to deal directly with Civil Aeronautics administration in solving its airport problems.

Chicago, he said, wants home rule as much as possible and is not accustomed to being regulated by outside agencies.

BARRETT VOWS BATTLE AGAINST 'L' FARE INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 29—Atty. Gen. Barrett issued a statement today that he will urge a state Supreme court review of its opinion last week stating that the Chicago Rapid Transit company should be allowed to increase its basic fare from 10 to 12 cents.

"I shall immediately seek and vigorously urge a reconsideration of the Supreme court's opinion in the Chicago elevated fare case," the statement said. "I have consistently opposed all fare increases sought by transportation and railroad companies, and I shall continue to do so. I have been and shall continue to be opposed to a 12 cent fare or any other fare greater than the present 10 cent fare as a base charge for the Chicago lines."

1,000 Illegally in U. S. to Be Deported Thursday

New York, May 29 (AP)—The exchange ship Gripsholm will leave Jersey City at 4 p. m. [EWT] Thursday for Europe with about 1,200 passengers, a state department spokesman said today. The ship's departure had been set originally for today. The state department said 1,000 of the passengers were persons who were illegally in this country. The Gripsholm will return with repatriated Americans.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By GAIL COMPTON

May 29, 1945

RATS on the farm are slated for a little trouble. The men are tired of supporting the pests, not only because they carry diseases, but also because authorities estimate the cost of keeping a rat at from $8 to $12 per year. Multiply this by the number of rats on any farm and you get a tidy sum the farmer pays out for rat food each year.

At the Wheaton farm, there are three spots where the rat population is heavy. The first is the chicken farm, where the long tailed marauders have carved out homes under the poultry buildings. The rats also have located thickly in the work horse barn, where feed is plentiful.

Brobdingnagian Rats

The worst place of all is the stables where the saddle horses are housed. Here the rats are so big it is a wonder the stableman hasn't thrown a saddle over one by mistake.

Cats have been turned loose in the saddle horse stable and the rats have stopped making a prominent display of themselves. So far as can be determined, the cats haven't killed any rats yet, but they certainly have scared the rodents.

Prepared red squill baits have been put out; as they disappeared, it is assumed the rats devoured them. More red squill has been ordered and when it comes a systematic baiting of the bad spots will be undertaken.

Tile Chore Done

The manager, thanks to the rain which made the fields unworkable, finally has gotten a low spot in one of the hay fields thoroly tiled. Tile was run the width of the field to lead into a drainage ditch. The tiles cross a low spot where the men can always count on the ground being wet when every other spot is dry. At intervals, over the tiles, the manager had sand placed up to ground level. This will give a number of porous spots where the water can drain downward quickly to the tiles.

Bad luck marked the arrival of the first Angus calf of the season. An Angus cow, which wasn't due to calve for months yet, aborted. As the black herd was tested not long ago and found clear of Bang's disease, the herdsman is at a loss to know what caused the cow to lose her calf. The vet was called to make an examination of the calf.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who made March plantings of spinach should watch for aphids [plant lice], which already are damaging this crop. Gray splotches on the edges of the leaves are the first evidence of these leaf sucking insects. On the undersides of such leaves, gardeners will find hundreds of green crawlers so tiny that single insects are almost invisible.

They feed in colonies of hundreds or even thousands of individuals on a single leaf, and collectively withdraw enough plant juices to wilt and eventually destroy the plant.

Rotenone dust can be used to combat spinach aphids, but nicotine sulphate is more effective. If nicotine is dusted or sprayed on the leaves, they must be carefully cleaned before being cooked. In mixing the spray, use one tablespoonful of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate to three gallons of water. A heaping tablespoonful of ordinary soap flakes also may be added to the spray mixture.

VETS WILL NEED SPECIAL JOB AID, McNUTT WARNS

The problem of the returning veterans is "an All-American problem," declared Chairman McNutt of the war man power commission, in an address last night before the 11th annual conference of veterans' employment representatives in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

McNutt said that many thousands of veterans have never held civilian jobs, and will be confronted with an America of new industries, new techniques, and new occupations. These, he said, will need special advice in deciding on their first civilian jobs.

Other veterans, McNutt said, have learned new skills in radio and other fields, and must be assisted to find outlets for these talents. Disabled men too, he said, will require help and must be assisted as effectively as those who escaped war injury. All in all, the WMC chairman asserted, the veterans must be given an even chance in the labor market, but not more than that accorded the non-veteran.

Truman O. K.s 4 Billion Slash in Ship Building

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—President Truman today signed a measure slicing $4,265,000,000 off the war budget of the maritime commission. The cut-back in the program of ship construction and facilities was recommended by the President three weeks ago. It was the first time since the war program began that the funds for any war-connected agency have been reduced.

ONTARIO RACE SPURTS INTO A FAST FINISH

Eclipses Federal Vote as Epithets Fly

BY ARTHUR EVANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TORONTO, Ont., May 29.—Ontario's provincial election next Monday is winding up in a scorching controversy over charges made by E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the Coöperative Commonwealth Federation [socialist] that Premier George Drew, Progressive-Conservative, has maintained a secret police to keep himself in power.

Drew at once swung back with the words "a pack of lies," and has appointed Justice A. M. Lebel of the Ontario supreme court as royal commissioner to investigate accusations that a so-called gestapo has been operated.

The national election to be held June 11 has been thrown in the background by the provincial campaign, which is the equivalent of a state election in the United States, and it makes more complicated than ever the results of the federal campaign.

Hurl Epithets at Each Other

In Ontario's curtain raiser for the national sweepstakes, the leading parties and their heads are hurling epithets at each other.

Drew, heading the Progressive-Conservatives, a remodeled and modernized Conservative of Tory party, has been premier since August, 1943, but without a majority of the 90 seats in the legislature.

The Liberals are headed by Mitchell F. Hepburn, former premier and arch critic of Prime Minister King. Three years ago Hepburn was attacking the Liberal government at Ottawa as "an army of penguins."

The C. C. F., a socialist party with roots in Saskatchewan, in the 1943 election carried twice as many seats in the Ontario legislature as the Liberals, and within four or five of the Conservatives, thus becoming the formal opposition party.

Drew went in without an over-all majority of the legislature, and gave a good administration so long as the C. C. F.'s and the Liberals aided him. Then last March Hepburn yanked the chair from under Drew. The 16 Liberals voted with 32 members of the C. C. F. and three others for a motion of want of confidence in the Drew administration. Three votes were not cast.

Musters Only 36 Votes

Drew could muster only 36 votes against 51, and an election of a new legislature was called for next Monday.

Jolliffe's charges which enlivened a rather dull campaign were that a government paid political spy office had been set up in a police garage at 18 Surrey place with Capt. W. J. Osborne-Dempster in charge to keep the government in power. He cited the names of several persons, including himself, on whom "the gestapo made reports."

Drew said he had never had any dealings with Capt. Osborne-Dempster, who was a British intelligence officer in World War I.

The anti-sabotage branch of the provincial police, of which Osborne-Dempster is a member, has worked with the royal Canadian mounted police in taking measures to prevent war sabotage. The "spy office" in Surrey place had a large sign on it "Ontario provincial police, upstairs."

Story Muddles Situation

Last week indications were that Drew was likely to win, but the Jolliffe story has muddled the situation until the politicians say it is too complicated to dope out the results.

Traditionally, Ontario had been rated the stamping grounds of the Conservatives, until National Liberal landslides took place in 1935 and 1940. With its 82 seats in the dominion house of commons, it has one-third the votes in that body of 245.

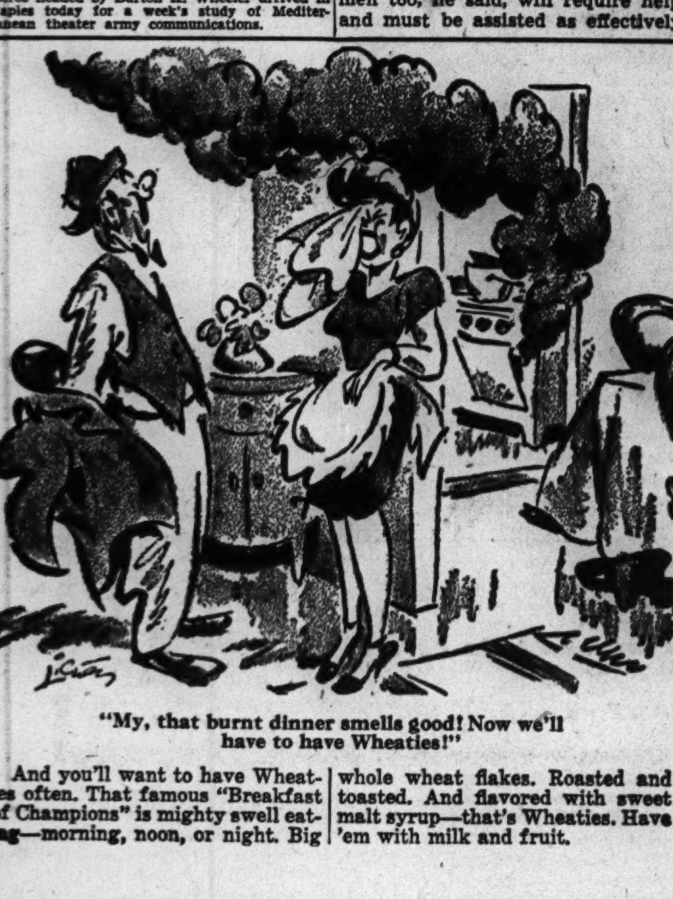
Taylor to Return to U. S. in June to See President

ROME, May 29—Myron C. Taylor will return to the United States in mid-June "to confer with the President," he confirmed today. Ever since President Roosevelt died the exact status of his personal representative to the Vatican has been somewhat unclear. Taylor said he had simply followed the general order which went out to "everybody" at the time of the late President's death to "stand by your post." He has been very busy ever since.



"My, that burnt dinner smells good! Now we'll have to have Wheaties!"

And you'll want to have Wheaties often. That famous "Breakfast of Champions" is mighty swell eating—morning, noon, or night. Big whole wheat flakes. Roasted and toasted. And flavored with sweet malt syrup—that's Wheaties. Have 'em with milk and fruit.

SAYS POST-WAR PLAN MAY DELAY HOME BUILDING

Sees Competition for Labor, Materials

BY GEORGE TAGGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 29—A charge that the state's 127 million dollar post-war construction program will conflict with the great need of private citizens for housing, was made today in the senate hearing on a 99 million dollar appropriation bill.

Because nearly all of the post-war budget is for building construction, skeptics estimate that it is the equivalent of man hours and materials to build at least 10,000 homes costing $10,000 each.

Sen. Dick [R., Quincy] asked Finance Director George B. McKibbin whether it is not true that the state will be competing with citizens for the limited amount of skilled labor and building materials after the war.

Discounts Competition

"That's right," McKibbin replied.

Later the finance director said that the competition will not be as great as might be generally supposed. Actually the state construction will be done at a rate of perhaps 20 million dollars a year, he said."

T. P. Sullivan, director of public safety, said many of the projects concerning prisons are necessary immediately.

Most of the time was spent going over the University of Illinois items totaling over 16 million dollars.

Sen. Giffin [R., Springfield] questioned an item of 2 millions for a "sports palace" at Champaign. He brought out the fact that it would be used for the state high school basketball tournaments. It developed that Giffin's principal objection was to the location. He contended that Springfield has more hotels for those coming to see the tournaments.

"There is considerable misconception about this item," said Douglas Mills, athletic director of the university. "If it were just for high school tournaments I couldn't justify it.

Apartments for Vets

"For the last 20 years the athletic department hasn't received any state help. We have used our own funds from gate receipts and alumni contributions. But our present facilities will be entirely inadequate after the war."

Arthur Cutts Willard, University of Illinois president, declared that there was pressing need for research buildings. He also said there should be no delay in providing apartment-like student halls for war veterans who will attend the university with their wives. Asked by Sen. Dick whether it will not be foolish to spend 3 million dollars for a type of housing that has a transistory need, Dr. Willard replied that later the residences will be used for married graduate students and faculty members.

Sen. Lantz [R., Congerville] was doubtful about $66,950 for a residence for a prison warden and assistant warden.

"I challenge any one to build a place for less that you would want the warden to live in," said C. Herrick Hammond, state architect.

SENATE PASSES BILL CREATING NEW TAX POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 29—The senate today passed, 30 to 5, the first bill in the series to equalize local property assessments in downstate counties by creating a new office of county supervisor of assessments, who would equalize valuations fixed by township assessors.

Little debate preceded the roll call, during which some downstaters sat silent. The supervisors of assessments, in every downstate county except St. Clair, would be paid from the state treasury and would be appointed in the same manner as county highway superintendents.

Chief opposition to the series of tax bills sponsored by Sen. Butler [R., Chicago] head of a special tax body, has come from a group of spokesmen for big taxpayers, who wanted the tax limits cut to approximately one third of the rates now fixed by law. They were outvoted by the senate revenue committee, however, in view of the insistence of the Illinois Municipal league and other groups that a cut to less than 50 per cent would not permit local governments to operate.

Cook county's major governments would continue on their present peg levy financing under the state-wide program. Bills to increase the city's corporation fund peg levy from 37 to 41 million dollars was introduced today by Rep. Rategan [D., Chicago] and Sen. Daley [D., Chicago].

Back to Mother

Mrs. Betty Lou Camm Dice (left), with her mother, Mrs. Ingeborg Camm, in county courthouse at Waukegan yesterday.

The four day marital romance of Mrs. Betty Lou Camm Dice, 17, and her 38 year old husband, Harold, which she protested Monday "would never cool," hit sub-zero status yesterday in the Lake County court in Waukegan.

An information was filed by the office of States Atty. Harry A. Hall against Dice, charging him with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and the case was set to be heard by a jury on June 12. A delinquency petition was filed against the young bride. She was given into custody of her mother, Mrs. Earl Camm of 5389 Bowmanville av.

When arrested and taken to the Lake County jail Monday, Betty Lou refused to eat until reunited with her husband. Yesterday, however, she returned his ring.

"He lied to me about being honorably discharged from the marines and he never told me about having a long criminal record," she explained.

DIRKSEN, BACK FROM EUROPE, ASSAILS UNRRA

Calls Work a Failure, Asks Congress Act

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 29—Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] told the house today that the job of administering relief to war torn nations has been a failure.

Rep. Dirksen

Reporting on his recent 32,000 mile trip to 20 countries, the congressman said he found maladministration, incapable personnel, and general inefficiency in the handling of allied relief operations abroad.

Finds Suspicion Created

Dirksen charged that the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, handling the relief task, has created "suspicion" among friendly nations instead of receiving the "wholehearted and enthusiastic coöperation one might ordinarily expect from those who are recipients of this relief." He called upon congress to reëxamine UNRRA and take steps to have it "do the job congress intended."

UNRRA, he explained, has failed to provide sufficient raw materials with which liberated nations could rebuild themselves, and instead has concentrated too heavily on direct relief that does not put idle persons to work.

Anti-U. S. Discriminations

He told the house that American economic interests are now suffering from high taxes levied by foreign nations on profits earned abroad, from cartels, and unfavorable exchange rates. Such discriminations would be stopped in return for future lend-lease, he said.

While praising much of the military and civilian work by American agencies abroad, Dirksen declared the army is "wasting its time" in trying to "reorient" American GIs before it sends them home.

The speaker reported that the army has a group of "long-haired men" overseas assigned to "tell our GIs not to bayonet anybody on Main st. when they come home."

MEDLEY HEARS STATE'S MURDER CASE OUTLINED

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special]—The game was stud poker, the limit $1, and the luck all bad for Joseph D. Medley at a gay party last March 6 in the swank 16th st. apartment of Mrs. Nancy Boyer, red haired divorcee.

When the game broke up around 5 a. m., Medley, whom Mrs. Boyer and the other guests regarded as a man of means but who actually was an escaped convict wanted in Chicago and New Orleans in connection with mysterious deaths of red haired women companions, was broke.

"Come Back for Breakfast"

Medley still had the good will of his hostess, who asked him to get a cab for one of the guests "and then come back and we will have breakfast as planned." He knew he could not keep this good will long, however, for in her purse was a worthless check for $25 he had written when he had run out of cash during the game.

Also in the purse, he had noticed when she opened it, was a fat roll of bills. On one of her fingers glittered a diamond and emerald ring surely good for several hundred dollars in any pawnshop.

This version of what happened the night before Mrs. Boyer was shot to death in her apartment was outlined today by United States Atty. John W. Fihelly to the jury of nine men and three women—none of them red haired—which is trying Medley for the murder of his hostess.

The Defendant Doodles

Fihelly asserted the government will prove Medley returned to the apartment after speeding the last departing guest and thereupon robbed her of money and jewelry, striking her when she protested and eventually shooting her to silence her outcries. He took her ring, $300, and a silver fox jacket when he left, Fihelly said.

Medley glanced indifferently at the witnesses as the government started to build up its case against him. Looking like a respectable business man, he sat at a counsel table doodling on a legal pad with a long yellow pencil. He made interlocking figure 8s.

Among the first witnesses were a New York jeweler who said he had sold the emerald and diamond ring to Mrs. Boyer last September and a Pittsburgh jeweler who testified his firm purchased the ring after Mrs. Boyer's death. The government charges Medley sold the ring for $250 in Pittsburgh the morning of March 8.

Victim's Friend Testifies

Alice T. Jensen, a friend of Mrs. Boyer's, testified that Mrs. Boyer frequently held poker parties and defrayed expenses for food and liquor by "cutting in" the pots.

The deaths of other red heads with which Medley has been connected are those of Mrs. Blanche Zimmerman in Chicago and Laura Fischer in New Orleans. Both women were found dead in hotel bath tubs in rooms they had shared with Medley. He escaped last Nov. 27 from a Michigan prison, where he was serving a kidnaping sentence.

STOLL KIDNAPER TO DIE JUNE 8 IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Louisville, Ky., May 29 (AP)—Thomas H. Robinson Jr. today began the last few days of his life after Federal Judge Shackleford Miller set June 8 for his execution for the ransom kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Robinson was brought here last night from the federal prison in Milan, Mich., and after the execution date had been set he was taken to Eddyville state penitentiary.

His chief contention during the trial and in his appeals was that his victim had not been injured permanently and that under the Lindbergh kidnaping law the death sentence could not be imposed. The government contended that Mrs. Stoll was injured seriously and that her hearing was impaired by blows on the head.

Holiday Is Time of Reunions in Numerous Chicago Homes

BY JUDITH CASS

SOON to be echoed in thousands of Chicago homes when husbands and sons—and daughters, too—come back from overseas duty are a number of happy reunions taking place over this Memorial day holiday.

Arriving today from Seattle, Wash., are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Emery Moore, who will be here over the week-end, staying in the Winnetka home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Moore. Young Mr. Moore's wife will be meeting his Chicago relatives and friends for the first time. It is hoped the younger Mr. Moore's brother, David Moore, and his wife will come from Pittsburgh for a family reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Moore Jr. will entertain at cocktails Saturday for his cousins, after which the senior Moores will be hosts in absentia at dinner in their home.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Moore have left for Colorado Springs, Colo., with Mrs. Lawrence Howe to attend the marriage of Mrs. Howe's son, Fisher Howe, and Miss Deborah Froelicher, on Monday. Miss Froelicher is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis M. Froelicher of the Fountain Valley School for Boys in Colorado Springs. Warren Howe will attend his brother as best man, and their sister, Mrs. Joseph L. Delafield, will be among the bridesmaids.

Other Holiday Visitors

The Charles D. Freys' home will be the scene of a family reunion this Memorial day, for their three children are at home simultaneously. Lt. and Mrs. Frey Jr. have come from his naval reserve post on the east coast, and by obtaining a leave at the same time Lt. Col. Gail Borden was able to bring his wife from Dayton, O., to spend a few days here. Last night Miss Barbara Frey, sister of Lt. Frey and Mrs. Borden, entertained at cocktails to welcome them home.

Taking part in the city's observance of Memorial day will be 50 officers and men of the 5th army, led by Gen. Mark Clark, who arrived here yesterday. Gen. Clark is a nephew of Mrs. John I. Marshall of Lake Forest, and his wife spoke here during the winter in the Woman's Athletic club. Among the officers who will appear today are Lt. Col. Henry E. Gardiner, formerly of Chicago, whose sister, Mrs. Gail R. Soper lives in Evanston, and Gen. John B. Coulter of Highland Park.

Wedding News

When Lt. Robert Estes Johnson returned a few days ago from overseas service with the army air forces, he and his fiancee, Miss Arminda Jean Jeffreys, immediately made plans to be married at 8:30 p. m. June 9 in the Glencoe Union church. The ceremony will be followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Jeffreys of Glencoe.

Miss Jeffreys, a member of this spring's graduating class at Northwestern university, will be attended by Miss Suzanne Snively of Janesville, Wis., as maid of honor and by Miss Ann Frary Ladd of Elgin, Miss Elizabeth Magathan of Washington, D. C., Miss Eileen Williams of Glencoe, and Miss Virginia Koch of Winnetka as bridesmaids. Two former classmates at Sweet Briar college, Miss Ann Richey of Lampasas, Tex., and Miss Harriet Hazen of Wheeling, W. Va., also will be here to take part in the festivities.

Mrs. Leonard Booth will give a shower Friday night for Miss Jeffreys. Monday night Miss Williams will be hostess at a shower, and Mrs. Clayton Dunham and Mrs. Gertrude S. H. Galloway are planning a bathroom shower for the following Thursday night. Miss Koch is inviting friends of the bride to luncheon June 8, and the bridal dinner will be given that night in the Skokie Country club.

Lt. Johnson will take his bride on a wedding trip to North Carolina before they go to his new post. He is the son of Mrs. Austin Belgard of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fabens Kelley of East End av. announce the marriage May 26 of their daughter,

Island Winds
(In Memoriam)

No shaft of stone in village square or mart
Can speak our tribute to his gallant heart;
No name inscribed can matter any more
To him who sleeps upon a windy shore.

So quietly he sleeps; the winds that stir
Each tight-furled bud and leaf now gently blur
His memory of pain on foreign sod—
For, winds are but the healing breath of God.

So, let them softly blow, and softly sigh;
They ease the ache of death that you and I
Must ease in simple prayer; foregoing pride
We pray to live as bravely as he died.

Captain Sally

There was only one woman commissioned in the Confederate army. She was Capt. Sally L. Tompkins, and her story is one that the movies foolishly have overlooked. For she became a captain thru a delightful human predicament: The men didn't know how to cope with her!

At the beginning of the Civil war, the women of the South were called upon to help the Confederate government provide hospitalization for the wounded. Miss Sally volunteered and was able to get the Judge Robertson home in Richmond, Va. Furnishing it at her own expense, she opened a hospital for soldiers.

But, after a while, other such privately managed hospitals were placed under the direct supervision of the government. Not Miss Sally's! She felt the hospital was her own undertaking and objected strenuously to relinquishing control.

Miss Sally was slight and none too strong, but she had made up her stalwart mind! Furthermore, with the aid of the soldiers and their families whom she had helped, she waged something of a feminist battle until the men gave in. As long as she insisted upon being the superintendent of her own hospital there was no alternative. She was commissioned a captain in the army by Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, so she might continue her work and obtain supplies.

Demure and Diminutive

Described by her contemporaries as "demure and diminutive," Capt. Sally provided care for more than 1,300 soldiers during the Civil war and lost only 73 patients. She returned a larger number of soldiers to the army than any other hospital in the South.

Following the war Capt. Sally's offers of marriage were numerous—but rejected. Later she lost her money and finally died, over 80 years old, a "guest" of the Home for Confederate Women at Richmond. She was buried with military honors; the South had not forgotten her. "She passed with fluttering banner still lifted high, all armored and panoplied in bravery and beauty," commented a newspaper at the time of her death.

Antiquarians Turn Back to Early America

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

A scene that might have been transplanted bodily from a home in old Salem met the eyes of Chicagoans who accepted an invitation to tea yesterday from the Antiquarian society of the Art Institute of Chicago to open a special loan exhibit, "The American Craft Tradition in Household Art, 1650-1850."

Shortly after 3 p. m. Mrs. James C. Hutchins and Mrs. Frank Hibbard slipped into two rush bottomed Carver chairs that had been placed before the early American tea table [date: 1690-1710] to pour punch from antique lusterware pitchers. A burl bowl holding rose geraniums and caladium leaves, old pewter plates, and hand-dipped bayberry candles in antique holders completed the picture.

The tea table appointments and the lovely old chests, chairs, and accessories filling the two galleries previewed yesterday and opened to the public today were lent to the institute by Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Phelps Sanford of Aiken, S. C. The preview guests particularly admired a completely appointed kitchen hearth, with its cast iron kettles and "the oldest wheelchair on record," and a ladder-back armchair designed between 1720 and 1750, which could be "wheeled" by two rollers on the back legs.

The party in effect was a reunion, as the Antiquarians entertain as a group only infrequently. Welcoming guests at the door was the society's president, Mrs. Phillip Miller, with fresh gardenias pinned to the waist of her navy crepe gown to match the artificial ones on her hat.

Like the exhibit, Mrs. David B. Peck's romantic picture hat also was reminiscent of another age. Her broad brimmed bonnet of mauve-pink, with fuchsia and pale pink ranunculi clustered at the front, was tied beneath the chin with navy veiling. Mauve-pink gloves carried out the unusual color accent against her navy gown.

Among those who dropped in for tea were Chauncey McCormick, the institute's president, and Mrs. McCormick; Mrs. Richard T. Crane and her sister, Mrs. Alice Higginbotham Patterson; Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and her daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, the latter in an attractive threesome including Mrs. Brooks McCormick and Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr.; Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward, Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon, Mrs. William F. Petersen, Mrs. Morris McCormick, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish. Sprays of water splashing in Carl Milles' Triton fountain in the McKinlock courtyard provided refreshing background music for an afternoon that had turned unexpectedly hot.

First Rate Company Keeps "Life With Father" as Fresh as a Gala Comedy Ought to Be

Exit the 1944-'45 season to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," and may old acquaintance never be forgot when we are talking about anything as delectable as "Life with Father." Five and a half years old now, and something like $8,000,000 richer than when we saw it first, this enchanting comedy is back at the Erlanger for a visit, and the compliments of the season to Oscar Serlin for keeping it fresh and gay and altogether charming. This company is far better than the one that played our second engagement, and it rivals the cherished troupe that made Blackstone history.

Honestly, I had forgotten that "Father" is such good company. I had the play tucked away in my gallery of fonder memories, and perhaps it had dimmed a bit away from its natural habitat, the footlights. For this is topflight comedy, tart and sharp and hilarious, tho what you are more likely to remember is that it also is utterly endearing. Being a period piece set in the late 19th century when life looked so superbly solid behind those brownstone fronts, it's in no danger of dating. The more mixed up we get in our own day, the more tenderly we regard "Father" as a memento of an era we think of as sweet and gay, tender, a bit ridiculous, undeniably stalwart, and vastly entertaining—from a sentimental distance.

By this time surely almost every one knows that the red-headed Days—Father, Vinnie, and the four stairstep boys—really lived out on Madison av. when New York was young, and that Clarence Jr. wrote some sketches of his extraordinary parent's belligerent aversion to baptism and other matters that have kept the theater gay for years. Turning these sketches into so soundly amusing a play was one of the feats of the decade, and staging that play with such flawless taste was a major achievement. It's an affectionate spoof, but no caricature. Under all that foolery, it has basic elegance.

And that is why Carl Benton Reid is so good as Father Day. He can storm without ranting, and roar without turning into a bull. He holds one of the rarest roles of an actor's lifetime in the firm but resilient reins of skill. He lets you have the fun. As the delectable Vinnie who goes along sweetly until she gets her back up, Betty Linley is far too good for a questionable makeup that ages her. She looks a little like a younger Grace George, her voice is lovely, and her smile makes you feel warm right to your backbone.

For my money, Charles Wright is our best Clarence to date, an attractive boy who doesn't simper and who is Father Day's own son with a dash of Vinnie's charm. The other boys are well cast, too, and Charles La Torrella is as chubby as Bodo of "Watch on the Rhine" fame. Cathy O'Donnell is the new ingenue, loaned from Hollywood. I'm not sure how much of an actress she is, tho certainly she is no overactress. But she is as pretty a girl as the town has seen in seasons. Dark brown hair, wild rose skin, good voice—no wonder the canny Goldwyn has her under contract.

"LIFE WITH FATHER"

Play by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, from the stories by Clarence Day Jr. Staged by Bretaigne Windust, with setting and costumes by Stewart Chaney, and presented in return engagement by Oscar Serlin at the Erlanger Tuesday evening, May 29, 1945.

WORKSHOP ON FIRE

Miss Warburton and Winnie were escorted thru the ravine by the senator and Kim. As soon as they were clear of the house Winnie demanded:

"Kim, who does Lt. French think planted that money on me? Didn't he give you even a hint?"

"Well," Kim said, "I don't know if it was supposed to be broadcast, but I got the idea French thinks Hilda Paradine was trying to do you dirt, Win. She didn't like competition, and she'd have had the sense not to leave fingerprints."

"Does that mean Winnie is completely cleared in the sight of the police?" Miss Warburton asked.

"Practically."

"I am not cleared. You don't know everything, Kim!"

North said, "At least, it means you can go back to Philadelphia and . . ."

"I am not leaving until Dirk is free," Winnie said flatly. "And now, to change the subject. Who's that lurking on our porch?"

North said, "Probably the trooper French put there at my request. Hullo! Trooper?"

"Yes sir."

A uniformed young man strode into the flashlight's ray.

"Hi, Allen," said Winnie.

Miss Warburton wakened to find herself sitting up in bed. She drew in quick, alarmed breaths. Smoke, very pungent and choking. The house must be on fire!

She thrust her toes into her slippers and felt for the robe she always laid on the back of a chair. She caught up an armful of hoarded stockings and began to fish her door key out of the handbowl where she now made a habit of keeping it. Queer there were no flames anywhere!

Some one banged on the door. As she finally managed to turn the key, the door burst open, nearly knocking her down. Winnie plunged in and poked on the light.

"Fire!" she shouted.

"For heaven's sake, Win, don't stand there with the house on fire." She snatched up her jewel case. "Run!"

"It isn't our house."

"How do you know?"

Winnie dragged her to a hall window pointing north. "Look!"

A curve of high trees along the ravine hid the Jennesma house and outbuildings and the curve of the hill. But above, the sky was terrifyingly beautiful. A vast glow pierced by flickering arms of fire and monstrous belches of black smoke.

"O!" Miss Warburton whispered. Could it be the Jennesma house? She suspended breathing. Where was he? Had he escaped?

Some one was calling from downstairs.

"What do you want, Allen?" Winnie shouted.

"I feel I should go up and help. Will you two be okay here if I . . ."

"No you don't! Don't you dare go without us. We'll be right down."

She plunged into Miss Warburton's bedroom. "Hurry."

"Haven't you a single pair of slacks? Here," she dragged a green woolen suit off its hanger. "Get into that fast. Forget the stockings. Hurry, hurry, hurry!"

"O dear. If only he weren't such a perfect fool about some things. I know he can get out easily enough, if only he'd stay out. But I suppose if that big fat Jennesma creature moaned from an upper story, he'd go right in there, no matter how it was roaring . . ."

"I know. It's just like him." Miss Warburton said. "And he's not half strong enough to carry her down those stairs."

"He is, too," Winnie flared. "Come on!"

She flung herself out of the door and down the stairs. It came to her that she and Winnie had been talking about two different men.

The ravine steps seemed to go down to Hades, thought Miss Warburton, scrambling down them. The trooper had a huge flashlight with which he was trying to light the path.

The black bulk of the Jennesma house was the first thing she saw. The only lights in it were from downstairs windows. But beyond it, to the northeast, the whole sky was an open living fan of flame.

There wasn't the smallest breeze. The blaze roared straight up for 50 feet or more, dissolving into clouds of black smoke. It was Gerrit's workshop.

She watched Winnie streaking across the grass toward the distant flames, shouting.

She realized the trooper beside her was straining to get away. She glanced toward the house, wondering if she were needed there, to telephone for more aid, or help save papers if the house should catch too.

"Please go ahead," she told the trooper.

"I can't. I've had orders not to leave you."

She knew what that meant. But before she could speak again, a familiar voice said, "Good work, young man. But you can run along now." Sen. North bustled up, smiling approval.

"The changing of the guard," she said tartly.

The senator hooked an arm in hers and smiled contentedly.

"Let's see the excitement, Olivia," he said.

"Maybe I should be helping."

"There's nothing you can do." He pulled her on.

They walked toward the blaze. The grounds were full of hurrying black figures. Part of the brilliance was contributed by the headlights of dozen of cars parked about. The farmers and neighboring householders had come to their aid.

"Magnificent, isn't it!" he said.

"Poor old Gerrit," she whispered. "I suppose he had all sorts of treasures in there. I hope the engine plans are safe."

"Sybrand says they are. They have several duplicate sets in different places and several finished models. But he's rather hard hit."

"It's Gerrit I'm thinking of."

"He doesn't know anything about it . . . yet . . . we hope," North glanced toward the dark bulk of the house.

She said, incredulously, "But how can he help but know it?"

North shrugged. "His room's on the other side of the house. He sleeps with his windows closed the year 'round, unless it's 90, I'm told. And he locks his door. It's still locked, according to last reports. Kimball runs up now and then. Nobody's allowed to make a noise in the house.

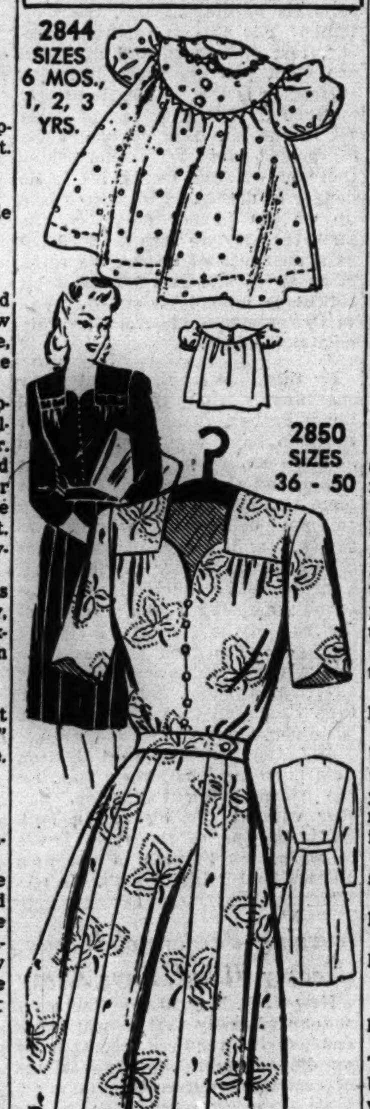
Dress Patterns



The littlest family daughter and the least streamlined aunt both will find pleasure in these patterns. One makes a dainty, puffed sleeved model for the toddler, while the other creates a frock with smooth lines which give the illusion that the wearer hasn't a single pound of weight to spare. Style No. 2844 is designed for size 6 months and 1, 2, and 3. Size 2 requires 1⅛ yards of 35 inch material with 2¼ yards of trimming. Style No. 2850 is designed for sizes 36 to 50. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 35 inch fabric. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Chicago Entertains Foreign Members of World Youth Group

With a view to strengthening ties between American youth and young people of other countries, delegates from the World Youth council stopped off in Chicago yesterday for a few days' visit with groups here. They are touring the United States to arouse interest in the World Youth conference, which is to be held in London in August.

"We believe that education of young people is the real key to an everlasting peace," asserted Svend Aage Pedersen, chairman of the Danish Youth council, at a conference preceding a luncheon given for the visitors by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. "The Germans realized the value of youth, and it is our mission to use this greatest of weapons in establishing world peace," he said.

The spirit of the group was revealed in stories of the destruction of universities and the continuance of study and teaching carried on in private homes. In addition to Pedersen, the visitors are Maria Michal, Czechoslovakian medical student of Prague; Miss Yang Kang, Chinese war correspondent; Ray Peng, a student at Columbia university; Frances Damond, executive secretary for the American Youth for a Free World, and Lt. Zvonomir Jurisic of Yugoslavia.

Hats of Burnt Sugar Hue Are Really Honeys

BY REA SEEGER

Burnt sugar colored straw hats arrive in time for the summer wardrobe shoppers. This is the rich deep golden tone that is the real shade of burnt sugar. It's a color universally becoming to every woman—to coppertop, blonde, or brunette. With dull black or summer navy blue, with dazzling whites, with pastel blues, pinks, limes and all the mauve tints of plain or printed costumes, one summer sunshade of this straw provides the correct and flattering contrast.

Both the cartwheel and tiny off-the-face small hats are plentiful, with medium sized brims and prim little sailors also in the smooth or rough rustic straws. Very simple affairs are banded with gros-grain ribbon, others have wisps or streamers of contrasting veiling, and others have the sooty pickup of black velvet ribbons. Very wide and extremely flat sailors have tiny shallow crowns, with a narrow band of ribbon around the base of the crown and long streamers in the back. Mushroom brims are tremendously flattering and smart with tailored suits or dresses of a coat silhouette, as these down swooping brimmed hats have a swank sleek outline ideal for simple tailored clothes.

Matched sets of bag and hat also are available in this crisp rustic weave straw and color. Bags come in round shapes, in deep ovals of the rigid outline, and in envelopes and carryalls with wrist straps. Many are lined with dark colors, some with prints. The two pieces make an ideal summer duet for cottons and summer sheers providing comfortably cool looking accessories for a sticky day and a vastly flattering contrast color for any dress or suit. Even the very practical peanut straw hats have special interest in this effective burnt sugar shade.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. George H., Chicago—Last time I cleaned my closets I made a list of what went into them before I put articles back on the shelf. I listed articles according to shelf on which they were placed and tacked this list on the closet door. Already this list has been a help in finding things.

Edna H., Oak Park, Ill.—Have made a habit of leaving the cover off my washing machine after I have used it until all trace of dampness has disappeared. Even tho I have wiped it as dry as possible, I do this, and it is good precaution against any musty odor.

Emily H., Cedar Rapids, Ia.—To remove a grease or oil spot from a nonwashable material, I make a paste by mixing cornstarch [or talcum] with a dry cleaning fluid. I spread paste over the spot and when dry brush it off. A ring is less likely to form when solvent is used this way.

Consecrate Kinsolving as Bishop of Arizona

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29 (AP).—In solemn, picturesque ceremony, Dr. Arthur B. Kinsolving II. today was consecrated bishop of the Episcopal missionary diocese of Arizona. The services, attended by more than 1,700 persons, took place in Calvary Episcopal church where he has been rector four and a half years. The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop.

Holy Hour's Theme Is Christian Family Ideal, Says Stritch

The future of society depends on the stability of the family as a unit, Archbishop Stritch said yesterday at press conference in the chancery office. He announced that the theme of the Holy Name societies' Holy hour Sunday night in Soldiers' field will be "The Christian Family Ideal."

"Unless the family is stable and sanctified, there will be no stability in social relations," the archbishop said. "We shall therefore pray at that Holy hour that God protect the family and its freedoms against the onslaught of materialism."

Archbishop Stritch conferred with army and navy chaplains before the conference.

Sarong in Vivid Colors Is Paris' New Swim Suit

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 29.—Jeanne Lanvin models abbreviated, transparent sarongs of a thin rubberized material in her new summer parade of highly individualized swim and sun suits.

The sarong called "Malay" is designed with solid, yet exotic, red flowers bordering six inches on the straight top and the curved bottom of the tiny clear flesh colored garment.

"Ceylon," another sarong in the same revealing mood, is in a warm suntan shade and embroidered with enormous leaves in matching tan, while the model named "Pacifique" is a two piece sun suit of a bluish green tint with dancing white foams covering bras and panties.

Red roses and green leaves on white ground form the print of a party frock called "Valse de Roses." It's fashioned like a jumper dress with the stiffened all white organdy sleeves embroidered with the same motive as the print. The skirt is fitted to the knees and then flounced to the floor. The white organdy petticoat matches the elbow length balloon sleeves.

Fashion Flashes: Agnes has just designed a shiny white straw toque resembling a vase worn upside down with variegated flowers saucily encircling the tall crown. . . . Sudden summer showers are so frequent in Paris that Raphael has made charming little umbrellas harmonizing with his latest suits and frocks, to be attached to handbags. . . . Mosquitos, locusts, and kitchen flies inspire Boucheron's latest jewelry studded with diamonds, emeralds, and rubies.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 29—After the success Katherine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy had in "Without Love" every one has wondered what Katie would do next. You can always depend on her to do the unexpected, so she'll play a pioneer woman in "The Sea of Grass." . . . Since Darryl Zanuck and George Cukor are searching the country over for some one to play Larry, the part Tyrone Power would have gotten in "Razor's Edge" if he weren't in the service, might I suggest they borrow Alan Ladd? Alan has never had a part like that. He started on the screen as a killer. Before that his parts on the air were all romantic. This would put him in that category. I don't expect anybody will act on this, but here it is. . . . Do you wonder it's love? Myrna Loy thinks Gene Markey is as great a man as Abe Lincoln. She told me so. Come now, Gene, what have you been hiding from me all these years? . . . Before David Niven returns here to start his new seven year contract with Sam Goldwyn he'll co-star in an Arthur Rank English picture with Raymond Massey.

Why Not Change the Name?

"Frontiersman" will be Errol Flynn's next, but because of the movie strike they're going to use the "San Antonio" sets for it. So why not call this one "Reno" or "Las Vegas"? . . . Liza Wilson and I were dining with Sidney Kingsley at Romanoff's. Said I to Mike Romanoff, "Whom do you consider the most beautiful girl here?" Quick as a flash he replied, "Madge Evans when she's in town." At that Sidney purred like a kitten. . . . In Hollywood we put Billy Rose's diamond horseshoe on the screen. We're now in the throes of "The Stork Club." But has any one here thought of doing Romanoff's? More famous people pass thru those portals than you can shake a stick at—or on. . . . Bing Crosby will return from bond selling golf matches June 21 and then go into "Blue Skies." That means his overseas jaunt will have to be postponed until September.

He's That Good, All Right

Joan Crawford definitely has signed to do a picture for Hal Wallis. The only thing holding it up is lack of a story. Bruce Bennett, with Joan in "Mildred Pierce," already is being talked about, and our gals are fighting for him. . . . San Francisco would like to have Joe E. Brown and George Raft up there for a big baseball game benefit to be given by the American Women's Voluntary Services. . . . Orson Welles took off 40 pounds before the beginning of his picture, and I just learned that he and Mrs. Joe Cotten invented the Harper diet that's been so popular for years. Says he, "I can take off or put on any weight I like."

A Welcome, Welcome Home

Chill Wills got a pleasant reception from Metro after his last hospital tour in the form of a new long term contract and "What Next, Corp. Hargrove?" which is to be done by George Haight. . . . When Yvonne [Salome] De Carlo was back in Washington she was photographed with Mrs. Roosevelt just a few minutes before the President's death was announced, and it was Yvonne who asked that none of those pictures be released. The only one in existence is one she kept for herself. . . . When Gen. and Mrs. Ralph Cousins move into Mrs. Cousins' Beverly Hills home, the Sheldon Coopers go into the home she's been occupying. It's owned by Mrs. Jack Warner. . . . When Fred MacMurray sold his Bel Air home and moved into Maggie Sullavan's, he left what people called the right side of town for the wrong side. Seems the socially minded use Sunset blvd. as the dividing line, and now Fred says his swank friends won't speak to him. . . . Dorothy Gish arrives in town June 15 to spend the summer with sister Lillian and also to make a picture. . . . Bandleader Tony Pastor says, "the reason one-armed drivers get into trouble is that they hug the wrong curves."

Presbyterians Want Conscription Action to Await War's End

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29 (AP)—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America voted today to "reaffirm its conviction without prejudice that congressional action on a post-war policy of peace time military conscription should be deferred until after the war."

The proposal, adopted following a heated debate, was one of a long list of recommendations on both peace settlements and the post-war world, brought before the assembly by its committee on social education and action.

The assembly also voted to support "the assumption without reservation by the United States of full responsibility of membership within the united nations organization."

The report asked for reconciliation between victor and vanquished working toward early resumption of German and Japanese obligations in the community of nations.

Two Chinese Writers to Speak to Women's Press Groups Friday

The Illinois Woman's association and the Matrix club, the latter an organization of professional writers and publicists, will meet at 8 p. m. Friday in the Y. W. C. A. Loop center, 59 E. Monroe st., to hear two young Chinese students and war correspondents, Miss Yang Kang and Ray Peng. The two are members of a group touring this country under auspices of American Youth for a Free World, the American section of the World Youth council, which is to hold a conference in London in August.

Miss Yang, a graduate of Yengching university, is here to do post-graduate study in English. She visited and wrote from war fronts thruout China. She is literary editor of Ga Kung Pao, the largest newspaper in China.

Peng, a student at Columbia university, has been in Jap held territory where American and Chinese prisoners were held. Mrs. Helen Stevens Fisher, newly elected president of the Illinois Woman's Press association, will have charge of the meeting.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Hattie Lambke, New York City.]

THE QUESTION

If you were going to live on a desert island, what six books would you take with you?

WHERE ASKED

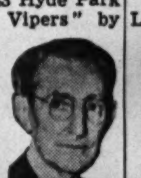
THE ANSWERS

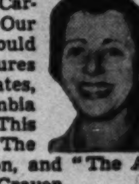


Charles McGrady, 5543 Hyde Park blvd.—"Generation of Vipers" by Philip Wylie, because it's one of the most stimulating books I know, Van Doren's collection of "World Poetry," "Forsyte Saga" by Galsworthy, "Complete Greek Drama," O'Neil's translation, "Wisdom of China and India," and Shakespeare's works.

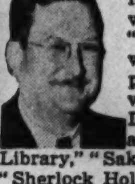
Patricia Ellis, 222 Delaware pl.—I'd take the Kittredge edition of Shakespeare in one volume, "Treasury of Great Poems," edited by Louis Untermeyer, and, of course, the Bible, "The Basic Lectures of Freud," and I guess I'd want "Giant Cross-Word Puzzles" and "Lincoln Library of Essential Information."

Marian Vanande, 7120 Harvard av.—"Treasury of the Familiar," a collection of interesting writings, Beard's "Basic History of the United States," the novel "Fountainhead" by Rand because it's one of the best novels I've read, "The Joy of Cooking," Rombauer, Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield," and Shakespeare's works.

Mary F. Hemingway, 301 S. 7th, La Grange — The Bible, "Moby Dick" by Melville because I think it's a beautiful piece of writing, "One Hundred Lives" consisting of interesting biographies, "Lincoln Library," "Immortal Wife" by Irving Stone, and Shakespeare's works.



Cissy Haas, 5520 S. Shore dr.—It's a difficult decision but I think I'd take "The Complete Works of Lewis Carroll," "Fair Is Our Land," for I would like to look at pictures of the United States, a copy of "Columbia Encyclopaedia," "This Is My Best," "The Arts" by Van Loon, and "The Art Masterpieces" by Craven.



John Scheele, 1711 Crilly ct.—I'd want "Survival," a book devised by the government to help you survive wherever you may be, "Joy of Cooking" [I'd want to be able to prepare food], "Pickwick Papers" by Dickens for my own amusement, "Lincoln Library," "Saki's Short Stories," and "Sherlock Holmes."

Two B'nai B'rith Groups Plan Tribute for Leader

The North Shore B'nai B'rith lodge and the North Shore B'nai B'rith women have planned a program for Sunday night, June 10, in tribute to Mrs. Louis L. Perlman, president of the women's district grand lodge, which includes member groups of eight midwestern states. Mrs. Perlman has completed 15 years of work in the organization. Guest speaker at the assembly, which will be held in the Rogers Park Masonic temple, will be Henry Monsky, national president of B'nai B'rith, who was a consultant to the American delegation at the San Francisco conference.

Barbara Lawrence, to Lt. Chaillé Mosely Love of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Royal Lee Love and the late Dr. Love of De Ridder, La. Plans for the wedding were arranged suddenly when Lt. Love returned from sea duty, and the ceremony took place in the Lake Forest home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. McLeod. Mr. McLeod is a director of the Chicago branch of the English-Speaking union, for which the bride served as executive secretary before entering the WAVES.

Lt. Love and his bride, who is a lieutenant, junior grade, will live in Lake Forest while they are stationed at Great Lakes.

Country Club News

Memorial day marks the traditional summer opening of the numerous country clubs in the Chicago area. War time's fourth observance of this day will find most Chicagoans at work as usual in the all-out effort to speed the end of the war with Japan, and the clubs do not expect the gala turnout of pre-war years. The day will be quiet, with golfing and tennis events and buffet style meals on the clubs' schedules.

The Onwentsia club had a dancing party last night. Its first Saturday party of the season will be held June 16. The club is closed Mondays, as are the Saddle and Cycle, the Knollwood, and several others. Members of the Shoreacres club again will use the Onwentsia's clubhouse and sports facilities, as the navy will continue to use the Shoreacres' grounds this summer.

The Indian Hill will have its usual golfing events today. It will not open its pool until warmer weather arrives. The Exmoor Country club is planning dancing parties every other Saturday night, beginning June 23, and Thursday parties every fortnight starting in July. It will have a 54 hole golf derby and a tennis tournament today. The club does not serve meals on Mondays.

Members of the Chicago Golf club will compete for the Dr. John B. Murphy cup today. The Saddle and Cycle will serve a buffet luncheon today. During the summer the club will have special informal Saturday night dinners to encourage members to dine here. A popular boogie-woogie pianist has been engaged for next Saturday's gathering.

The Knollwood club will have its regular Memorial day golfing events today for men, and it expects about 300 members for the formal opening dinner-dance of the season Saturday. Dances will be held every other Saturday. The Barrington Hills Country club had its opening dance last Saturday and plans a monthly dancing party during the season. There will be a blind bogey golf tournament today.

Members of the Key club will gather for a smoked turkey dinner tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Berkey, who just have returned from Florida, are among those entertaining. The club will not be opened until 5 p. m. today.

The official opening of the Chicago Yacht club will attract a large group of members to the Chicago Harbor clubhouse at the foot of Monroe st. for flag raising ceremonies at noon today. Luncheon will follow.

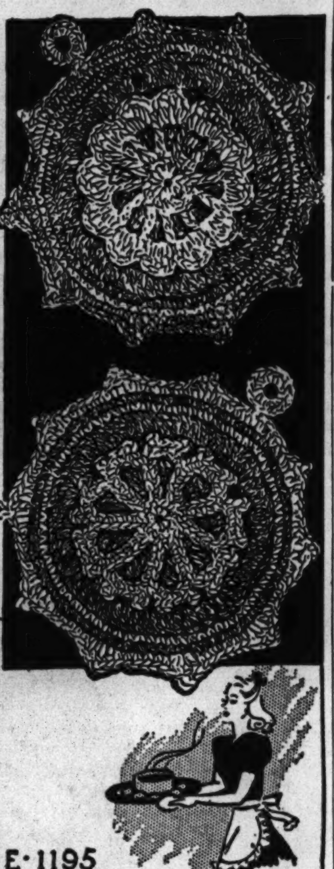
Novel Potholders



E-1195

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Crocheted potholders are simple little affairs to create and doubly attractive when unusual motifs are placed in the center. These blue and yellow holders are accented with motifs of contrasting colors. Heavy four ply cotton is the medium used.

For instructions in crocheting the potholders, No. E-1195, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

De La Salle Band and Two Choruses Perform Capably

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

That musical affairs at De La Salle High school, which features such matters, are still shipshape was proved by the annual concert in Orchestra hall last night. Participating were the De La Salle concert band, the St. Casimir Academy Choral club, and the De La Salle Victory chorus.

To come away from a band concert with ear drums not only intact but pleasantly stimulated is a rare experience, but one which the De La Salle band provides under the sagacious direction of Russell Harvey. Mr. Harvey's first concern is that his charges play musically, with infinite care for the turn of a phrase and for quality of tone. There is no blasting, no orgies of brassy noise. If these bandsmen could also be taught to play strictly in tune their group would be a nonpareil among school bands.

Mr. Harvey also conducted the girls of the St. Casimir Choral club—whose regular conductor is Sister M. Bernarda—evoking a rare degree of tonal loveliness in Arcadelt's "Ave Maria" and Reger's "The Virgin's Slumber Song." The adolescent male voice is a less tractable quantity, and the boys of the Victory chorus under Brother Leo Vincent did their job with spunk and spirit but without the touch of musical expertness which distinguished the rest of the program.

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of diamonds.

The bidding of today's hand is given as it actually occurred. It is strictly routine up to North's final bid which is the subject of this diatribe. In my opinion it was a bad bid. North should have passed to his partner's three spade bid without any genuine fear of missing a game. He argued that he held considerably more than he might have had for his mild raise to two spades and therefore felt justified in accepting his partner's invitation to go game. As will be seen also declarer had no reasonable play for the contract.

I cannot agree with his estimate of the North hand. It may have a pretty face but it has a very bad heart. A prospective dummy should be judged by the number of actual tricks it will probably develop for partner. Viewed from that standpoint the hand is poor indeed. At the most liberal estimate, this holding will produce only three tricks for partner which will require his taking seven tricks himself. This is too much to ask for. If South held that many winners he would have hopped to four spades himself. When the bidding proceeds in this manner North should have a likelihood of taking four tricks before accepting partner's invitation to go game. To put it in another way, North overlooked this very important principle of bidding: Beware of the 4-3-3-3. It's a monster. A wolf in sheep's clothing. It's never quite as good as it looks. As a general rule I make it a habit to mentally subtract a king from my hand when I hold one of this distribution.

I have many times seen a player raise his partner's no trump opening with about a king and a queen, and comment as he spread the dummy, "partner I have wonderful no trump distribution." It's a snare and a delusion. There's nothing wonderful about it. It's the worst possible distribution and the reason it is recommended for no trump is that it isn't much good for anything else. Since no trump requires the fewest number of tricks fo. game, that avenue must generally be sought when these very barren hands are held. The moral is never overbid a hand that is 4-3-3-3.

THE DELICIOUS, GOLDEN CHEESE FOOD!

Thru the Looking Glass

The beauty gift is a natural for the girl graduate. More than any one of her sex, she thrills to owning fine cosmetics and luxurious bath trimmings; she hasn't been surfeited by possession; and she's at the enviable time of life when she's discovering what fun it is to be pretty and what fun it is to own things that aid and abet her prettiness.

There's no surer way to the girl graduate's heart than to shower her with the trappings of beauty. Cologne may be one thing; the youngsters love perfumed lotions and use them. If you take a tip from us you'll think of these first, preferably in the light, airy fragrances rather than the exotic ones.

Apple blossom is a great pet of the subdeb set. You can find practically anything you want in this blithe fragrance, on down the line from concentrated perfumes to soaps and sachets and colognes. Or try other florals. There is something wonderfully and appropriately young about good carnations, lily of the valley, or a true violet, for example.

Makeup aids aren't a bad choice, either. Give her a nice lipstick, in a warm, natural red [they like darker shades rather than the pinks] with nail enamel to match. This makes the girl feel awfully grown up and sophisticated and, of course, it helps her keep up with her classmates, all of whom use lipstick and nail polish as casually as their mothers do.

A handsome compact is always a heart warmer for the girl graduate, especially if it's pretty snazzy in design, maybe something a bit more expensive than she would buy for herself. They like them big, with generous powder wells.

And this year, as you'll notice, the girls are all wearing hair ornaments. You'll be original and you'll make a hit if you select some good looking combs or barettes or even a set of pretty hair bows!

Children Often Helpful Hands at Neighbors'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Did you ever take your best beau, or even several boys and girls into the kitchen when you had a party, and all enthusiastically wash and dry the supper dishes?

Just remember that when your neighbor praises your Joan or Jim to the skies for "K. P." or some other chore at her house.

Don't smile feebly and feel hurt if Mrs. Jackson says to you some day, "Well, your child is just wonderful. When he and my children get to whittling and making airplanes and doll houses and the place is a wreck, he's simply wonderful about cleaning up. He doesn't leave a thing out of place. And my children let him. How do you do it?"

Don't feel hurt because Jim is so thoughtful at Mrs. Jackson's and you have such a hard time making him clear up after himself at home. But you can't help being overcome with astonishment, until it dawns on you that Mrs. Jackson's boys and girls are models when they come over to your house; there's simply nothing they won't do for you! If you want the scissors that you left upstairs or need an errand done, they jump to your assistance before your own children!

Don't be distressed; children are like that. There's a touch of glamor about doing commonplace chores in somebody else's house. You know children share one thing with us grownups, and that's human nature.

Don't you remember when you were about 17 and you were allowed to have a Sunday supper at your house with another girl and two boys? Don't you remember what fun it was for the boys to help you by frying the potatoes, beating the eggs and slicing the ham, and even drying the dishes? Do you think they would have felt the same and done it in the same way if their mothers had asked them to help get a routine Sunday supper and clear it away? You know they wouldn't.

So when your neighbors tell you that your children when they visit, are so polite, so quiet, so helpful, and so wonderful at cleaning up after themselves, don't feel hurt. You know that really, they are fairly good about things at home most of the time. In fact, if they were any better you'd feel worried. It's just that children are like that!

Has BORDERLINE ANEMIA* made you a Faded Photograph of your Former Self?

Medical Science says: Thousands who look pale and weary—whose energy seems to be running down—may find a deficiency of the blood is to blame.

SO many men and women seem "old before their time"—pale, tired, discouraged-looking. To friends, they're just faded photographs of the men and women they used to be.

These dull, listless people are often people who have developed a ferro-nutritional deficiency of the blood that robs them of energy and good looks. One out of every two women—thousands and thousands of men—have run-down, substandard blood . . . Borderline Anemia!

Beauty and Vigor Depend on Rich, Red Blood

Your blood—and only your blood—supplies energy directly to every organ, every muscle, every fibre. Your blood is your "supply line" of pep and drive. And if there is a deficiency in your blood—if the red blood cells aren't big and healthy enough—you can't expect to be alert and alive!

No, you can't have a becoming color in your cheeks—a bright sparkling eye—a lively youthful step—if you have a Borderline Anemia. For Borderline Anemia means that your red blood cells are too weak and puny to release full energy to your body. Borderline Anemia deprives women of beauty, men of vitality.

Build up your Energy by building up your Blood

Don't let Borderline Anemia leave YOU a "faded photograph of your former happy self"—build up your blood and your energy with Ironized Yeast.

Of course your condition might be due to other causes, so your doctor should be consulted regularly. If you have a Borderline Anemia*—take Ironized Yeast Tablets to build big, strong, healthy red blood cells, to improve your energy.

Insist on genuine Ironized Yeast Tablets. At all drug stores.

HANLEY TELLS HIS POST-WAR GRIDIRON PLANS

Honor All-America Coach Tomorrow

BY EDWARD PRELL

Lt. Col. Dick Hanley

Lt. Col. Richard Hanley of the marines, bronzed and somewhat grayer than when he was coaching football teams at Northwestern university, has the enthusiasm of a youngster when he talks about his post-war activity. This will be his job as general manager and head coach of the Chicago team in the All-America professional conference.

Col. Hanley has returned to Chicago after another junket to the south Pacific and tomorrow night, the colorful sports figure will be somewhat embarrassed to learn that his visit to Chicago has kicked up such a fuss. John L. Keeshin, owner of the Chicago All-Americas, is tossing a dinner in Hanley's honor in the Blackstone hotel and among the guests will be Gov. Green, other state and city officials, and sports leaders.

Why Yank Fighters Are Best

"Too bad all this trouble isn't cleaned up now," said Col. Hanley yesterday as he roughly sketched his hopes and ambitions in professional football, "but those Japs are tough foes and will take a lot of beating."

Before talking of football, the colonel paid a tribute to the American fighting men in all branches of service.

"The big edge our boys have over the enemy," Hanley declared, "is their sense of humor in tight spots. It's a twin to the manifestation which comes so often on the football field when a wisecrack brings order out of confusion. When our boys take an island what do you think is the first move? No, not to dig a fox hole, but to make themselves comfortable. They know they're there to stay!"

"It's going to be a lot of fun coming back to Chicago to stay and getting back in football," said Hanley. "By the way, one of these days Ernie Nevers will be coming here to get things started with our club."

Navy Men Praise Halas

Nevers, a major in the marines, participated in the upper Solomon and Bougainville campaigns, where he suffered recurrence of a back ailment which was a holdover from his earlier football days. Nevers soon will go on inactive status, which he had requested before signing as assistant to Hanley in the Chicago operation.

"Wherever I have been in the Pacific," said Hanley, "I have heard navy men praise Comdr. George Halas, whose Bears I hope to meet again not too far in the future when we have a club which can challenge them. I'll never forget helping coach the first College All-Star team which tied the Bears, 0 to 0. Head coach that year was the late Noble Kizer and the other assistant was Lt. Comdr. James Crowley, who will be commissioner of the All-America conference when he returns to civilian life."

Hanley reported Crowley did a fine job in the Pacific and that Lt. Comdr. Jim McMillen, former Illinois and Bear star, likewise is popular with his men out there.

Will Use Two Systems

Hanley has had enough time to contemplate the sort of team he wants. His ideas are somewhat revolutionary, for he will split his squad into two units, one playing a deep double wing back style, the other the T formation.

"This, as I see it," he said, "has double significance. In the first place the fans will be assured an interesting show and its tactical possibilities are great. Hit the opposition first with the double wing back power stuff, then shift quickly to the speedy thrusts of the T formation. It's just as logical as a baseball pitcher mixing up a curve ball with his fast one.

"There is no perfect system, so as I see it, a coach should use the good parts of more than one. The double wing, tho ideal for passing, has the disadvantage of a delay in ball handling. The T, with its concealed ball handling, is tricky, and its surprise plays are great for fan interest, but it doesn't lend itself to safe operation deep in its own territory or for the quick kick. We won't go nuts offensively, because, after all, the other team gets the ball once in a while."

No Need for Worry

Having thus delivered himself, Hanley tackled the growing problems posed by the return of college stars from military service—whether they shall continue varsity competition or choose professional football.

"I do not believe colleges have anything to worry about," said Hanley. "I think they would be wise to concentrate on the boys who are now in the 17-18-19 year old class—those lads who will come back with their full college careers ahead of them under the GI government education program. These now unheard of athletes will be the backbone of college competition in the early years after the war."

Thoughts After Battle

there
Beneath their crosses white;
The heroes of this bloody lair
No more shall see the light.

Their comrades may respect,
But they look up with sightless eyes,
No thoughts their minds reflect.

Above them shifts the bloody sand,
Beside them rolls the sea,
And champions of the free.

At home the sun shines overhead,
Some people there are gay—
They soon forget their hallowed
The price we have to pay.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Boston, Mass., May 29—The White Sox, having exerted themselves to the extent of a victory yesterday, went back to their rocking chair life today and assimilated the seventh beating in their last eight games. They made a few promising gestures on this occasion but after getting into an early tie suddenly swooned and passed out before the Red Sox, 6 to 4.

Lee [Buck] Ross, mainly of necessity, was given his first start of the year on the mound but the big fellow was clipped for six hits and three runs in two innings. Manager Jim Dykes then substituted Frank Papish, the southpaw rookie, who entered the affair when it was tied and was charged with a demerit as the result of the decisive scoring by the Bostons in the fifth and eighth.

Sox Score on Double Steal

Not much happened to Ross in the first inning but at least it was sufficient to arouse a suspicion his stay was to be limited. George Metkovich opened with a double and with one out stole third. He got in from there on Bob Johnson's infield out. The White Sox recovered this run in the second when, after singles by Cass Michaels and Mike Tresh, a double steal was launched. The maneuver was successful, at least for scoring purposes, when Catcher Bob Garbark, after tagging Michaels, dropped the ball.

Six men in a row reached base on Ross in the home half of the second. With one out, Eddie Lake doubled and was driven in by Garbark's single. George Woods, who started on the mound for Boston, singled and so did Metkovich. In this jamboree Garbark scored and Woods tried to go to third, but was tagged by Michaels. The Chicago shortstop accidentally spiked Woods on the foot and made it necessary to have Francis [Red] Barrett ready for the start of the next inning.

Schalk Gets Two Run Single.

The first man to face Barrett in the third was Wally Moses, who singled to right, only to be forced by Kerby Farrell. Oris Hockett went out, but Guy Curtright doubled to left and Tony Cuccinello was awarded an intentional pass, filling the bases. Roy Schalk asserted himself in this spot by singling to right, sending in Farrell and Curtright for the 3 to 3 tie score.

Papish did all right in his first two innings, but in the fifth had his initial meeting with Johnson, and the veteran walloped a triple into right. Pete Fox did the same, Johnson scoring. Fox went across the plate a moment later on Tobin's fly. Papish was bothered again in the ninth when a double by Tobin and a single by Lake counted Boston's last run.

Then the Sox, who had been helpless since the third, picked up a couple of passes in their ninth, the gifts causing a hasty removal of Barrett in favor of Clem Hausmann. He yielded a singles by Moses, which scored one of the pass recipients.

For the second straight year the east's major derby trial of a mile and a sixteenth is being run in two sections with Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep; the Maine Chance farm's War Jeep; William Helis' Greek Warrior; Lt. Ed. Lasker's Flood Town, and the Greentree stables Dockstader all in the first heat.

F. W. Hooper's Hoop Jr.; the Christian stable's Alexis; Lasker's Ox Blood and Helis' Adonis are among the starters in the second.

Indians Give A's Rosar for Frankie Hayes

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics today traded Veteran Catcher Frankie Hayes for Cleveland Backstop Buddy Rosar.

The 30 year old Hayes, rated as one of the best catchers in baseball, is one of two major leaguers to catch every game in a season. Last year the A's catcher worked in 155 games. At the same time, Ray Mueller of the Cincinnati Reds handled 155 games which, plus his 1943 consecutive appearances, gave him a run of 217.

Hayes was traded once before by Manager Connie Mack after eight seasons with the Athletics. In 1942 Mack sent him to the St. Louis Browns for Catcher Bob Swift and Pitcher Bob Harris and at the start of the 1944 season Hayes was returned to the A's in another deal.

Rosar, former New York Yankee, has been a holdout since the season started. He has been in organized baseball since 1934 and in the majors since 1939.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Ten of the best handicap stars on the grounds at Hawthorne will be called upon today to furnish the principal entertainment for a crowd which the Lincoln Fields Jockey club expects will equal last year's turnout of 32,758 for the $5,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap.

The mile and one-sixteenth event, sixth on a card of eight races, again has attracted A. S. Higgin's fast stepping Quizzle and Mrs. Robert McGarvey's speedy mare, Night Shadow, which took care of first and second places in the 1944 running.

Night Shadow Top Weighted

Night Shadow, winner of two of her three starts this season, will carry top impost of 121 pounds, with Jockey Paul Glidewell in the saddle. Quizzle will lug four pounds less and will have Apprentice Billy Nichols aboard in the Higgins' color bearer's quest of his fourth straight victory this season.

Chief contention in the 17th running of the Peabody is expected to come from the Circle W. stable's Devalue, Mrs. Joseph Hoaglin's Amalka, and the Swanee River stable's Corydon.

Net proceeds of the day's racing will go to charity, two-thirds to the Red Cross and one-third to the Chicago Service Men's centers, Charles W. Bidwill has announced. Last year $104,657.12 was realized when the pari-mutuel handle hit a high mark of $1,229,087. Post time for the first race is 2 o'clock.

Full Cry Wins Feature

Yesterday's form following racing was watched by 8,758 patrons who saw well played runners take the first five events. The highest mutuel of the five was $7.60 on C. H. Dursch's Shasta Man in the opener, which, coupled with Mrs. Ed McCann's Trim Stepper in the second race, returned a $27.60 daily double.

The Brolite farm's Full Cry, 7 year old son of Gallant Fox, took care of the $1,800 Buckingham purse, the featured sixth race, and returned $13.80. Glidewell brought him down in front on the rail to win by a length from J. J. Keith's Four Deep which took the place by two lengths from H. E. Jacoby's Good Bid.

BY EDWARD BURNS

Cub Manager Charley Grimm, sly old showman that he is, wants the thousands who will attend the Cubs-Giants double header in Wrigley field this afternoon to see the best he has available in pitching. So yesterday he reached deep into the bullpen to get his caster for the final of the Brooklyn series—got nipped in his daring effort to skin by with third string talent. The Dodgers won, 10 to 3, before 3,656, about a tenth of the total expected to watch Hank Wyse and Bob Chipman against the league leading New Yorkers this afternoon.

No one should have been too impatient with Mr. Grimm for his desperate gamble with three pitching gents who have a combined grand total of no victories for the season—Mack Stewart, the starter and loser by reason of a five run-five hit blast in the third inning; Jorge Comellas, the vanishing Cuban, and Hy Vandenberg, the Minnesota impersonator.

Cubs Drop to Fourth

Their success enabled the Dodgers, who dropped from second to fourth Monday, to move up to third. The Cubs, who started the day in a second place tie with the Pirates, sagged to fourth.

The Dodgers made 14 hits, seven off Stewart for six runs, in two and one-third innings, two off Comellas for one run in one inning and five hits off Vandenberg for three runs in five innings.

Ben Chapman, long time American league infielder and outfielder with the Yankees, Red Sox, Indians, and White Sox, was the winning pitcher.

Dodgers Score Early

Stan Hack made two of the hits, Phil Cavarretta made all the Cub runs, after singling once and walking twice. Peanuts Lowrey drove home the first two runs with singles and Lennie Merullo singled home the final run in the ninth.

The Dodgers were easy on Stewart in the first inning. They scored a run without getting the ball out of the infield. A walk to Eddie Stanky, two infield outs and an infield single by Dixie Walker doing the business.

The Cubs went out in order in the first inning but tied the score in the second inning on a single by Cavarretta, a wild pitch, Leonard Rice's long fly, a pass to Pafko and Lowrey's first productive single.

Stewart Relieves Strain

Confronted with a tie, Stewart lost no time in relieving the strain. He walked Stanky again and Eddie sprinted to third on Goody Rosen's single. Augie Galan singled to left, Stanky scoring, and Rosen stopping at second. Walker singled to center and when Rosen stopped at third he found Galan at his heels. Galan was trapped and retired before he could get back to second, Walker reaching second during the run down. Luis Olmo was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Bill Schuster fumbled Bill Hart's bouncer, Rosen scoring. John Dantonio singled to left, scoring Walker and Olmo, then Eddie Basinski singled to right, scoring Hart.

Comellas Leaves Early

Comellas easily disposed of Rosen and Galan in the fourth, then Walker doubled and scored on Olmo's single.

The Cubs scored their second run in the fourth, Cavarretta and Lowrey again being the main men.

Vandenberg, who like Comellas, hadn't done a lick of work since the night game in Brooklyn on May 18, took over the pitching job in the fifth. He walked Dantonio, first to face him, and the rookie catcher scored on a sacrifice by Basinski and Chapman's single.

In the eighth inning a single by Stanky, an error by Lenny Merullo, a pass to Galan, Walker's fourth hit, a single, and Olmo's long fly gave Dodgers their ninth and tenth runs.

CENTRAL TRACK MEET DRAWS 18 COLLEGE TEAMS

Seven Big Ten Squads to Compete at Great Lakes

BY WILFRID SMITH

Eighteen universities and colleges will compete Saturday in the 20th central collegiate track meet at the Great Lakes Naval Training center. While the University of Illinois will not defend its team championship, seven Western conference universities have filed entries in addition to Notre Dame, winner of the Indiana state title; Western Michigan, winner of the Michigan intercollegiate track meet this spring at East Lansing, and the University of Idaho.

Marquette and Michigan State, which founded the Central Collegiate conference with Notre Dame when the Western conference closed its annual games to nonmembers, also are entered. Con Jennings and Ralph Young, directors of athletics at Marquette and Michigan State, respectively, will be present. They founded the games along with the late Knute Rockne of Notre Dame in whose memory the team championship trophy is awarded annually.

Present Other Trophies, Too

Great Lakes also will present a team trophy and the outstanding athlete will receive the John P. Nicholson trophy named in honor of the late Notre Dame track coach. This was awarded to Buddy Young of Illinois last year.

The complete list of teams entering follows: Notre Dame, Michigan State, Marquette, Western Michigan, Wright Field, Dayton, O.; Iowa, Purdue, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Minnesota, Northwestern, Indiana, Idaho, Illinois Tech, Drake, St. Thomas, Cornell college, and Great Lakes.

Gophers are Strong

Minnesota, which finished third in the Big Ten, will place high in the team standings as will Notre Dame, but Great Lakes, because of such stars as Les Eisenhart, Grover Klemmer, and Tom Cara, is the choice for first place.

In other league games the Sparks will meet the Chicks in a double header in Bidwill stadium, 1900 E. 75th st., starting at 8 p. m., and the Queens will play the Music Maids at Rock-Ola stadium, 4200 N. Central av., at 9 p. m.

ILLINOIS SENIOR GOLF GROUP TO HOLD TOURNEY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The Illinois Seniors' Golf association, one of the liveliest organizations in the game, will hold its 22d annual spring tournament next Tuesday at Westmoreland. Six prizes—gross, four net, and putting—will be offered in each of the five classes, which range from class E, for youngsters 50 to 54 ages, up to class A, for those members 70 and over.

Officers for 1945 are Ross H. Kidston, La Grange, president; Albert M. Johnston, first vice president; George W. Rossetter, second vice president; John M. Timmons, Flossmoor, third vice president; Fred A. Cuscaden, Exmoor, secretary-treasurer. William B. Langford, Glen Oak, is chairman of the tournament committee.

Plum Hollow of Detroit, home club of Sam Byrd, will be the scene of an unusual event on June 22, 23, and 24, when Byrd and Sam Snead will team up against Byron Nelson and Harold [Jug] McSpaden in a 72 hole medal play argument. Proceeds of this Big Fore tournament, as it has been named, will be turned over to the athletic fund for hospitalized veterans who are stationed at the Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek, Mich.

Next week's schedule includes the second set of matches for both the North Shore and West District leagues, the former gathering Wednesday at Westmoreland, while the siders will hold forth Thursday at Glen Oak.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will open its competitive season on June 15th at Lake Shore with its annual Mabel Gustafson Memorial tourney. The C. W. D. G. A.'s main event, the annual championship show, will be played at Northmoor from July 16 thru 20.

The Mount Hawley Country club of Peoria, stage for two of the last three Illinois state amateur tournaments, expects to send up the largest single entry from any club when the 1945 event is held at St. Charles June 14-17. Among the Peorians who plan to enter are Gus Moreland, Wayne Miller, Frank Ireland, Charlie Verkler, Henry Verkler, Eric Laing, and Dee Weed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. [Ron] Kennedy were hosts last night at a silver wedding anniversary party at the Elmhurst Country club. Mr. Kennedy is vice president of the club.

Lane to End Drills Today for Ray Bout

BY FRANK MASTRO

Larry Lane, Trenton, N. J., heavyweight will end training this afternoon in C. Y. O. center gymnasium for a 10 round bout with Elmer Ray of Hastings, Fla., possessor of 29 straight victories, 27 by knockouts, in the Coliseum Friday night.

Lane will spar several rounds with Lindy Elliott, 220 pound sparmate from New York, and then hang up his training gloves. Larry appeared in good form while going three rounds with Elliott yesterday.

After the workout Lane weighed only 192½ pounds, two less than he expects to carry Friday.

Babe Cullen, representative of Lane, expressed confidence in Lane's ability to snap Ray's string of victories after watching the big fellow box six rounds yesterday, three each with Johnny Flanagan and Clarence Brown.

Matchmaker Jack Kearns last night announced opponents in two of four contests of six rounds for Tony Musto, Blue Island heavyweight, and Mack Parshey, Detroit 175 pounder. The former has been matched with K. O. Jackson of Baltimore, and Parshey with Billy Petersen, Indiana Harbor. Flanagan will meet Odell Riley and James Williams will oppose McKinley English. Riley and English, also from Detroit, scored triumphs on the last Coliseum program, the first named knocking out Flanagan and English stopping Petersen.

CITY LEAGUE

Austin vs. Kelvyn Park at Hanson Park, 11 a. m.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE

Morton at Proviso, 2 p. m.

Ralph Johanson's one hit pitching enabled Fenger to defeat Hyde Park, 3 to 0, at West Pullman park yesterday for its 10th victory in 11 starts in the City league's south section prep baseball race. Johanson struck out 10 Hyde Park batters and was denied a no-hit game when Dick Dellefield singled in the fifth inning. Bob Zick singled and Pete Konyar tripled in the fourth inning for what proved to be the only run Fenger needed to win.

Losing its fourth game in 11 contests, Hyde Park was shoved down to third place, when Bowen triumphed by a 7 to 1 score over Hirsch at Grand Crossing park for its ninth victory in 12 games.

Harrison Routs Tilden

Harrison routed Tilden, 16 to 0, at Fuller park to remain in the running for a central section play-off berth. It was Harrison's 10th victory in 12 games to keep them in a second place tie with Kelly.

Kelvyn Park moved into the lead in the west section race by splitting two games with Crane Tech, while Steinmetz was losing twice to Foreman yesterday as the teams played a number of postponed games.

Carsello Stars in Rally

Kelvyn Park dropped the first five inning game by a 4 to 3 score, and then rallied in the last half of the fifth inning in the second game to score three runs and win by a 5 to 4 score. Norm Carsello hit a triple to drive in the tying and winning runs.

Kelvyn Park now has eight victories and two losses; Austin is in second place with eight triumphs and three defeats.

PLIGHT OF NEGRO CALLED BREACH OF U. S. CREED

Home Front-Unity Session Hears Prof. Wirth

Treatment of the Negro in this country has made a "mockery" of the American creed and has earned that race the gratitude of other minority groups for acting as shock absorber for most of the violence, threats, and race prejudice in recent years, Prof. Louis Wirth of the department of sociology at the University of Chicago, said yesterday.

Prof. Wirth was the principal speaker at the first of a series of three meetings on home front unity, sponsored by Mayor Kelly's race relations committee. The meeting was held in the council chambers in the city hall.

Concentrated in One Area

Negroes in Chicago have been densely concentrated into a limited area and effectively barred from free movement of residence and from full participation in the social and civic life of the community, Prof. Wirth said.

He attributed this to two reasons: Recency of Negro mass migration to the north and the fact that the Negro came from the rural south where he lived under an economy and in a society as different from that in Chicago as would be the peasant status of Europe.

Recalls Plight of Irish

Ald. Kells [28th] compared the situation of the Negro with that of the Irish of several decades ago, when factories displayed placards saying: "Help Wanted. No Irish Need Apply."

"The Irish even then were making a substantial contribution to the welfare and greatness of the city, as the Negroes are now," Kells said.

Stanley Swiec, 47, of 1030 N. Paulina st., a butcher who was injured by the automobile of a hit and run driver Sunday at Archer and Ashland avs., died in County hospital.

James Etherly, 6, Negro, of 3728 Federal st. was killed at 37th st. and Wentworth av. when he ran into the street on his way to school and was struck by a truck. The driver was Charles White, 36, of 3159 Warren av.

ADMITS DRIVING STOLEN CAR FOR THREE BANDITS

Sam Cosentino, 21, of 6330 Justine st., a former marine who lost a foot on Guadalcanal, was held without formal charge last night after, police said, he admitted driving a stolen automobile used in a delicatessen holdup the night of May 23.

Also held is Cosentino's nephew, Joseph Pusateri, 17, of 6445 S. Winchester av., who, with two companions, committed the actual robbery, Cosentino said. Pusateri's two companions are sought.

Cosentino, who receives $81 a month pension, told police he received nothing for his part in the holdup. He is the youngest of 17 children. Three of his brothers are in the army, one in the marines.

AMERICAN BANK NOTE

I should like information on American Bank Note company's earnings record.—A. K.

American Bank Note is an engraver and printer of corporation securities and of paper currency and postage stamps for foreign governments. Its business volume is influenced largely by the amount of new corporate financing and stock exchange activity. Profits, recently the largest since 1930, have been unstable over a period of years.

Reflecting increases in domestic and foreign orders, the trend of net income has been mainly upward since 1939, when a net loss was shown. Net losses also were reported for the three years 1932-'34. In 1944, with corporate financing the largest since 1936, the company's profit was equal to $1.46 a share on the 649,941 common shares, compared with $1.23 in 1943, $1.12 in 1942, $1.18 in 1941, and 22 cents in 1940. In the first 1945 quarter, the profit was 39 cents, compared with 31 cents in the 1944 period.

Common dividends totaled $1 a share in 1944 and 55 cents in 1943. Quoted in the 30s, the stock is highest since 1937, and compares with a low of 5¼ in 1941. The $3 cumulative noncallable preferred, of which 89,913 shares are outstanding, has recently been quoted to yield less than 4 per cent, compared with more than 6 per cent at the 1943 low price. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $8,792,000. There is no funded debt.

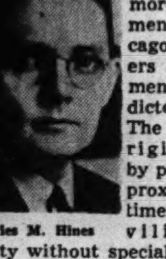
EASING CURBS ON BUILDING TO BOOST REPAIRS

Further Relaxation Expected of WPB

BY AL CHASE

The war production board's relaxation of building restrictions will do much to increase construction and provide more employment in the Chicago area, builders and government officials predicted yesterday. The easing of the rigid limitations by permitting approximately five times more civilian building activity without special federal permission, was believed by some interests to be the first step in a gradual tho steady removal of present construction hurdles.



Charles M. Hines

The new WPB order, however, is directed primarily at rebuilding and alteration construction, it was explained, and will not apply to new home erection or apartment house building because expenditures remain limited to $1,000 per family house or farmhouse and $5,000 for flat buildings for six or more families.

"Beneficial, Long Needed"

"The easing of building restrictions has been needed for a long time and should have an extremely beneficial effect on the entire building industry," said Arthur E. Fossier, president of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association.

"Now the home owner can remodel or add to his house and repair it as much as needed, instead of permitting it to deteriorate as he had been forced to do under former rigid WPB restrictions. That means a step toward rehabilitation of blighted areas by private initiative and should be an aid in solving Chicago's slum problem.

"We builders believe it is the first move in a planned program to make building construction easier until at last all restrictions are removed and the home builder can go as far as he likes.

"The WPB's new order was forecast by our organization several weeks ago when we predicted that limitations would be lifted."

Lumber Conditions Better

Charles M. Hines, president of the Edward Hines Lumber company, believed the new WPB order would improve the building situation. Despite the present scarcity of lumber, he said, conditions were improving steadily, more men were returning to the lumber business, and conditions were expected to change rapidly as production of timber increased.

Edward J. Kelly, Illinois director of the federal housing administration, said he believed the new WPB ruling indicated a trend toward more and more relaxation in building restrictions as soon as materials and man power were available.

The WPB announcement cautioned that the amendment did not lift any of the restrictions governing the sale of lumber and building materials, but did permit owners to undertake about five times [in some cases up to 25 times] as much construction, repair, or alteration as was formerly permitted—if they can get the materials.

U.S. Abandons Big Ore Dock It Never Used

Escanaba, Mich., May 29 [Special]—An ore dock project here on which the New Deal spent about 17 million dollars came to an inglorious end today when China R. Clarke, manager of the Minneapolis office of the Defense Plants corporation, reported that one dock, which cost nearly 11 million dollars, had been disposed of to the central procuring agency of Washington, D. C. Not a carload of ore ever moved over the dock.

Last fall another dock in the project, only partly completed, was dismantled, the lumber being sent to Baraboo, Wis., for a munitions plant and to the Percy Jones hospital at Battle Creek, Mich.

The central procuring agency was organized early in the war to obtain lumber and other materials for government construction jobs. Wrecking of the dock will be done under the supervision of army engineers, who will negotiate a contract with a private wrecking company, Clarke said.

58 Million Project

Original plans called for a 58 million dollar project consisting of six docks capable of handling 60 million tons of ore a year. They were to be an emergency means of shipping ore from the Michigan and Minnesota iron ranges in case the locks at Sault Ste. Marie were damaged by air raids or sabotage.

By December, 1942, army engineers reported work was progressing "satisfactorily" and Escanaba, a city of 14,830, had visions of becoming the world's greatest iron ore shipping center.

A force of 2,700 workmen was employed on the job, seriously affecting local lumbering and pulpwood industries, from which much of the personnel was drawn.

Railroads Spurn It

On April 1, 1943, construction work on one of the two docks then being built was suspended, reportedly because of a shortage of structural timber. Sixteen days later the war production board decided to abandon most of the project, with the result that only one of the six proposed docks was completed.

The Chicago and North Western railway, which operates two ore docks at Escanaba, and the Milwaukee road were regarded as prospects for the purchase of the dock, but they informed the DPC they were not interested in it.

Clarke said that the chemical warfare division probably will receive most of the salvaged lumber for munitions plant construction.

G. M. IS PLANNING TO MAKE 95,000 CARS THIS YEAR

Wilmington, Del., May 29 (AP)—General Motors corporation will produce about 95,000 cars under the 200,000 quota established by the government for the last three months of 1945 provided the materials are available, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, said at the annual stockholders meeting today. He said he believed the materials could be obtained without too much difficulty. The cars will be modified 1942 models.

General Motors will not produce an entirely new post-war car for about two years, Sloan said, asserting the public cannot expect a $500 automobile. The price of the new Chevrolet will be kept as low as possible, he said.

Sloan said he believed the next step in motor car production would be the release by the government of materials to build about 2 million cars and at the end of the war in the Pacific all restrictions would be removed.

BILL TO EXTEND OPA WINS FIRST TILT IN SENATE

Committee Passes It Unchanged

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 29—The administration today won the first round in its battle to continue the office of price administration without change when the senate banking committee approved a one year extension of the stabilization act without amendment. The vote was 10 to 5.

The committee voted to report the bill favorably to the senate after it had rejected two amendments to force drastic revisions of methods of determining price ceilings. The amendments were strongly opposed by OPA Administrator Bowles and Stabilization Director Davis at a closed session of the committee this morning.

Senators Taft [R., O.] and Thomas [D., Okla.], authors of the defeated amendments, announced they would introduce their proposals when senate debate on the bill opens next week. Both predicted debate would last at least a week.

Expect Long House Hearings

All government price and wage controls will expire June 30 unless the extension bill is passed by that date. The house will have to act after the senate considers the measure. Extended hearings before the house banking committee are expected because more than 150 requests to be heard on the bill have been received by that body.

Taft's amendment would compel OPA to allow processors and manufacturers a profit margin equal to what they received in 1941 on an industry basis. Thomas' proposal also would require pre-war profit margins, but would base them on individual companies and include only processors. His measure was drafted specifically to aid the meat industry.

"I cannot see how Democrats can support what has been done by the OPA," said Thomas, who heads the senate agriculture committee. "Too many mistakes have been made and too much dissatisfaction caused by OPA regulations.

Terms Anderson Only Hope

"The latest OPA move in the meat industry, for example, has been to limit the beef kill by small slaughterers, a move to force beef cattle into federally inspected slaughter houses. The result is the small slaughterers have cattle on hand which they cannot kill, while the meat shortage continues.

"I guess our only hope is to wait until Rep. Anderson [D., N. M.] takes office as secretary of agriculture and war food administrator. We will see what he can do."

Sen. Hickenlooper [R., Ia.], who with Taft is a member of the banking committee, said the Republicans on the committee will file a "vigorous" minority report. The votes on the amendments and on reporting the bill were along party lines except for Sen. Tobey [R., N. H.], who voted with the Democrats.

Several War Plants to Lay Off Thousands

Cleveland, O., May 29 (AP)—Jack & Heintz, Inc., described as a workers' utopia during the war's peak production years because of unusually high wages, war bond bonuses, free watches, and lunches, today asked voluntary resignations from half its personnel—some 4,300 temporary "associates."

Not all who voluntarily submit their resignations will be released immediately, but "we have to be prepared for present and expected cutbacks," said President William S. Jack.

Resignations are not being asked of the company's regular associates, Jack said. The appeal was directed to those who were engaged in business or a profession before the war and who entered the plants for patriotic or other reasons.

Two Curtiss Plants to Close

New York, May 29 (AP)—G. W. Vaughan, president of the Curtiss-Wright corporation, announced today that army cutback schedules would close the company's plants in St. Louis, Mo., and Louisville, Ky., by the end of July. They are owned by Defense Plants corporation. Production schedules for the Columbus, O., plant are unchanged and two plants in Buffalo, N. Y., will reduce their output gradually to about two-thirds of present peak production.

Commando transport plane output will be concentrated at Buffalo. The Columbus plant manufactures the Helldiver dive bomber and other navy aircraft.

Subcontracts held by the St. Louis plant and a limited number of the plant's 12,000 workers will be absorbed into other Curtiss-Wright plants, Vaughan said.

Allison to Lay Off 4,000

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29 (AP)—E. B. Newill, general manager of the Allison division of General Motors corporation, announced today 4,000 to 5,000 employes would be laid off in June and July, but that about half this number would be reëmployed in August and September.

The reduction was caused by cancellation of army contracts for P-63 fighter planes and a discontinuance of Allison reciprocating engines.

STEER MARKET AVERAGE SETS PEAK FOR MAY

The cattle shortage at the stock yards was intensified yesterday as receipts dipped to the lowest level for a Tuesday since last November. Only 6,000 head arrived, 23 per cent below the average of the last 10 weeks. Steer prices generally were 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher, bringing the price average to $16.50, a record peak for May.

Only 11,000 hogs arrived, including direct shipments to packers. Prices were mostly at ceiling levels.

The light supply of sheep and lambs brought steady prices, with the best wool lambs at $15.50, and top shorne ewes at $8.00.

NEW YORK'S CIGARET LINES WILL SHORTEN SOON; QUOTAS RAISED

New York, May 29 (AP)—Two large cigaret manufacturers have increased their quotas to distributors here and indications are that more soon will follow to ease the tight supply situation, trade sources said today.

American Tobacco company has increased its allocation to 80 per cent of the average for June, 1944, compared with this month's quota of 50 per cent of a year earlier. Philip Morris & Co. has increased its allocation 50 per cent above the current quota, effective June 1.

SOME EFFECT IN CHICAGO

O. G. Zemann, spokesman for Philip Morris & Co. in Chicago, said increased cigaret allotments of his company would be "noticeable" to the average smoker next week.

He explained the larger allotment was made possible because "cigaret supplies in Europe are pretty well piled up, and the government is not asking for so many to send over there." He also said labor is not quite as scarce as previously.

A district representative of P. Lorillard company said, however, no increase in his company's cigarets was in sight for June. Representatives of other companies were not available for comment.

Assail WLB, NLRB Help to Build Union

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—Austin Anson, manager of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers, asserted today the national labor relations board was an "organizing medium" for unions recruiting members in Rio Grande valley fruit and vegetable packing plants.

He told the house committee investigating government agencies he believed neither NLRB nor the war labor board should be a "party to coercive action" and charged "They very definitely acted as an organizing medium."

Yield to Avoid Costs

"Companies are sometimes forced into situations where they can fight for their rights only at great expense," he said. "There have been cases where, rather than go thru a long costly court fight, the management gave in to the unions."

As an example he told of a case in which a union filed charges of unfair labor practices against the Winn-Beckwith Packing company of San Juan, Tex. The company reinstated six men it had fired because the cost of such a settlement was $300 against a prospective expense of $3,000 in a court fight. It alleged incompetency as a reason for the discharge. The unions contended it was because of union activities.

"Expected" to Deal Thru CIO

Scott Toothaker, attorney for the Texas growers organization, testified that the NLRB regional office in Fort Worth had favored the unions. He said the director, Edmund Elliott, had outlined ways members of the group were "expected" to negotiate with employees thru local CIO unions.

Ivan McDaniel, representing California fruit growers and packers, asserted earlier that he believed the NLRB and WLB resorted to "illegal" practices to aid unions in organizing packing plant workers.

STOCK MARKET RISES AGAIN IN BIGGER VOLUME

Some Favorites Dip Against Trend

MARKETS CLOSED

Securities and commodities markets and banks will be closed today in observance of Decoration day. Live stock and Canadian markets will be open.

New York, May 29 (AP)—The stock market made its fifth successive average advance today despite scattered selling that shifted many recent favorites to the minus ranks. Dealings were fast at intervals but tended to slow when prices wavered.

Closing gains of fractions to a point or so were well in the majority and there were a few larger gains. Transfers were 1,600,000 shares, largest since May 7.

Some Lighten for Holiday

Cutbacks and reports of unemployment were largely ignored as investors sought dividend payers and maintained their optimism over peace time business prospects. Accounts were lightened in some cases, however, in preparation for tomorrow's holiday.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.3 to 66.6, highest since Aug. 25, 1937. The industrial, rail, and utility averages set new highs.

The star performer was American Telephone which shot up 4 points in reflection of the company's big refunding program. Other gainers included Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, Reading, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, Consolidated Edison, Caterpillar Tractor, United States Gypsum, Owens-Illinois, and Bethlehem Steel.

SOME BONDS STRONG

New York, May 29 (AP)—The bond market developed many extremely strong spots today as buyers sought favored issues and neglected the general run of corporation securities.

American Telephone 3s rose to a new high at 130, up 3¾ points. Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s rose 4 points to a new high at 52 on heavy volume and the 4s touched a new peak at 46⅝, up 2⅝.

Iowa Central refunding 4s moved up 3 points to 11½ and Morris and Essex 5s gained 3¼ at 86. Ontario and Western General 4s and refunding 4s were up 2 to 3 points on heavy turnover.

CHICAGO RISE EXTENDED

Prices continued to advance yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange with turnover again at 43,000 shares. Volume leaders were Aviation corporation, Miller and Hart, and Chicago corporation, up fractions, Commonwealth Edison, down ⅛, and Central and South West Utilities, unchanged.

10,000 ARE IDLE IN SIX STRIKES AS 15,000 RETURN

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

More than 10,000 workers remained away from their jobs yesterday in six strikes in various parts of the country. Another 15,000 who had been idle returned to work in Detroit, Berwick, Pa., and Buffalo.

Three plants of Revere Copper and Brass, Rome, N. Y., were closed by a strike of 3,400 members of the Interstate Copper and Brass Workers union, affiliate of the Confederated Union of America.

Production of parts for Super Fortresses was halted at five St. Louis plants of the McDonnell Aircraft company by a strike of 1,250 AFL machinists and 1,550 other workers were made idle. Other strikes included 3,300 in the Gadsden, Ala., Goodyear tire plant; 1,375 American Can company employes in Jersey City, 1,000 Aluminum Company of America employes in Detroit, and 400 transit employes in Scranton, Pa.

Wallace Says He Has Backed Free Business

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of commerce, paid high tribute today to "free competition" in business and denied to the house small business committee that he has held any philosophy contrary to this economic principle.

A Republican member of the committee asked Wallace whether he had experienced "a change of heart." The secretary said he had not—that he always believed in free competition where it worked efficiently.

Termed "Regulatory Agency"

The discussion of his economic philosophy developed when he asserted:

"Small business injects into the blood stream of industry and commerce the health giving properties of free competition. Free competition is the great regulatory agency which ideally causes industry and trade to adapt themselves to social purpose.

"As free competition disappears from our economy, its place is inevitably taken by government regulation. Complete disappearance of free competition, then, means eventually complete regulatory control by the state with all the dangers that implies to the continunance of the ideals of American democracy."

Wallace said his plea for small business "is not based on any antipathy toward large business as such, for I fully realize that, in some fields, production can be carried on economically only by operating on a large scale."

Reads from Wallace's Book

Rep. Hall [R., N. Y.] told Wallace his statement did not seem to jibe with assertions he had made in the past. Hall read from Wallace's book "Whose Constitution?" which the congressman said referred to a system of "free competition and the devil take the hindmost" and in another place mentioned a "coöperative commonwealth."

Wallace said he believed in a coöperative way of life where it is most efficient and the corporation way of life where it is most efficient. By "coöperative commonwealth" he said he meant an understanding among business, agriculture, labor, and other elements on things affecting the common welfare.

Urges Guarantee of Loans

Altho giving no details of tax revisions he said were needed after the war, Wallace made two specific recommendations for immediate encouragement to small business:

1. Government guarantee of long term loans by private financing institutions, to provide capital financing to new and established small business enterprises.

2. Immediate revision of taxes to permit a larger "plow back" of capital by small business. He suggested increasing the excess profits tax exemption from $10,000 to $25,000 and other methods of improving the cash position of small business as recommended yesterday by the commerce department's small business advisory committee.

MILWAUKEE LINE 'HIAWATHA' HAS 10TH BIRTHDAY

The Milwaukee road yesterday observed the 10th anniversary of the first regular run of its Hiawatha streamliner between Chicago and the Twin Cities. The train has transported 3,951,766 paying passengers and produced $17,963,662 gross revenue.

H. A. Scandrett, chief executive officer, said at a birthday celebration in Union station that the railroads never dreamed high speed streamlined daylight trains would be the success they have been. Originally a five car train, the Hiawatha frequently has had 15 cars.

Both steam and diesel-electric locomotives are used to power the various Hiawathas, but with delivery of five 4,0000 horse power diesel-electrics in October all will be diesel powered.

The Union Pacific, North Western, and Southern Pacific roads announced yesterday that they have ordered jointly more than $2,500,000 worth of new diesel-electrics to supplement locomotives in passenger service between Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Portland.

EXPECT LESSER RUSH TO OBTAIN CIVILIAN GOODS

Stability in Buying Power Is Urged

The post-war demand for consumer goods probably will not be as large as is generally estimated and the government can and should stabilize purchasing power after the war, Harley L. Lutz, professor of public finance at Princeton university, said yesterday.

Harley L. Lutz

Writing in the Tax Review, published by the Tax Foundation, Lutz asserted the potential purchasing power "hanging over the consumer market as of the end of 1944" is likely to be approximately one-fifth of the 121 billion 500 million dollars of "liquid savings" estimated recently by the securities and exchange commission.

What Total Includes

The SEC total included currency and bank deposits, 51 billion 600 million; savings and loan deposits, 2 billion 400 million; insurance and pension reserves, 26 billion 200 million, and securities and United States savings bonds, 41 billion 300 million.

"The first category of currency and bank deposits is, of course, spendable on short notice, but there is a reason for thinking that this will not occur in the consumers' goods market," Lutz said.

"According to the SEC, a substantial portion of demand deposits and individual savings generally is attributable to the owners of unincorporated business. No indication is given as to how large the substantial portion is, but the control of that portion by business men suggests that much, if not all of it, will be spent for reconversion where necessary, for renewal of stocks of materials, supplies, finished goods, modernization, and to some extent in new business ventures. It is not likely in the first instance to be poured directly into the consumer market."

Much in Investments

Lutz assumed that half the bank deposits will be absorbed in unincorporated businesses, leaving 25 billion 800 million dollars. He estimated, however, that half this will be invested in some manner, and figured the amount of bank deposits likely to come into the consumer market at 12 billion 900 millions.

To this he added 1 billion 200 million dollars from savings and loan funds, 8 billion 700 million from war bonds, and 3 billion 300 million from other securities, making a total of 26 billion 100 million.

"Whether the people will release their savings that have been earmarked for consumption in a flood or in an orderly flow will depend largely upon their views about the future purchasing power of these funds," he said. "A lack of confidence would lead to efforts to convert as much as possible of the 120 billion dollars of so-called liquid savings into goods. The maintenance of confidence in the stability of our purchasing power is evidently a responsibility of government."

GRAINS FINISH STRONG AFTER SLUMP IN RYE

Grain futures closed strong yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after an unsettled opening when rye dropped as much as 2 cents a bushel as a result of government charges Monday that certain operators cornered the rye market in 1944.

Stop-loss sale orders in rye were uncovered on the way down, but the prices rallied later on short covering and general commission house buying to close higher. Trading was below Monday's volume when all rye deliveries reached seasonal highs.

Wheat futures closed 1⅛ to 2¼ cents a bushel higher, corn gained ⅛ to ⅜, oats climbed 1⅞ to 2⅛, and rye was ⅛ to ¾ higher.

MEMORIAL DAY — 1945

Chicago Daily Tribune
THE WORLDS GREATEST NEWSPAPER
WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1945

American heroes who have died in the service of their country are being honored today—Memorial day. In the European theater orders have been carried out to beautify 50 new cemeteries in which rest the dead of World War II. Special services are to be read in memory of 37,000 Americans whose graves were in permanent cemeteries "over there" before the present war began. Above is a general view of vast Henri Chapelle cemetery for American dead in Belgium near Aachen, Germany, with its flag flying at half-staff.
